

Midpoints

A Kabbalistic Compendium of Meanings for Astrological Midpoints

John Sandbach

Contents

Introduction

A Dictionary of

Midpoints

Planets activating the Sun/Moon midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Mercury midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Venus midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Mars midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Jupiter midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Chiron midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Uranus midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Neptune midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Pluto midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Node midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Ascendant midpoint

Planets activating the Sun/Midheaven midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Mercury midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Venus midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Mars midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Jupiter midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Saturn midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Chiron midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Uranus midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Neptune midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Pluto midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Node midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Ascendant midpoint

Planets activating the Moon/Midheaven
midpoint Planets activating the Mercury/Venus
midpoint Planets activating the Mercury/Mars
midpoint Planets activating the Mercury/Jupiter
midpoint Planets activating the Mercury/Saturn
midpoint Planets activating the Mercury/Chiron
midpoint Planets activating the Mercury/Uranus
midpoint Planets activating the Mercury/
Neptune midpoint Planets activating the
Mercury/Pluto midpoint Planets activating the
Mercury/Node midpoint Planets activating the
Mercury/Ascendant midpoint

Planets activating the Mercury/Midheaven
midpoint Planets activating the Venus/Mars
midpoint Planets activating the Venus/Jupiter
midpoint Planets activating the Venus/Saturn
midpoint Planets activating the Venus/Chiron
midpoint Planets activating the Venus/Uranus
midpoint Planets activating the Venus/Neptune
midpoint Planets activating the Venus/Pluto
midpoint Planets activating the Venus/Node
midpoint Planets activating the Venus/
Ascendant midpoint Planets activating the
Venus/Midheaven midpoint Planets activating
the Mars/Jupiter midpoint Planets activating the Mars/Saturn midpoint Planets activating the
Mars/Chiron midpoint Planets activating the
Mars/Uranus midpoint Planets activating the
Mars/Neptune midpoint Planets activating the
Mars/Pluto midpoint Planets activating the
Mars/Node midpoint Planets activating the
Mars/Ascendant midpoint Planets activating the
Mars/Midheaven midpoint Planets activating the Jupiter/Saturn midpoint Planets activating the Jupiter/Chiron midpoint Planets activating the Jupiter/Uranus midpoint Planets activating the Jupiter/Neptune midpoint Planets activating the

Jupiter/Pluto midpoint Planets activating the Jupiter/Node midpoint Planets activating the Jupiter/Ascendant midpoint Planets activating
the Jupiter/Midheaven midpoint Planets
activating the Saturn/Chiron midpoint Planets
activating the Saturn/Uranus midpoint Planets
activating the Saturn/Neptune midpoint Planets
activating the Saturn/Node midpoint Planets
activating the Saturn/Ascendant midpoint
Planets activating the Saturn/Midheaven
midpoint Planets activating the Chiron/Uranus
midpoint Planets activating the Chiron/Neptune
midpoint Planets activating the Chiron/Pluto
midpoint

Planets activating the Chiron/Node midpoint
Planets activating the Chiron/Ascendant
midpoint Planets activating the Chiron/
Midheaven midpoint Planets activating the Uranus/Neptune midpoint Planets activating the Uranus/Pluto midpoint Planets activating the Uranus/Node midpoint Planets activating the Uranus/Ascendant midpoint Planets activating
the Uranus/Midheaven midpoint Planets
activating the Neptune/Pluto midpoint Planets
activating the Neptune/Node midpoint Planets
activating the Neptune/Ascendant midpoint
Planets activating the Neptune/Midheaven
midpoint Planets activating the Pluto/Node
midpoint Planets activating the Pluto/
Ascendant midpoint Planets activating the Pluto/
Midheaven midpoint Planets activating the
Node/Ascendant midpoint Planets activating the Node/Midheaven midpoint Planets activating the
Ascendant/Midheaven midpoint

Introduction

You can have an astrology without signs or houses - that's essentially what the cosmo- biologists and Uranian astrologers invented. But you cannot have an astrology without planets. Planets are truly indispensable to astrology, for the signs and houses do not move in relationships to each other, and so are completely static. The planets, though, move, they are the activators of the signs and houses, and astrology is the study of their movements.

Now I myself love signs and houses, but, if you were going to do without them you would want tools that would describe planetary movement and interrelationship in as subtle and detailed a manner as possible, and that's exactly what midpoints are all about.

I know many astrologers who don't use midpoints, or who don't use them much. This is unfortunate, for midpoints can provide a wealth of rich information concerning charts. One of the reasons midpoints aren't used more extensively is because there has been so little written about them, and much of it that has been written is not very good, or very helpful, which is why I wrote this book.

Probably the most famous book on midpoints written in modern times is Reinhold Ebertin's "Combination of Stellar Influences," which is the basis of the type of astrology known as cosmobiology. Ebertin derived many of his ideas, including midpoints, from an earlier astrologer known as Alfred Witte, who founded the Hamburg school of astrology and who was the person who revived the use of midpoints in the 20th century.

Witte also postulated the existence of invisible planets beyond Neptune (which was the farthest away known planet in Witte's time, Pluto not having yet been discovered), and determined speeds for these trans-Neptunians, as he called them, and set up ephemerides for them. For this he was ridiculed, and unfortunately as so often happens when a person becomes ridiculed for one thing it destroys their credibility on all levels. I see two problems going on here: (1) Witte was mixing scientific observation with mysticism, which I think is great but which many people could not handle at the time, and (2) all this work, both that of Witte and Ebertin, took a very long time to get to America because of World War II and the American hatred and suspicion of Germans.

As I see it the German contribution to modern astrology has been immense and has not yet been fully assimilated or appreciated.

I'm sure much more could be said about all this, but I wish instead to concentrate on the use of midpoints per se, and so will leave further historical inquiry to those who wish to research it.

One way to calculate midpoints is to convert all planetary positions to a number between 1 and 360. For instance, since Gemini is the third sign of the zodiac there are two whole signs before it, and since each sign has 30 degrees the degrees of Gemini will run from 60 - 90. I have Mercury in 19 degrees and 05 minutes of Gemini, so when this is converted to a number without the sign designation it becomes 79 degrees and 05 minutes.

Once all planets are converted to this format then one can add any two planets together and divide that sum by two and the resulting number will be the numerical equivalent of the midpoint between those two planets. For this reason midpoints are often referred to as "half-sums," for indeed they are the sum of any pair of planets divided by two.

The midpoints in this compendium are set up in a directory that follows a particular order for the planets and personal points. That order is: Sun - Moon - Mercury - Venus - Mars - Jupiter - Saturn - Chiron - Uranus - Neptune - Pluto - North Node - Ascendant - Midheaven. Given this order, any pair of points or personal points is always referred to by putting the planet or point that falls earlier in the order first. So for instance one says: Sun/Neptune, and not Neptune/Sun.

This order has been set up so that you can look up a particular pair just as you would look up a word in the dictionary by following alphabetical order, but in this case you're following planetary order. Once you've looked up a pair you can then read the "Principle" of the pair, meaning what psychological/physical principles it governs, and then the "Process" which describes in active terms what it does. Then you can look below these two things and find all the planets (except for the two in question) in order, and read how each one will both affect this pair and be affected by this pair when they are aspecting that pair's midpoint.

As you grow in your astrological abilities you will want to familiarize yourself more and more with the meanings of each pair of planets, so that not only have you assimilated concepts for each individual planet but concepts as well for all the pairs that the planets and personal points can make.

As for aspects to midpoints I use the traditional cosmobiological ones, which is to say that a planet can conjunct, semi-square, square, sesquiquadrate (a square and a half, or 135 degrees) and oppose a midpoint to affect it. I'm sure a planet can also affect a midpoint through other aspects, but so far I've never explored those subtleties.

If you are a beginning student I'll give you an easy way to recognize these little-used aspects (semi-square and sesquiquadrate). First you need to know your way around the zodiac, meaning you have to know the signs in order, both backward and forward and immediately be able to name the signs that are in opposition and square to every one of the zodiacal signs. Then for any given planetary position all you have to do is add 15 degrees to it and then add a sign, or subtract 15 degrees from it and subtract a sign to derive the position that is in semisquare to it. For instance, let's take 13 degrees Gemini. Add to it 15 and you get 28, and then add a whole sign and you get 28 Cancer. So 28 Cancer is semisquare to 13 Gemini, and to derive the other semisquare to it all you have to do is think of what would be the square to 28 Cancer that is earlier in the zodiac, which is, of course 28 Aries, which is the other semi-square to 13 Gemini. The sesquiquadrates to 13 Gemini will then be the oppositions to the two semisquares, that is, 28 Capricorn and 28 Libra.

Keep doing this calculation of semisquares and sesquiquadrates in your mind until you're comfortable with it. I always tell students it's nowhere near as complicated as Latin verb conjugation

I think many students and practitioners don't use midpoints because they feel overwhelmed by them - they're so many of them in a chart. Keep in mind, though, that you don't need to read every midpoint in a chart. A good thing to do is that if you're looking at a particular aspect in a chart and want to know more about it you can find where its midpoint is and see if there's anything aspecting that midpoint. You can also look at progressed planets affecting natal midpoints, which I have found to be a wonderful technique. You can also read degree symbols for midpoints to get more information on how the pair of planets is relating to each other, and you can look at transits to midpoints. A good place to start is to put the Sun/Moon midpoint in a chart and watch progressions and transits to it. You can also look at the moment when Mercury goes retrograde and see if its stationary point falls on any midpoint. You can also see if a New Moon falls on any particular midpoint and this can give you much more information about the effect it will have.

Always remember that what empowers a planet/midpoint combination is its closeness to exactitude, so for instance if one planet is within 7 minutes of arc of aspecting a midpoint and another planet is, say, a degree and 44 minutes of arc away from being in exact aspect to a midpoint it is the first of these two examples that is by far the more powerful. I don't think that oppositions and conjunctions to midpoints are any more powerful than any of the other aspects to them - closeness of orb is of far more significance.

I hope all of you who use this book learn from it. Even if you don't use midpoints the book is a good source for understanding planetary pairs by reading the "Principle" and "Process" for each one. If any questions come up for you, or you would like to give me feedback feel free to contact me at jsandbach@kc.rr.com.

A Dictionary of Midpoints

Planets activating the Sun/Moon midpoint

Principle: The flow of energy and information from the subconscious to the conscious and the process of finding meaning and order in it. The balance between work (Sun) and play (Moon), business (Sun) and pleasure (Moon), objective (Sun) and subjective (Moon). One's general level of vitality and all the factors that affect it.

Process: One becomes aware of each and every emotion as it arises, accepts all of them, sees their value and allows them to become integrated into one's conscious reality.

Mercury: Ability to balance feeling with thinking when communicating. To communicate with a rich aliveness and vitality. When one is able to think and communicate effectively one tends to feel balanced and energized. One's finds meaning in life through gathering information and using it in contexts where it can be appreciated. Difficulties communicating can upset one's balance and deplete one's vitality.

Venus: To feel a full and complete love when one loves. To be around beauty feeds one energy. One needs to be appreciated as well as to appreciate if a health and vitality are to be maintained. Good relationships and fulfilling romance make one feel happy and complete in body and soul.

Mars: Tremendous vitality manifesting through one's actions. Whole-hearted assertiveness. The ability to balance feeling and thinking when one asserts oneself. One feels that life has meaning when one has things to work on and do. Challenges can be very meaningful and vitalizing.

Jupiter: Whole-hearted enthusiasm. Thriving on hope and optimism. One is vitalized by learning and philosophy and anything which enriches and expands one. One may possibly get involved in too many things and/or over-extend oneself, and this can drain the vitality and generally upset one's balance.

Saturn: The tendency to conserve one's energy and to desire fewer and deeper involvements. One is vitalized by simplicity, spirituality, and by being in an organized and meaningfully structured environment. One assimilates information coming from the subconscious slowly, and tends to delve deeply into ideas, for one is always searching for the deeper meanings inherent in everything. At worst one inhibits one's energy by being afraid of making mistakes or of failing, and may tend to be overly cautious.

Chiron: One has the ability to bring new aliveness to other people, and to revitalize whatever one comes in contact with. Healing by bringing to light the contents of the subconscious.

Uranus: To direct one's energies in an independent or sporadic manner, and usually along unique or unusual lines. A whole-hearted love of speculation and innovation. A genius for bringing to light energies in the subconscious. One is vitalized by being able to live freely and by following one's own path above and beyond the restrictions of social demands and any limitations that others might try to impose.

Neptune: One's vitality is strongly influenced by one's psychic sensitivity. One is strongly energized by being able to pursue one's ideals and visions. Negative psychic energy may drain the vitality and cause psychic disturbances. At times confusion may feel as if it is taking over one's whole life. Vitality and health are enhanced through visualization, positive use of the imagination, homeopathy, meditation, etc.

Pluto: The tendency to be obsessive in the use of one's energy and to be drawn with great intensity toward certain activities which one may engage in compulsively. Drastic changes in one's vitality level. One may experience great tension and conflict between one's emotions and one's conscious, objective self. The need to acknowledge one's emotions and to be truthful about how one feels without allowing those emotions to overtake one. The need to find positive and productive outlets for one's copious amounts of emotional energy.

Node: The need to whole-heartedly embrace new experiences. Over-attachment to the past depletes one's vitality. The ability to involve oneself in one's connections with others in a complete way and to derive a fulfilling sense of meaning and purpose from them.

Ascendant: The ability to project much vitality through one's personality. The need to feel good about oneself and to see one's self as effective and viable. One yearns to be involved in meaningful relationships. The ability to throw oneself wholeheartedly into the affairs of the moment. The personality projects a completeness and aliveness that others can be very drawn to.

Midheaven: Dedication, body and soul, to one's spiritual path and/or to one's career. One wants to feel that one is a meaningful and viable part of society. The desire to master something and to elevate oneself in the world, and/or the desire to grow spiritually and to attain to higher levels of consciousness.

Planets activating the Sun/Mercury midpoint

Principle: The purposeful organizing of thoughts and the ability to rank ideas in terms of their relative importance. The ability to communicate objectively. The importance of one's ideas. One's own ideas. Egotistical thinking. Thinking for oneself.

Process: One perceives the relative value of each and every idea and is able to see them as a part of a larger, meaningful pattern. One prioritizes when one communicates, which makes the communication clear and meaningful.

Moon: The emotional need for clear and objective thinking, and/or to speak of what is important. A tendency to place undue importance on an idea or ideas due to feeling insecure or vulnerable or because of some other emotion. The emotional need to think for oneself and to come to one's own conclusions, and yet the tendency to be impressionable to the thoughts and ideas of others, until such time as one finds the confidence to make up one's own mind.

Venus: Purposeful thinking carried off with artfulness, persuasiveness, and/or smoothness. A love of organizing ideas. One finds it easy to think objectively. A need for objective, rational communication in relationships. To be in love with one's own ideas. An appreciation of meaningful communication.

Mars: To assert what one thinks is important. An aggressiveness that comes across as egotistical thinking and communicating. The tendency to always do things with a conscious and well thought-out purpose in mind. To be forcefully opinionated.

Jupiter: To express one's objective ideas and thoughts about goals with exuberance and enthusiasm. To have many opinions on many different topics. Success resulting from a confident manner of communicating. One is eager to find clever solutions to problems when it comes to working toward one's goals.

Saturn: A slow, careful, or patient way of expressing what one thinks is important. To be frustrated about others not seeing the importance of one's ideas. The ability to figure out what needs to be said, and the ability to say it in a clear and simple way. A sensitivity to one's ideas being ignored or slighted. As more and more time goes on one becomes clearer and clearer about which ideas are most important to the self.

Chiron: To heal through experiencing deeper and deeper meaning in one's ideas, and/or through communicating the spiritual purpose of life. To heal the tendency the ego has to distort one's thinking.

Uranus: An ability to bring to light ideas that others did not see or expect. An unusual manner of expressing one's own ideas. Other people may think that the importance you place on certain ideas is strange and/or unusual. To be highly independent and/or original in one's thinking.

Neptune: A refined and subtle way of communicating which, at its worst, could be misunderstood or overlooked by other people. An unformed or confused way of putting one's ideas across. To be uncertain about one's own opinions, which most naturally always tend to be colored or based on one's intuition.

Pluto: One's nervous system experiences stress due to too much intensity. The tendency to obsess on certain ideas, and/or to be egotistical about one's own thoughts. Until one arrives at a true sense of which ideas are most important there are nagging doubts and a driving urge to collect more information or to come to a resolution.

Node: The need to allow oneself to embrace new ideas. The need to connect with others with whom one can share one's ideas - and not just people who will superficially agree with you, but those who can help you to evolve your powers of thinking and communicating.

Ascendant: A flair for communicating ideas by expressing them with a highly personal stamp. Relationships may be harmed by communicating that is too egotistical and/or self-centered. To think objectively about one's own identity and outer appearance.

Midheaven: The desire to make one's ideas public. The need to align one's ideas and thinking with one's spiritual purpose. The desire for one's own personal ideas to have authority and credibility in the world. One is working in this lifetime toward attaining confidence in communicating.

Planets activating the Sun/Venus midpoint

Principle: Love as a vitalizing and meaningful experience. Art. Aesthetics. Self-love both in the neurotic and healthy sense. One's values as they relate to one's long-term goals. To be egotistical about one's own attractiveness and/or value.

Process: To see the enduring and ultimately meaningful worth that lies underneath all passing, temporary and surface attractions.

Moon: The feeling that one needs to be surrounded by beauty and that one actually feeds on it as if it were food. Beauty creates a sense of security. One who is very impressionable to beauty in the arts, and all other forms. One feels emotionally fulfilled by a meaningful love relationship.

Mercury: To communicate in an artful manner and in a way that makes others aware of the value of what one speaks of. An appreciation of the literary arts. To communicate in a loving way that supports and enhances the self-esteem of the other person. To be clever in the expression of love.

Mars: To assert oneself in a way that is centered, artful and smooth. The desire to create art or beauty. A passion for the arts, as well as passion in love - usually manifesting in a controlled, centered way. Negatively, a tendency to assert oneself in a selfishly egotistical way. Smugness.

Jupiter: To have expansive, broad tastes in the arts. To be very generous in the expression of affection and possibly willing to compensate for the shortcomings of the loved one. An enthusiasm for sharing with others in a meaningful way.

Enthusiastic support of all that one finds truly beautiful and meaningful.

Saturn: To feel shy or afraid of expressing love. One takes love very seriously. One is attracted to minimalism in the realm of aesthetics, or to austere, ponderous or heavy sorts of artistic expression. To feel uncertain about one's attractiveness and/or worth. The older you get the more confident you are about your own values.

Chiron: To experience deeper and deeper meaning in love. To free the ego up to feel greater love. To tune people into the beauty that is everywhere and to induce them to open up to the vitality and meaning inherent in it. One often finds beauty and meaning in things that others would not normally deem important or attractive

Uranus: To need and want independence in a love relationship. To be attracted to the unusual in the arts, and possibly to be in love with unusual or original people. To want to experience love with no strings attached. . A genius for bringing the worth that is hidden in things to light.

Neptune: Idealism in love. To have fantasies of love. To be unrealistic about love.

To have highly refined aesthetic tastes. To be confused about love. To have fantasies about one's own importance, or delusions concerning one's own worth and beauty.

Pluto: To love extremism. Going too far in a love relationship. Obsessive love.

Finding the person that pushes all your buttons. At some point there may be a drastic shift in one's sense of what is valuable and meaningful in life. Sometimes there can be ex treme materialism, that is, an obsessive placing of value on objects.

Node: The need to share love with other people. A love of connecting with others.

Negative karma returning from selfishness and/or egotism. The need to evolve one's positive self-love and one's ability to see what is most important in life.

Ascendant: One's demeanor exudes love. A polished, artful way of presenting oneself to the world. There can be an aura of selfish complacency about this person, or the projection of a powerful love nature that vitalizes everything around it.

Midheaven: To love the world is one's life path. To channel beauty in the world is one's life's work. Inducing others to appreciate the meaning and value of life.

Planets activating the Sun/Mars midpoint

Principle: Purposeful assertiveness. The ability to gear one's actions toward long-range considerations. The ability to take on meaningful battles. Too much effort depletes vitality. Driving oneself.

Process: The process of actively dismantling the negative ego so that the spiritual self is able to completely and perfectly reflect the spiritual light. The active sorting of all ex periences in terms of their relative importance so that one may continually realign one with one's purpose. An emotional need to work toward goals and to have meaningful activities to pursue.

Moon: The emotional need to do things on one's own. Feeling secure when one has a long-range project on which to work. Security derived from being a leader or being in charge. Nurturing others by taking charge of them or telling them what to do.

Mercury: Constructive thinking that take the long-range into account. An egotistically aggressive way of communicating. Cleverness in figuring out how to actualize one's goals.

Venus: To express love in a vital and assertive way. To actively show one's appreciation. To be able to get much done in a smooth and easy way. An appreciation of discipline.

The tendency to find work relaxing.

Jupiter: To have much enthusiasm for getting tasks accomplished. To overdo things, or to do too much. Confidence in one's ability to get things done. Enthusiasm translated into accomplishment.

Saturn: Holding back on asserting oneself, which can cause much pent-up energy to accumulate. The need to go about accomplishing things in a careful, patient, or slow manner. A lack of self-confidence when one is trying to accomplish something.

Chiron: You intuitively communicate to people the meaning and purpose inherent in the conflicts they are experiencing. Your energy encourages others to take steps toward their goals.

Uranus: Getting things accomplished erratically or sporadically. Waiting for the inspiration to come before one accomplishes something. A genius for finding ways to accomplish goals. The tendency to work hard on one's own independent projects.

Neptune: To feel unable to get things accomplished. Lack of vitality due to one's subtle energies being out of balance, or maybe due to the draining of one's subtle energies.

Pluto: A do or die attitude toward accomplishing one's goals. A desire to do something important for the world either because one wants to positively transform it, or simply as a means of acquiring power. Hard work that will stop at nothing.

Node: Wanting one's long-range efforts to contribute to progress. Wanting to connect with people who one can work with toward meaningful goals. An egotistical way of asserting oneself can lead to negative results. One evolves through self-assertion and through being positively willful.

Ascendant: One's identity is formed around the need for important and/or meaningful accomplishment. A forcefully confident personality. The desire to engage in meaningful activity as a means of relating to others. A tendency to want to boss or direct the other person in relationships.

Midheaven: Working hard to attain one's goals. Security which comes from working hard to attain long-range goals. To be a leader in one's career. One builds a reputation for being a hard worker or leader. To argue about what is important in a public way.

Planets activating the Sun/Jupiter midpoint

Principle: Optimism concerning the reaching of goals. Vibrant enthusiasm with a meaningful focus. Self-confidence which leads to success. Having too many agendas. Either being arrogantly self-confident or seeming that way. Seeming egotism as a cover for feelings of worthlessness. This combination often causes residual jealousy coming from other people.

Process: The continual integration of new material and ideas into one's overall vision of life's meaning and purpose. The gradual transcending of those negative emotions and beliefs which serve to maintain the ego.

Moon: The emotional need to have big goals, and/or to be an important person. The emotional need for a meaningful and uplifting philosophy of life. To feel secure when one has many and/or large goals. To be very emotionally affected by one's success or lack of it. If one is overly egocentric it can have a deleterious effect on one's emotional connection to others. The ability to nurture and support the self-confidence and self-worth of others.

Mercury: Communicating in an excessively optimistic and confident way which may turn other people off. Success in communicating, and possible notoriety for it. A generous and magnanimous way of thinking. The ability to meaningfully synthesize and organize ideas.

Venus: Success in romance and in relating in general. Generally speaking, success in anything comes easily. A love of adulation and attention. A love of having big, expansive and/or grandiose goals. Any tendency toward selfish egocentricity can evoke negative reactions from others.

Mars: Working to receive recognition for what one does. Asserting oneself with self-confidence, sometimes excessively. Enthusiasm for reaching goals stimulates one to act

Saturn: Success that comes slowly, gradually and/or through hard work. Carefully and patiently enlarging one's goals. Possibly a fear of success, or even uncertainty concerning whether one has reached it or not. Gaining notoriety late in life.

Chiron: Through exposure to your energy people automatically feel more self-confidence. You also have the effect of spiritualizing their ego, to the extent that they are ready for this. You can emanate a sense of life being meaningful and success being evitable, which can have a healing effect on others. The ability to heal those people who project egotism that is actually a cover-up for inner lack of self-confidence.

Uranus: Attaining success in ways you don't expect, or which are odd or unusual. Success in an unusual field. Attaining success for being original, unique, or distinctly different. One comes into the limelight suddenly, or in an unexpected way. Confidence concerning what you feel is important allows you to act independently and to be free and open.

Neptune: Success in applying one's intuition to the reaching of goals. The ability to intuitively sense how all of life is harmoniously linked together. The imagination has a grandiose and dramatic quality.

Pluto: Attaining dramatic or extreme success. Obsessively thinking too big and/or going too far. A relentless drive for recognition. Excesses eventually drain one's vitality which then helps one to make needed changes and to put more energy into promoting one's health on all levels.

Node: Connecting with people who can help you attain success in life. The need to learn how to be approving and supportive of the self. Superficial self-aggrandizement in former lives may have created bad karma which one has to deal with now, and the way to do this is to make positive and meaningful contributions to the world around oneself.

Ascendant: Coming across outwardly as having lots of self-confidence, which may only be a mask. The ability to find a successful way to present oneself to the world. The ability to capitalize on one's outer appearance and demeanor.

Midheaven: Successfully rising to positions of power and/or authority. Success through other people looking up to you, or admiring your integrity. Having a good reputation, and that resulting in success.

Planets activating the Sun/Saturn midpoint

Principle: Difficulty in developing self-confidence. The slow attainment of goals through hard work. The more one focuses on spirituality the more confident one becomes. A need for discipline when working toward goals. Questioning the meaning of life. The need to understand the meaning and purpose of the difficulties and limitations one encounters in life.

Process: The realization of the meaning and purpose of all limitations and difficulties in one's life, so that they are approached as learning processes and assimilated fully so they do not have to be repeated.

Moon: Security comes from having definite goals and/or working toward them in a disciplined manner. An emotional need to understand the meaning of life. Periodic moods in which one feels a lack of self-confidence. To organize one's life around a central purpose gives one a feeling of security.

Mercury: To communicate in a purposefully careful manner. A lack of confidence when communicating. Holding steadily to a definite purpose when communicating. A mind that is able to focus on goals and shut out everything else. Communication that is colored by ego-defensiveness.

Venus: A lack of self-confidence in love relationships or possibly a feeling that one's partner does not acknowledge one's true importance. One who appreciates the need for a careful and gradual attainment of goals. The tendency to think that one is less attractive and/or valuable than one really is. Appreciation of the deeper spiritual significance of life. Aesthetically speaking one values those works of art that reveal spiritual meaning and/or which have a serious purpose about them or which question the purpose of existence. Attraction to people who have a lack of self-confidence, and a desire to help them build their confidence.

Mars: Lack of self-confidence when asserting oneself. Doing things in a carefully controlled and purposefully organized manner, always with an eye on long-range results. Working too hard depletes vitality. The ability to stick to firm, set, or narrow goals when working or asserting oneself.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm for the patient and persistent attainment of goals and for working toward them in a focused and organized manner. One's enthusiasm is inhibited by a lack of self-confidence. Enthusiasm for finding the deeper spiritual meanings at work in life.

Chiron: Your energy helps people to feel better about themselves by causing them to become aware of the spiritual meanings behind the various hardships in their life. Effortlessly you bring forth the deeper meanings of everything all around you.

Uranus: Original and unique ideas concerning the deeper spiritual meanings of life. A genius for perceiving meaning in structures and the way that meaning itself is structured. One derives a feeling of freedom when pursuing goals in a disciplined manner. The individual pursuit of long-range goals which may be difficult or arduous to reach.

Neptune: Subtle insights into the deeper meanings of life. Uncertainty about how to structure one's life so as to attain goals. Being too idealistic about the self can cause a lack of self-confidence. Idealism impels one to deny present gratifications so that energy is conserved to reach meaningful goals.

Pluto: A rigid egotism that is obsessive. To be intensely disciplined. A realization of the deeper meanings of life transforms one's existence. The relentless feeling that life lacks meaning, and a desire to find deep meaning in it.

Node: The need to learn how to be more disciplined in this lifetime. Possibly the tendency to associate with people who lessen one's self confidence, and a need to connect with others who help one to attain a true and real self-confidence.

Ascendant: One's outer demeanor has a rigidly egotistical quality, or a lack of confidence, sometimes with the latter causing the former. When more highly evolved one comes across as having important ideas of great wisdom to impart to others. The personality projects a humble, sincere and/or simple alignment with purpose

Midheaven: The slow and patient attainment of career success. To be known in the world for one's bringing to light the deeper spiritual truths of life. Lack of confidence concerning one's work, with a tendency to gain greater confidence in it as one grows older.

Planets activating the Sun/Chiron midpoint

Principle: Letting go of all things of lesser importance and focusing on what is most important in spiritual terms. Ability to clearly differentiate between what is truly important to oneself in terms of one's personal evolution and what the world/culture/social milieu deems important. The process of ceasing to base one's self-worth on outer or superficial criteria and to perceive one's importance as a being assisting in world change and the spiritual process of others. Allowing the deeper meanings of things to emerge by not placing the projections of one's ego on them. One has the ability to assist others in the discovery of their life's meaning and purpose. Bringing to light those ideas and energies which are exactly what is needed to heal those around one, and often doing this without consciously knowing it.

Process: The opening up to deeper and more expanded realizations of the meaning and purpose of everything one encounters. The healing of the ego of both oneself and others through clearing away what is meaningless so that the true meaning and purpose behind reality can be clearly perceived.

Moon: An instinct for knowing what is truly important, and the ability to find a way to reveal it. The ability to nurture others in exactly the ways that they need. To feel insecure when not following their true spiritual purpose.

Mercury: One's communications are imbued with true spiritual meaning, often without one knowing it. The ability to solve problems in such a way that spiritual purpose is revealed and enhanced. The mind senses deeper purposes behind everything and desires to bring those to light.

Venus: Healing the ego through love. To be able to appreciate the true spiritual purpose behind all things. To bring new and deeper meaning to relationships. The ability to appreciate the ways in which egos have become damaged.

Mars: To be able to clear anger by seeing the meaning and purpose behind it. To intuitively assert oneself in a way that fulfills spiritual purpose. One's actions reveals things one did not expect, and which usually take the form of new depths of meaning and purpose to life.

Jupiter: One's enthusiasm has the effect of helping others to experience greater self-confidence and meaning in life. Joy and expectancy when it comes to allowing the true meaning and purpose in life to emerge on its own. A positive and generous attitude taken toward ego problems allows them to heal.

Saturn: To feel a deep frustration when one tries to understand the meaning of life. To be afraid to release one's ego problems. One's spiritual path is furthered and enhanced by the development of deep self-confidence based on an alignment with one's Higher Self.

Uranus: To have insights into the spiritual purpose of life, and which usually come suddenly and unexpectedly. To be able to see that the spiritual purpose of life is constantly mutating, taking new forms, and being expressed in Neptune: Subtle insights into the purpose of life, which are very often far different from what they appear to be on the surface. One's idealism is fulfilled as one lets go of the limitations imposed by one's ego. Intuitive knowledge of how to heal the ego.

Pluto: Relentless ego problems that push one to evolve into deeper identification with one's spiritual self. To be inwardly pressured to allow one's ego to heal and to let go of all goals that are not aligned with one's true purpose.

Node: To seek out people that can help to get one more deeply in touch with one's purpose in life. One is learning in this lifetime to find the hidden meanings that are everywhere around one. The key to evolution lies in progressively seeing more and more clearly the ways the ego retards personal growth.

Ascendant: To be able to identify and focus on the spiritual meaning of the present moment. One's simple presence emanates an aura of spiritual meaning and purpose. Meaning is wanting to always shine forth through all of one's relationships, and this can and will happen spontaneously if allowed to.

Midheaven: One's purpose in life has to do with the continual seeking of deeper and deeper layers of meaning in existence. One's personal security is based on the ability to become attuned to the multifaceted meanings of life, and to allow one's ego to lose its limits by becoming absorbed in the pervasive harmony of the universe.

Planets activating the Sun/Uranus midpoint

Principle: To realize the importance of one's own individual uniqueness, and to find the self-confidence to express it. The sudden or unusual revealing of unexpected meaning in life, often through inspiration. A change of purpose or direction in life. The ability to see for oneself what is important apart from what other people think.

Process: The realization of one's completeness as an original and utterly unique expression of the Spiritual Light. The discovery of meaning through inspiration. Changing one's life direction so that it more fully reflects who one really is.

Moon: One's daily life is cyclically affected by sudden or unusual shifts in awareness and/or direction. Sudden and unexpected displays of emotion. The emotional need to have others see that one is different and distinctive. The need to be able to freely express what you feels is most important to you.

Mercury: Sudden shifts of direction in one's communicating. Cleverness in finding an unexpected purpose behind situations. The ability to think very swiftly and to receive sudden inspirations. Confident freedom and independence in communicating.

Venus: Love expressed suddenly or unexpectedly. Love relationships can form quickly and may also dissolve swiftly. A sudden shift of focus in love relationships. The need for openness and freedom in love relationships. The ability to appreciate each individual's unique importance.

Mars: Asserting oneself in unexpected ways, or in a surprising manner. To be willing to work hard towards one own individual and unique goals and to pursue them in one's own way. The confidence to work alone.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm for one's own unique goals. An eagerness for making changes. One who is undaunted by sudden setbacks or sudden turns of events. A philosophy of life that is original, strange, and/or which is based on one's own independent perceptions of life.

Saturn: Shyness about displaying one's uniqueness or differences. To be very sensitive about what places one apart from others. Over time one gradually gains more self-confidence concerning one's individual differences from others.

Chiron: Your energy gives people the confidence to be themselves, and to follow their own individual and unique purpose in life. You see the special importance of each individual and help others to see how they are different from others.

Neptune: Confusion caused by sudden turns of events. One's individuality and uniqueness may be very subtle, and might also be misunderstood by others. Intuitions which come suddenly to one, and which can quickly change the course of one's life.

Pluto: Deriving a sense of power, or extreme oppression, from one's most unique qualities and gifts. An extremely intense need to pursue one's own goals in life. Something unusual that is important to one eats away at the self until you acknowledge and follow it.

Node: The need to be around people who will allow one to be oneself fully and openly.

Spiritual evolution can happen with suddenness and in unexpected ways. You are learning in this lifetime to have confidence about what is most individual and unique about you.

Ascendant: One comes across to others as a vivid personality, and is distinctly original. The need for relationships in which the other person will respect one's uniqueness and honor one's independence.

Midheaven: To have an unusual career, or to approach one's career in a highly distinctive fashion. Security derived from having the freedom to pursue one's own chosen goals. The making of important and unusual contributions to one's career.

Planets activating the Sun/Neptune midpoint

Principle: Subtle forces affecting one's vitality. Psychic sensitivity which can potentially drain one's energy. To be idealistic and possibly unrealistic about one's goals. To place importance on self-sacrifice and to feel that it makes life meaningful. Mystical or visionary insight. To engage in self-glorifying imaginings.

Process: The development of the ability to perceive the Spiritual Light's meaning and purpose in greater and greater depth, to the point that one realizes with absolute clarity the infinite and infinitely varied connections of all aspects of all universes.

Moon: Being receptive to subtle forces, which can empower or drain one, depending on whether one takes them in randomly, or, through an act of will attains to a higher vibrational level. Emotional upsets may drain one's vitality and/or create subtle imbalances that may have far-reaching effects. One derives a feeling of security from being able to see into the deeper meanings at work behind all life's phenomena.

Mercury: Communication which has an imaginative vitality, or a subtle purposefulness, but which might also display a diffusion, confusion or uncertainty that makes it difficult for others to perceive what one's purpose is. Bringing hidden things to light when one speaks. A mind which fantasizes about the future.

Venus: A love of bringing subtleties to light and of exploring the imagination and realms beyond the physical. A love nature which thrives on idealism and which may tend to idealize the loved one. To be a person who is self-sacrificing in love relationships.

Mars: Taking action to help other people because of high-minded, humanitarian concern for them. One's actions rendered ineffective or unfulfilling due to unrealistic goals or an impractical approach to them, or a confusion as to what one's purpose is. A driving urge to realize spiritual and/or high-minded goals.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm for helping others and for being self-sacrificing. Having great enthusiasm for mystical experiences and the psychic realms, and possibly going to ward excess where these are concerned.

Saturn: Being inhibited because one fears being hurt due to one's sensitivities. Being cautious about revealing one's sensitivities. Being oppressed by negative psychic energy and the need to learn how to protect oneself from it. Frustration due to having goals that are unrealistic or too idealistic to reach.

Chiron: Your energy helps people to become more aware of subtleties, and to bring their intuitions to light. Through you others come to an awareness of the deeper and hidden meanings in their existence, and this heals them.

Uranus: Sudden or unexpected intuitive awareness. To have unique insights into the subtleties of meaning within phenomena and into the nature of realms beyond the physical plane. An upset due to one's psychic sensitivity.

Pluto: Unrelenting psychic sensitivity whose purpose is to bring transformation into one's life. Obsessiveness which may have a weakening effect on one's vitality. One feels intensely the importance of all the hidden energies at work in life, and needs to contact those and work with them as a means of furthering one's evolution.

Node: Being connected to people who either drain one psychically, or uplift one through their higher vibrations. Wishful thinking and fantasizing about goals needs to be transformed into a real dedication to fulfilling one's visions.

Ascendant: To project oneself onto the world as being a person of great sensitivity. One's awareness of one's deeper and hidden aspects has a sustaining and enriching effect on one's identity, or, if negatively expressed, one's self-idealization results in nothing more than living a fantasy about oneself.

Midheaven: A desire to be self-sacrificing to help the world. One's life's work involves using one's psychic sensitivity and/or one's imagination. Revealing to the world the subtler meanings behind life. Pursuing one's career with intuitive self-confidence.

Planets activating the Sun/Pluto midpoint

Principle: A relentless craving for discovering the deepest meanings in life. Striving for personal power, be it mental, physical, or spiritual. Obsessiveness where goals are concerned. The transformation of the ego into a higher spiritual state, so that it may reflect the Divine Light. At worst, an intense desire for objectivity results in emotional repression.

Process: The intensification of ego pressures to the point that their limiting and blocking qualities are eradicated so that the Spiritual Light may shine forth. Discovery of the true meaning of life beyond all limited, materialistic and outward considerations.

Moon: The emotional need to attain to ever deeper understanding of the meaning of life. Being vulnerable to the criticism and negative reactions of other people when one manifests one's personal power. A tendency to not clearly see the power one has.

Being impressionable to anything which carries a deep meaning. The emotional need to wield power.

Mercury: To speak in an intensely purposeful and compelling manner that may intimidate other people. Communicating in an intensely egotistical way. Ideas concerning ways of actualizing life's meaning and purpose in a revolutionary or transformative manner.

Venus: Battles of will in a love relationship — the two people may be at odds about what each one finds important in life. Being attracted to people with extreme self-confidence, or who have a lack of confidence which they compensate for by attempting to dominate one. Intense willfulness when it comes to the fulfilling of one's desires and getting what one wants.

Mars: Aggressiveness expressed in an intensely willful manner, which can potentially make it difficult to work with others. An active and relentless focus on objectives. Engaging in power struggles with other people, or a battle of wills.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm that relentlessly holds to a purpose rather than becoming scattered. Eagerness expressed in a relentlessly willful fashion. Success achieved through tremendous self-discipline.

Saturn: The slow and gradual spiritualizing of the ego, which possibly happens through harsh, difficult or painful events. Being afraid of one's own personal power and the potential of misusing it. To feel tremendously oppressed by feelings of worthlessness which are only healed when one ceases to use outer, materialistic and/or superficial criteria to assess the self.

Chiron: Exposure to your energy helps others to recognize their own power, as well as to realize the deeper meanings at work in life. A person who has the ability to heal the egos of others by intensifying their self-esteem issues until a transformation is created.

Uranus: Being obsessively focused on one's own unique or unusual goals. Coming to realize life's deeper meanings through sudden experiences, or inspirations. A genius for questioning the meaning of life so deeply that one breaks through to the spiritual core and essence of the true meaning of existence.

Neptune: Personal power expressed in a refined or subtle manner. Obsessively focusing on goals drains one's energy. The ability to intuitively perceive the ego state of other people and the ways that it needs to be transformed.

Node: The people in one's life either encourage or try to undermine one's personal power. The need to grow into a greater and more extensive use of one's personal power. Ego defensiveness with this combination results in extremely retarded growth which can lead to drastic situations which are trying to help one to move forward.

Ascendant: One comes across to others as a powerful person, or, negatively, overbearing. Finding it easy to get the attention of other people. One who appears more powerful than they really are. The projection of an intense and compelling purposefulness.

Midheaven: Power struggles in one's career, or with one's employer. An intense purposefulness when it comes to one's life's work. To have the reputation of being a powerful person. In one's career work one may change the focus of what is usually considered important, and this may sometimes happen in a radical manner.

Planets activating the Sun/Node midpoint

Principle: Sharing a mutual purpose when one connects with other people. Awareness of the need for growth and progress. Awareness of attachment to the past, and the tendency to be attached to the past because it feeds one's ego. Entering into new experiences with a sense of self-confidence.

Process: The continuous breaking down and building up of the ego that leads eventually to total harmonization with the Spiritual Light. The building of real confidence.

Moon: The emotional need to share life's meaning with other people, and to have meaningful relationships. To be vulnerable to others who make you feel important, because this makes you feel secure, with the danger of this retarding your ability to grow and change.

Mercury: The need to communicate about purposes shared with other people. Being flexible and open to negotiation when it comes to goals held in common with others. Thinking that is not progressive because it places too much importance on the past, but conversely thinking that can be very progressive when it sees purpose as something which is growing and evolving.

Venus: An appreciation of the need to evolve one's self-confidence and spiritualize one's ego. A love of gaining recognition from other people. Complacency caused by connecting with other people who stroke one's ego in a superficial way.

Mars: Consciousness of others' needs and purposes when one asserts oneself. One's assertiveness comes off too others as egotistical. Taking action because one is aware of the importance of personal growth, but negatively one takes action with the motive of maintaining the status quo due to one's ego attachment.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm directed toward reaching goals mutually held with others. A desire to proliferate meaningful connections with other people and to use one's connections to support the process of heightening awareness and reaching goals.

Saturn: Having difficulty finding a common purpose with others, but a need to work steadily and patiently toward this. A lack of self-confidence when dealing with other people. One's frustrations and fears are due to one's ego being overly attached to the past.

Chiron: People contacting your energy immediately have a sense about the purpose of the connections in their life, and an awareness of the direction in which they need to move. You instinctively help others to overcome their ego-attachment to the past.

Uranus: Needing others to recognize one's own unique importance. Original or unique contributions to the direction that a group is taking. The need for liberation from one's ego attachments to the past.

Neptune: To be unsure of one's relationship to a group, or to other people in general. To be idealistic about the purpose and meaning of one's connections with others. Clarity of intuition helps one to see the importance of encountering new experiences.

Pluto: To be arrogant in dealing with other people. The ability to help others to focus ever more deeply on a commonly held purpose. Tremendous difficulty in letting go of the past because one has convinced oneself of how important it is.

Ascendant: The tendency to want to form one's identity around goals held in common with other individuals or groups. One comes across as someone who can be connected with in a meaningful way. The need in relationships to always be exploring new meaning.

Midheaven: The need to continually strive toward a higher purpose in one's profession or work, as well as to point the way forward in terms of the evolution of one's field.

Developing a reputation for being masterful or confident in dealing with groups or individuals.

Planets activating the Sun/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: To come across to others with self-confidence and/or with egotism, often when one is not meaning to do so. A centered and purposeful way of projecting one self. The tendency to place much importance on relationships and to seek meaningful connections with others. One's identity is very much bound up with one's goals in life.

Process: Growing into an ability to use all superficialities and outer illusions against themselves so that they reveal rather than hide meaning and purpose.

Moon: The emotional need to receive attention and to have others be aware of oneself. One's ability to project oneself in a centered and purposeful way is highly dependent on one's mood. The emotional need to engage in meaningful, purposeful relationships and/or ones that have a goal. One finds security through being able to play a meaningful and/or important role in life.

Mercury: To communicate in a self-confident (egotistical) manner. To think much of the importance of how things appear. Cleverness in finding ways of drawing attention to oneself and/or making oneself seem important. A mind capable of making meaningful and purposeful use of opportunities.

Venus: To appreciate and enjoy projecting a self-confident appearance. The love of sharing energy with others. Artfulness in coming across to others as a self-assured and important person. One is attracted to people who come across as self-confident.

Mars: One asserts oneself with a self-confident demeanor. Conflict created by coming on in an overly self-important way. To work on developing a meaningful way of presenting oneself outwardly.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm for engaging in meaningful interactions with others. The willingness to learn and grow in terms of becoming more aware of one's identity. Success through coming across to others as self-confident and purposeful.

Saturn: A fear of coming off as self-important. The slow and gradual attainment of greater levels of self-confidence in terms of how one interacts with others and projects oneself outwardly.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to become more aware of their own identity, and to realize their spiritual importance in the role they play in the world. The ability to bring a sense of meaning and purpose to relationships, and sometimes doing this in subtle or covert ways.

Uranus: Others see one as unusual, and confident in that distinctiveness. An uninhibited display of self-importance. To project one's individuality in a conscious and confident manner. An original and/or unique way of coming across to others as self-important.

Neptune: Coming across to others as being self-important, but not being aware that one is doing so. Subtle ways of getting attention and of coming off as important. A self- confident manner of expressing one's idealism.

Pluto: Intimidating others by coming off as overly self-important. Ultimately realizing that both oneself and others need to identify with their own true self-importance, rather than superficialities or appearances. Too obsessively place a great deal of importance on how one looks or appears.

Node: Playing the role of an important person in groups. A need to play the role of one who helps groups to maintain alignment with their purpose. In this lifetime one is learning how to present oneself to the world as a confident and centered individual.

Midheaven: One work involves relating to other people in a meaningful and vitalizing manner. Coming across as self-confident has a big effect on one's career. One sees that the way in which one presents oneself in one's career is important, and can be used to enhance both the work and one's place in the world.

Planets activating the Sun/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: The relationship between one's ego and one's profession or life's work. To be proud of one's work and able to do it with confidence. To be conscious of and objective about one's security. Awareness of one's spiritual path in this lifetime. A conscious and centered approach to one's life purpose.

Process: The development of one's spiritual self-confidence and ability to play the role of guide and parent to those who need it.

Moon: The emotional need to feel that one's work is important and/or that one is adept at doing it, and to feel that one has a meaningful relationship to the world at large.

To feel vulnerable about how good a job one is doing and/or feeling vulnerable when placed in a position of leadership or importance. An instinctive understanding of what one's life purpose is, which negatively could be colored by emotional dysfunctions but positively will be clear as long as one will listen to and follow one's true feelings.

Mercury: The ability to communicate in a confident and authoritative manner. The attempt to remain high minded and mentally focused. A mind that desires to deal only with what is important. To have thoughts about one's long-range career plans, and the ability to ingeniously find ways around any blockages to the fulfilling of them.

Venus: A love of being a part of big and important projects that positively affect the world. A desire for relationships to be spiritually meaningful. Attraction to anything that reveals the meaning and purpose of existence. One may find it easy to receive recognition in one's career. An appreciation of authority figures who are adept at what they do.

Mars: One who is very conscious about the meaning and purpose of what one is doing, and who desires one's actions to move one toward one's spiritual goals. To feel conflicted about what is most important for one to accomplish. Negatively, an aggressive projection of one's self-importance onto the world.

Jupiter: The desire to grow in one's profession and the ability to gain recognition for the success one achieves. The tendency to feel confident that life has meaning and purpose. Focusing excessively on one's career purpose or one's spiritual path may become self-defeating.

Saturn: The slow attainment of recognition in one's career. Feeling sensitive about one's place in the world. A lack of self-confidence in one's work or profession. One may feel uncomfortable receiving recognition for one's work.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to be more aware of spiritual forces, as well as imbuing them with greater confidence in channeling that energy to the world. You have the power to trigger the awareness of spiritual purpose in others.

Uranus: Bringing something unusual, distinctive or unexpected to one's career. An independent approach to career concerns. Rebelling against the status quo. Sudden insights into the meaning of life. A genius for being able to reveal spiritual purpose.

Neptune: Doubts about one's career, and the importance of it. To be idealistic and/or impractical about one's work. Difficulty in being clear about one's objectives in life. A craving for a more spiritual relationship to the world. The ability to intuit what one needs to do to follow one's spiritual path.

Pluto: An intense craving to be an important person, and/or to play a meaningful part in the world, with the potential of eventually becoming so burnt out on this that one's spiritual path is finally made clear to one. Obsessively placing too much importance on one's security. One feels tremendous inner pressure to attain mastery in one's career and to follow one's heart's desire.

Node: The need to connect with people who realize the importance of one's work. One's spiritual path involves becoming more aware of one's place in the world, and finding true meaning in that place.

Ascendant: One projects oneself as being a master or an authority, or as being an important person in the world. At best this empowers others to feel the same way rather than feeling in any way diminished.

Planets activating the Moon/Mercury midpoint

Principle: The communication of feelings. Subjective thinking and communicating, or thinking colored by feeling. The ability to open up and be vulnerable when sharing one's thoughts. Thoughts that are not objective, and which shift and change according to one's moods.

Process: The development of a rapport with one's own emotional self so that one may clearly receive the tremendous wealth of messages which it offers.

Nurturing others through one's words. The tendency to move through feelings quickly.

Sun: Many meaningful ideas brought to light as one communicates one's feelings. Recognizing the importance of communicating one's intimate thoughts, and the tendency to feel vitalized by doing so. The ability to be aware of how one's moods are coloring one's thoughts. The need to have a safe environment in which to communicate.

Venus: A love of intimate communicating - one finds it soothing and gratifying. The need to have a lover with whom one can speak about one's emotions. A beautiful and/ or artful way of communicating feelings.

Mars: Whenever one does anything there is a tendency to modify one's way of doing it on the spur of the moment. The forceful or impulsive communication of one's feelings. One uses emotion-laden words to express anger. The urge to act on one's thoughts of the moment.

Jupiter: To be enthusiastic, sometimes overly so, about communicating one's emotions. The tendency to reveal too much about oneself. To have an excess of subjective thoughts. An exuberant way of expressing one's feelings, and success potentially through doing so.

Saturn: To be cautious or apprehensive about communicating one's feelings, and possibly the tendency to do so slowly over time. To hold back on expressing one's emotions. The fear that one will be criticized or rejected for expressing one's feelings.

Chiron: Your energy helps other people to talk about and think about their feelings, and to be more connected to their emotions. You naturally induce a freer and warmer flow of interchange with others.

Uranus: To communicate one's feelings in an uninhibited manner, suddenly, or unexpectedly. Others may be shocked or surprised when you communicate your feelings. A genius for communicating one's feelings in a striking, vivid manner, both in terms of the way one communicates them as well as the timing one chooses.

Neptune: To communicate one's feelings in a vague or subtle way, which may elude other people. One may communicate feelings without even knowing one is doing so. An imaginative way of communicating one's feelings. Subjective thinking colored by emotion leads to confusion or delusion.

Pluto: The obsessive need to communicate one's feelings. The transforming power of sharing one's emotions. Nurturing others through communicating, and doing so in such a way that is extremely regenerative.

Node: One is learning in this lifetime how to be more open and clear in the communication of one's feelings. The need to seek out people with whom one can communicate openly and intimately.

Ascendant: One seems outwardly to be emotionally flexible, and/or plays the role of being a person with whom one might have an intimate exchange of ideas. The need to communicate one's feelings in relationships.

Midheaven: Nurturing others through communicating is one's life's work. The ability to share one's feelings with others becomes a basis for one's feeling secure. Spiritual awareness expressed through instinctive communication.

Planets activating the Moon/Venus midpoint

Principle: Emotions concerning relationships. The desire to nurture the other person in a relationship. One's relationships are strongly colored by moods. Difficulty in being objective about relationships. Relationships going through cyclic shifts and changes. A love of things which are plan, simple, and/or natural.

Process: The ability to perceive and enter in to the beauty of the moment and the treasures and gifts that are ever flowing through the present. The giving of love to the past as a means of healing it.

Sun: An awareness of feelings exchanged in relationships and a desire to perceive their meaning and purpose. One feels it is important to take care of the person one is relating to. One is vitalized by the sharing of feelings in relationships.

Mercury: One communicating nurtures the loved one. One's communicating is characterized by much persuasive feeling. A smooth and flowing way of communicating that is simple, natural and graceful. One's thinking is constantly oriented toward emotional satisfaction and gratification.

Mars: To assert oneself in a nurturing and soft manner. Agitation caused by feeling vulnerable in a relationship. One takes the initiative to take care of others. When one is doing something it is easy to lose focus or move on to another thing that one feels attracted to. One's manner tends to be without harshness or sharpness.

Jupiter: An eagerness to share one's feelings with another, and/or to nurture another. Feelings of love expressed enthusiastically. One encourages others to be vulnerable in relating. The potential of going too far and doing too much when taking care of others.

Saturn: A fear of being vulnerable when relating to others. Holding back on expressing one's feelings in a relationship. Slowly and gradually opening up emotionally to another person. Frustration when nurturing another person in a relationship. The tendency to nurture others by helping them in a practical way, or by being indirect.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to tap into the love surrounding them in the moment, and to love their own past, even the most difficult parts of it. You also have the effect of helping them to be more vulnerable and open in relating.

Uranus: A sudden manifesting of feelings when one is relating. The need to be able to share feelings freely in a relationship. An unusual or inspired way of nurturing others by being able to tap into their unique needs.

Neptune: To be psychically attuned to the emotions of the person one is relating to. To become confused about the feelings being exchanged in a relationship. To be psychically aware of subtle or hidden feelings at work in relationships. Intuitively knowing how to nurture the other person in a relationship.

Pluto: Intense feelings expressed in a relationship. To have strong reactions to the emotions exchanged when relating. Intense feelings of love and possibly an overpowering urge to nurture others.

Node: The forming of loving connections with others and allowing oneself to be emotionally tionally open and vulnerable to them furthers one's personal evolution. One needs to develop one's ability to share feelings in relationships.

Ascendant: One comes across as a gentle, loving person. One takes on the role of the emotional peace maker. The urge to serve and take care of those who one loves. The tendency at times to give in to others too readily.

Midheaven: A career which involves soothing or nurturing other people.

One's life path has to do with taking care of other people, and expressing loving feelings to the world. A career that involves the beautification of the home, or bringing artistry to common and everyday sorts of things, such as food.

Planets Activating the Moon/Mars midpoint

Principle: Passion and impulsiveness. The tendency to assert oneself on the spur of the moment and/or to overreact. Fiery feelings. The tendency to be excitable or irritable.

Actions based on instinct. Assertive nurturing.

Process: Refinement of one's ability to act in the moment and to follow one's instincts so they may perform their work. Emotional purging. Being frank and direct.

Sun: The need and desire to channel one's passions into meaningful endeavors. One feels passionate about any goals one adopts and can have strong feelings about whatever one thinks is important. Strong emotional energy fuels the pursuit of one's goals.

Mercury: The desire to be frank, open, blunt, or direct. Communicating in a passionate, fiery manner that happens cyclically based on one's moods. Much emotional energy imbues one's thinking and speaking. Saying things on impulse that one might regret later.

Venus: The tendency to be frank and direct in the expression of love. The ability to express forceful emotions in a smooth and even alluring way. Love expressed in an impulsive and/or fiery and passionate manner. A love of emotional conflict.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm expressed forcefully and passionately, which may have the effect of warding others off. Getting carried away with one's passionate feelings and impulses of the moment. An excess of fiery feelings. One expresses one's beliefs with strong emotion.

Saturn: Repressing one's passionate feelings, and/or being cautious in the expressing of them. If this is done to excess it could pressurize one feelings and cause them to come out in an explosive manner. A slow, controlled expression of anger.

Chiron: Your energy helps other people to act on their instincts, and to clear out destructive feelings, such as anger. You also help them to get more in touch with their passion. Your intense expression of feeling can have a healing effect on the world around you. Instinctual impulses lead to important discoveries and a clearing of energy.

Uranus: A sudden, surprising and/or unexpected display or forceful or passionate feeling. A genius for stirring up others emotionally. To suddenly act on inspiration. To be inspired by a gut feeling about what needs to be done.

Neptune: To become emotionally fired up by one's imaginings. Idealism expressed with an emotional forcefulness. A tendency to psychically pick up on the strong emotions of other people and possibly to experience emotional agitation from that. Assertively nurturing others in a selfless manner.

Pluto: An intimidating emotional forcefulness which may have drastic results. An intensely passionate nature that may intimidate others. The need to channel one's negative feelings into constructive channels. The relentless and irresistible urge to act on instinct.

Node: The need to grow in one's ability to let out one's feelings in a positive and life-supporting manner. Anger pertaining to the past and old situations. Growing and evolving through emotional conflicts.

Ascendant: One plays the role of a hot head or of a person who is willing and able to act on the spur of the moment. One is known for one's frank or even blunt passionate nature. The seeking of relationships that are emotionally exciting and stimulating.

Midheaven: One is helped in fulfilling one's life purpose by allowing oneself to act on instincts. Acting on instinct in one's career work. To have conflicting feelings about one's work.

Planets activating the Moon/Jupiter midpoint

Principle: A wealth and richness of feeling. The tendency to go to emotional excesses. To be accepting of all emotions. A willingness to share feelings and the encouraging of others to share theirs. The emotional need to connect with one's spiritual self. Feeling overwhelmed by too many impressions and/or vulnerable to too many things.

Process: Accepting and learning from all one's emotions. Reaching out to others on a feeling level in an increasingly rich and connected way.

Sun: One feels vitalized when there is a free flow of feeling between oneself and others.

Positive feelings cause one to feel strong and centered. One knows the importance of accepting one's feelings and enjoying them. Emotionally supporting others brings meaning and purpose to one's life.

Mercury: One communicates with a wealth of feeling and has an abundance of insights and perceptions. One thinks about many things and has a great number of ideas. The ability to speak in an enthusiastically emotional manner.

Venus: An enjoyment and appreciation of anything that displays a wealth of feeling. The love of exposing oneself to many different types of things. To like being flooded by impressions or stimuli. The tendency to freely share one's feelings in relationships.

Mars: In expressing anger one may be excessively emotional. Asserting oneself with a wealth of feeling. The person is at their best when they act at a time that feels right to do so. Taking the initiative to reach out to others on a feeling level.

Saturn: Having much feeling, but tending to hold it back, maybe out of fear or because one feels one will receive back disapproval. Fears which manifest as an over concern for the security of oneself and one's loved ones. The fear of being overwhelmed, or of overwhelming others.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to get more fully in touch with their feelings and to accept them. You innately encourage others to feel greater security and faith in the workings of the universe.

Uranus: To have a situation suddenly work out. To be surprised by many things happening at once, or in a short space of time. The free and uninhibited expressing of feelings which may be grandiose and/or excessive.

Neptune: To become psychically drained by too many incoming impressions. Idealism expressed with a wealth of feeling. The possibility of enjoying being confused. Being pulled in many different ways causes confusion.

Pluto: To feel many things very intensely which at worst can make it difficult to focus. The need to guard against going to emotional excesses without repressing one's emotions. To feel pressurized by one's daily life being filled with too many things, and hence a pressing need to prioritize.

Node: The ability to generously share one's feelings when one connects to other people. An excess of emotional attachment to the past. The need to enthusiastically embrace new experiences.

Ascendant: One's personality displays a wealth and abundance of feeling. One plays the role of a nurturer who encourages, uplifts, and offers approval. The potential of feeling overwhelmed in a relationship.

Midheaven: One's work involves helping other people to come together harmoniously and to share their feelings with each other. A career that involves the successful nurturing of people.

Planets activating the Moon/Saturn midpoint

Principle: Controlled or repressed feelings. The avoidance of emotions. Emotions that either do not change or which only change slowly. The ability to be dutiful, careful, and attentive. Fear for one's security. Emotional sensitivity. Awareness of lack of fulfillment in terms of one's emotional needs. The meeting of basic needs. At best one may eventually come to a realization of the spiritual purpose behind one's emotional problems.

Process: Connecting with and clearing negative emotions. The development of the ability to protect oneself emotionally when needed. The growth of one's ability to clearly perceive and deeply experience one's feelings.

Sun: A control of one's emotions for the purpose of attaining long-range goals. The capacity for self-discipline. Feelings of depression or sadness drain one's vitality.

Knowing the importance of dealing with emotional problems. Egotism manifesting as emotional defensiveness. Organized and practical habits practiced as a means of reaching goals.

Mercury: To communicate with emotional control and/or emotional seriousness. To carefully examine one's instinctual impulses. The ability to communicate about emotionally sensitive or painful subjects.

Venus: Feeling emotionally vulnerable in relationships. A love of sharing deep emotions. A love of sadness or crying. Difficulty in taking care of the loved one. Having a love who lacks feeling and/or who is emotionally repressed.

Mars: Acting in an emotionally controlled or repressed manner. One's actions are based on sincere and/or deeply felt emotions. The ability to be diplomatic. Uncertainty of feeling may inhibit one's actions.

Jupiter: To feel good about dealing with difficult or negative feelings. One's enthusiasm comes out of sincere and enduring emotions and has staying power. An excessive control of one's feelings. To feel optimistic about the potential of overcoming any lack of happiness or emotional fulfillment in one's life.

Chiron: One's energy helps others to get more in touch with negative feelings, and to understand them more deeply - which helps to release them. One helps others to take their own feelings more seriously and to see the need they have for nurturing.

Uranus: One associates freedom with emotional control. Sudden feelings of sadness or depression. Wanting to be free of heavy or difficult feelings. Unusual ways of dealing with one's emotional vulnerability.

Neptune: Negative feelings that are vague and/or undefinable. One is emotionally serious and/or touchy about one's ideals. One is psychically sensitive to the negative feelings of others and can help others to overcome them through sympathy and intuitive rapport.

Pluto: A relentless urge to get more deeply in touch with one's feelings, especially the ones most difficult to bear, and to transform them. Taking others emotions seriously helps to transform them. Big changes can evoke feelings of fear.

Node: Feeling emotionally vulnerable in groups. The need to seek out contacts with others that will acknowledge one's deepest feelings and share their own. Sad, heavy or depressing feelings about the past. The need to let go of negative emotions connected to the past.

Ascendant: One appears to be an emotionally vulnerable, sensitive or serious person. To feel sensitive about one's appearance. One needs to share emotions slowly and carefully in relationships.

Midheaven: One's work in the world involves helping others with their emotional problems, and/or with the meeting of basic needs. To be known in the world as an emotionally sensitive person.

Planets activating the Moon/Chiron midpoint

Principle: Allowing oneself to be guided by instinct, or, when one does not do this, suffering due to one's inability to act on one's instincts. Transcending the dramas of family and learning to love family without being controlled or negatively influenced by them. The quest for and finding of the spiritual family. Letting go of the past. Seeing the past in a spiritual light, which helps to release regrets.

Because one has difficulty in finding security in outer and material things, one is guided toward finding security in identification with the greater self and the protection coming from higher forces.

The ability to move through emotions, especially those that have become stagnant and fixated. The Chiron/Moon combination can mean the clearing of the emotional body, and the exorcising of the ghosts of the past. Learning to find security in fluidity rather than rigidity.

Process: The cleansing of emotions through allowing feelings to flow freely.

Sun: The goal of one's life is dependent on one's ability to allow emotions to flow openly and freely so that the emotional body may be cleansed, vitalized and purified. The ego is healed by deep attunement to and acceptance of one's feelings as well as the feelings of others.

Mercury: Thinking and communicating that are infused with healing emotional energy and which can nurture others at deep levels in profound transformational ways.

Venus: One relates to others in an emotionally healing way. When one relates emotions flow in cleansing fashion.

Mars: Taking action to clear emotions by allowing them to flow more freely. One instinctively knows what to do to foster healing energy.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm and optimism that nurtures others in a profoundly healing way. A generous way of nurturing others that helps them to overcome emotional blocks and encourages them to be more aligned with their instincts.

Saturn: A fear of clearing the emotional body, but one knows at a very deep level that this must be done. Many of the limitations and difficulties in one's life can be cleared by allowing one's emotions to flow and by knowing that one is ultimately safe and therefore need not hold on to or store feelings that need to be let go of.

Uranus: When you allow your originality and uniqueness as an individual to shine forth it has an emotionally cleansing and clearing effect on others, which helps them to receive the nurturing from the universe that they need.

Neptune: One intuitively senses how to cause emotional clearing as well as how to nurture others at a very deep level. The products of one's imagination can have a profoundly healing effect on the feeling bodies of other people.

Pluto: The ability to create profound transformations through allowing emotional energy to flow freely. The irresistible urge to allow all that has been repressed in the subconscious to come forth.

Node: When connecting with others one naturally helps them to get in touch with their feelings and to allow them to flow in a cleansing, healing manner.

Ascendant: The ability to heal and cleanse negative feelings about the self, and to let go of identifying with one's insecurities by attuning to a very deep level of spiritual security.

Midheaven: One's path in this lifetime has to do with bringing the warmth of nurturing and love to others in a very pure form, and creating a sense of security wherever one goes.

Planets activating the Moon/Uranus midpoint

Principle: Sudden changes of feeling, occurring because of the person needing to clear the emotional body. Odd, unusual, strange emotional states and/or unexpected reactions to experiences. The ability to perceive things that others do not perceive. Upsets with one's security. One finds security through freedom. The emotional need for independence and to be able to pursue one's own unique goals.

Process: The ability to perceive one's own independent emotions as being separate from the feelings of others. Freely sharing one's feelings. Liberation from attachments that are no longer needed.

Sun: The emotional need to be able to pursue one's goals independently and freely. A strong awareness of unusual or unique occurrences that pass by in everyday life. One is energized by being emotionally open.

Mercury: The need to speak freely about how one is feeling. Experiencing stress in the nervous system due to sudden changes in emotions. The need to experiment when one communicates. A sudden flood of ideas that occurs periodically, and the need to be open to these and attentive to these.

Venus: To love an unbridled expression of feeling. To feel OK and even appreciative concerning sudden or unexpected shifts in emotion. A person engaged in the art of finding unique ways of nurturing others.

Mars: To assert oneself with unexpected emotionality. To act freely based on one's instincts of the moment and on sudden feelings which arise. To have exaggerated or seemingly inappropriate reactions to experiences.

Jupiter: The welcoming of surprises coming forth from the subconscious. To be approving about any shifts or changes in emotion. Success through maintaining one's security on an independent basis.

Saturn: To be cautious about expressing sudden feelings which arise. To have difficulty with being emotionally uninhibited. To staunchly maintain one's independence. To have a negative reaction to an emotional outburst. The spiritual need to let go of control so that one's subconscious can clean itself out.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to release pent-up energies in their unconscious and to get more deeply in touch with their instincts. Also, you help them to experience life in a newer, freer way. The ability to free others from insecurities.

Neptune: Intuitive insights that come to one surprisingly or unexpectedly. To hold to the ideal of people being able to freely share their feelings with each other.

Psychic insight into the specific type of nurturing that another person needs.

Pluto: To war with one's own subconscious, in that one tries to control or repress or ignore its contents, but it retaliates by relentlessly pursuing one. Strange, unusual or inexplicable emotions that are persistent and which are trying to lead one toward a transformation.

Node: To seek out people with whom one can express one's emotions freely and openly. The need to grow in one's ability to be uninhibited and spontaneously expressive. The nurturing of one's own creative genius and uniqueness fosters one's personal evolution.

Ascendant: The need to be able to relate to others in an emotionally free manner. One who can relate their caring to others in a free and uninhibited way.

Midheaven: The goal of life is to be creative in the moment, and to be uninhibited in the expression of one's instincts. One's career may involve nurturing the creativity and genius of others.

Planets activating the Moon/Neptune midpoint

Principle: Emotional sensitivity. The ability to feel the feelings of others, unfortunately often confusing them with one's own. To be uncertain as to how one feels, often because many different emotions are mixing together. To be a self-sacrificing nurturer. The receiving of subtle impressions. Strange or undiagnosable health problems caused by taking on negative psychic energy.

Process: Emotional attunement to higher spiritual realities. The clarifying and refining of the emotional body through clearing it of disharmonious feelings such as sadness, anger and fear. The growth of one's ability to experience deep psychic attunement with other people.

Sun: One feels it is important to take care of other people, often in subtle and potentially profound ways. Emotional confusion and/or the taking on of negative psychic energy from other people can drain one's vitality, and this often occurs without one recognizing the source of the problem. One is aware of many feelings that are affecting situations in hidden ways. One's energy is fed and maintained by focusing on exalted emotions of love and joy, and by connecting with spiritual forces.

Mercury: To communicate with a delicacy of feeling, and/or much imagination. Thinking and communicating which carry much subjective subtlety, which means that the person could be easily misunderstood. Communication colored by emotional confusion.

Venus: Exalted feelings of love. A love which is boundless. One who appreciates sensitive, delicate and subtle emotions. In love one deeply takes in the feelings of the other person.

Mars: One becomes aggravated or agitated by discordant psychic energy. One's sexuality is highly sensitive, imaginative and/or refined. Emotional confusion creates agitation and inner conflict.

Jupiter: To relish the subtleties of emotion. To encourage others to experience the fineness and subtlety of their feelings. Success through one's understanding and sympathetic nature. To be overwhelmed by chaotic feelings.

Saturn: Feeling burdened by the feelings of others. To be oppressed by one's own psychic sensitivity and hence cautious about what one exposes oneself to. The spiritual need to elevate one's emotions and to transcend negative feelings.

Chiron: One's energy helps others to perceive the subtleties of their own feelings, and to see how their feelings are being affected by subtle energies and psychic influences. You also help people to feel higher and exalted emotions.

Uranus: One is thrown out of kilter by suddenly taking on disruptive psychic energy from others. A genius for tapping in to others' feelings. One has unique insights into the deeper and subtler levels of others' emotions.

Pluto: A feeling of extreme oppression caused by one's psychic sensitivity. The purpose of this oppression is to induce one to clear and elevate the emotional body so that the opposite extreme is eventually attained: tremendous empowerment rooted in one's psychic sensitivity.

Node: Connecting with people who appreciate one's emotional sensitivity. The need to let go of burdening emotions and to elevate and refine the emotional body. The need to clear old patterns of emotional confusion.

Ascendant: Emotional confusion when relating to others, but at best the ability to be psychically sensitive to what is going on in relationships. Picking up on the other person's finer and/or hidden emotions. One comes across as a refined and sensitive individual.

Midheaven: The need to use one's deepest intuition in pursuing one's career. To engage in one's profession with a subtle instinctiveness. Symbolically - a career as a psychic, but no matter what career you adopt, you are, underneath it all, approaching it like a psychic.

Planets activating the Moon/Pluto midpoint

Principle: Obsessive feelings. Intense, overpowering impulses which arise from the subconscious. The compelling need to come to terms with the past and all those events therein which have created trauma. The relentless desire to break out of old, limiting and restricting emotional patterns into a cosmic emotional reality where one can connect intimately and freely with others.

Process: The intensification of feelings as a means of purging and refining them. Confrontation with one's emotional stress so that it may be resolved. Being powerfully impacted by the environment and by one's experiences.

Sun: One's willfulness is imbued with an emotional intensity. The goal and purpose of one's life is to transform feelings. Egotism used as a means of attempting to cope with feelings of extreme vulnerability. A driving need to find and align oneself with meaning and purpose in life.

Mercury: To communicate with amazing emotional power. The ability to emotionally impact others in extreme ways with one's words. One's subconscious is bound and determined to intrude into one's thinking. The thinking may be extremely irrational but inevitably carries powerful messages from the subconscious.

Venus: A love of emotional intensity. A feeling that the lover cannot go too far. A desire to immolate oneself in the fires of love. An appreciation of extreme vulnerability. A love of the power and potency of irrationality.

Mars: To assert oneself with extreme emotional intensity. The tendency to externalize and/or project onto others one's deepest emotional conflicts. The overpowering urge to externalize one's feelings.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm that can radically transform how others feel. The ability to find emotional limits and push beyond them, usually ultimately with successful results. To feel confident that one can get in touch with one's deepest emotions and heal one's deepest wounds.

Saturn: A fear of intense emotions and a need to release them slowly, carefully, and gradually over time. Horribly deep repressions that probably came about as a means of survival. The tendency to withdraw from overpowering feelings so that they may die down or be assimilated and reconfigured gradually. One's spiritual path concerns getting in touch and transforming one's deepest insecurities. In a sense this is everyone's spiritual path, but this person has come into an incarnation where avoidance of this is no longer possible.

Chiron: One's energy helps others to get in touch with intense feelings, and to experience emotional transformation. You automatically stir up energies latent in the subconscious of others and which need to be released.

Uranus: Intense emotions manifesting unexpectedly. Inspiration based on allowing the subconscious to completely take over and guide one for a time. A unique ability to intuitively know how to support and enhance the process of emotional transformation.

Neptune: The imagination is fueled by powerful energies arising from the subconscious. Emotional intensity that has a potentially draining effect. One has intuitions as to how to nurture others in ways they profoundly need. Overpowering subconscious energies create confusion and/or disorientation.

Node: A need in this lifetime to overcome a deep and obsessive connection to the past, and to allow oneself to let go of stressful emotions locked up in the unconscious. The seeking out of connections with others that have an intensely emotional impact on the self.

Ascendant: One's personality is powerfully impacted by certain energies from the outside which set up a resonance with energies deep within oneself. One picks up on and takes on powerful projections coming from others, and needs to learn how to transform and assimilate these.

Midheaven: A career involving the nurturing of people on a mass scale. At best, a powerful openness to messages coming from the spiritual realms. One's spiritual path involves being attentive to impulses coming from their subconscious and supporting their process of outworking until all stress and karma is cleared.

Planets activating the Moon/Node midpoint

Principle: Nurturing one's connections with others. Feeling vulnerable when meeting with others. The need to share feelings with others and to give and receive nurturing. Letting go of old feelings and sources of security which no longer serve one's evolution and hence are holding one back, and being open to the new experiences which life is offering you.

Process: The clearing of old habit patterns and ways of feeling that are no longer serving one, and the development of new ones which will support one's personal growth.

Sun: One is vitalized and finds meaning and purpose in life through sharing one's feelings with others. One places great importance on one's emotional connections. One seeks emotional connections with others which serve to support one's ego and self esteem.

Mercury: To communicate in such a way that you make a feeling connection with others. To be able to connect with the emotions of others when speaking, writing and communicating in other ways.

Venus: A love of emotionally connecting with others. A love of witnessing emotional progress. One finds it easy to connect on a feeling level with people. To appreciate the process of getting more in touch with and working through one's emotions.

Mars: The need to actively share one's feelings with others. One's actions only serve to support and maintain old insecurities. One takes the initiative to form connections with others that will support one's emotional needs.

Jupiter: An expansive and enthusiastic sharing of one's feelings with others. Being generous in terms of one's willingness to nurture others. Being willing and enthusiastic to evolve new ways of feeling and to let go of feeling which no longer serve the self.

Saturn: To have a difficult time allowing oneself to be vulnerable when one connects with people. To feel uncomfortable sharing feelings in groups. It takes time and patience to allow oneself to connect emotionally.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to be aware of the emotional aspects of their connection with others, as well as what they need for their own personal emotional growth.

You trigger others to work through their feelings, and often do this with no conscious effort to do so.

Uranus: A need to be able to freely connect with others on an emotional level. One has a genius for being able to find a way to connect on a feeling level as well as being able to perceive the direction in which emotions are evolving and to support that process.

Neptune: To be sensitive about the emotional energy flowing between oneself and others. The deterioration of one's connections with others, which is happening so that the person will be impelled to look more deeply into what is really going on.

Pluto: One is transformed through allowing oneself to be vulnerable in connecting with others. Sharing feelings in groups can have a huge impact on oneself. A relentless need to let go of old feelings which prevent one from evolving and to allow oneself to grow emotionally, as well as to acknowledge and follow one's instincts.

Ascendant: One's identity is strongly influenced by one's emotional connection with others, so it is necessary to seek out people who will have a healthy and nourishing effect on one's emotional life.

Midheaven: Emotionally connecting with others is a major facet of one's career, no matter what one's actual career specifically is. Channeling spiritual energy into one's emotional connection with others. One's career involves bringing others together on a feeling level.

Planets activating the Moon/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: Being impressionable to the energies of other people. Difficulty in being objective about oneself. One's moods strongly affect one's identity. The need for intimate relationships and for a sense of security when one relates. Often, though, a feeling of insecurity when one interacts with others. The need to stay in the moment when relating.

Process: The ability to become more and more aware of all one's emotions until one no longer has any repressed feelings, and then eventually to become free of identifying with any of one's emotions so that one may experience the eternal nature of the self.

Sun: One knows the importance of allowing oneself to be vulnerable and open when relating. Since you're conscious of the strong effect that others have on you, you need to choose carefully who you open up to.

Venus: One's personality projects a charming openness and intimacy. A love of emotional sharing with others. One appreciates interaction happening on a feeling level. One easily takes on the role of nurturer.

Mars: The tendency to do things on the spur of the moment, or when the mood strikes one. The need to act out or share how one is feeling in a relationship. The effectiveness of one's actions depends on one's feelings about oneself.

Jupiter: To freely share one's feelings of the moment with others. A generous reaching out to anyone one is connecting with on an emotional level. Success through playing the role of a nurturer.

Saturn: Caution in sharing one's feelings with others and a tendency to do this gradually. A fear of being vulnerable in one-on-one contacts and so a tendency to be held back when relating. To be negative about one's feelings about oneself.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to be more aware of how they feel about themselves and their relationships, and to allow emotional energy to flow more freely when they relate. You help people to see how their feelings condition their identity.

Uranus: An uninhibited, sudden, and/or surprising sharing of feelings with others. A genius for tracking with the emotional flow between oneself and others. To have strange, unusual or inexplicable feelings about oneself.

Neptune: To be idealistic and self-sacrificing in nurturing another person. To sense the subtleties of emotion flowing between oneself and another person. One's feelings about oneself are confusing or uncertain.

Pluto: One is strongly impacted by emotional sharing in one-on-one relationships. One can get deeply in touch with one's feelings when interacting with another, though there may be fear of and resistance to doing so.

Midheaven: One's career involves helping others to realize how their emotions and subconscious form their identity, and how clearing out the emotional body can release unneeded limitations surrounding one's self-concept. A career having to do with relating to others on a feeling and/or instinctual level.

Planets activating the Moon/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: The highest attainment possible for one's emotions, meaning the achievement of clarity of feeling and instinct, as well as development of the ability to effectively care for and nurture others, and to play the part of a loving parent. The ability to be receptive and impressionable to spiritual forces and influences.

Process: Development of the ability to be open to guidance by spiritual forces and to maintain emotional attunement to their energy.

Sun: One's purpose in life centers on clearing the emotional body so that exalted feelings may shine forth. The ability to remain constant and relatively undisturbed by the ever-changing conditions that occur in one's career.

Mercury: Communication that is emotionally uplifting and/or which brings feelings out into the open. One's thoughts and ideas have an exalted, spiritually nurturing quality. To think instinctively about one's career.

Venus: To experience emotional exaltation when one is loving another. In love one opens up (becomes vulnerable to) spiritual forces. An attraction to art that has a cosmic feeling. The appreciation of the fact that spirituality manifests through everyday and common experience.

Mars: To feel anger if one's feelings are not acknowledged or respected. One is assertive about playing a nurturing role in the life of another person and/or people in general. The desire to take action to alleviate suffering and to bring greater comfort and security to other people.

Jupiter: A wealth of exalted feeling. Enthusiasm for nurturing others equates with one's mission in life. To generously play the role of mother to other people. The encouraging of other people to be more overt about their feelings.

Saturn: Difficult emotional growth. The desire to feel exalted emotions but fears and restrictions get in the way, and one must work through them slowly and gradually over time. To be uncertain about what one wants to do in life and/or to feel a lack of emotional fulfillment in one's career.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to be more receptive and impressionable to messages and impulses coming from the spiritual realms. You also help them to get in touch with how they feel about their place in life and what type of life work would be truly emotionally fulfilling for them.

Uranus: One has the ability to experience and project exalted feelings in a highly uninhibited fashion. Emotional growth comes through realizing one's own individual and unique feelings as apart from the generalized emotions of other people or the mass consciousness.

Neptune: Feelings concerning one's relationship to the world are confusing, overly idealistic, or unrealistic, often involving fantasies of fulfillment that ignore problems and challenges. Or, one has profound intuitive insight due to one's being receptive to higher spiritual energies. Emotional security comes through holding steadily to exalted ideals.

Pluto: A relentless desire to let go of lesser, petty and negative emotions so that one enters a state of emotional exaltation. Extremely intense feelings toward authority figures and a need to work through those.

Node: Emotional security comes through connecting with others, but one needs to connect with people who will nurture one's feelings and create harmony in one's emotional body, rather than reinforce neurotic and/or dysfunctional emotional patterns.

Ascendant: One identifies with exalted emotions. One plays the role of nurturing parent in life. In relationships one has a need for the other person to acknowledge and respect one's feelings. The strength and health of one's identity depends on one's emotional security.

Planets activating the Mercury/Venus midpoint

Principle: A mental appreciation of aesthetics. The ability to communicate artfully, smoothly, and/or beautifully. A love of ideas, communication, speaking, etc. Communication in relationships. The ability to appreciate a diversity of things and to see the beauty in many things.

Process: The ability to use language and communication in general as a peace-making device, and to help others exchange ideas in a harmonious, appreciative manner.

Quickly responding when one is relating.

Sun: A potential master of beautiful communication. The ability to be very persuasive when one speaks or writes. Goals attained through the use of diplomacy and artful communication. An egotist in love with his or her own ideas.

Moon: The emotional need to communicate about what one loves. Feeling uncertain or vulnerable about the value of one's own ideas. Harmonious and peaceful communication gives one a feeling of security.

Mars: To forcefully or assertively communicate in an artful or smooth way. When one acts it tends to be with a smooth flexibility, meaning an ability to easily work around any problems or challenges that come up.

Jupiter: A wealth of artistic cleverness. The accumulation of beautiful or valuable ideas. A love of philosophical ideas artfully or beautifully expressed. An eagerness to share knowledge. One's enthusiasm is expressed in a verbally artful or charming way.

Saturn: Practicality manifesting through cleverness. An ability to organize thoughts in a beautiful, simple and/or profound manner. Difficulty in finding the right words to put an idea across diplomatically or persuasively, but an ability to do so in a clear, simple, focused way.

Chiron: The instinctive ability to imbue all communication with love, as well as an ability to have a soothing and relaxing effect on the nervous systems of others. The way in which one expresses ideas can open others up to profound realizations.

Uranus: A genius for beautiful, artful and/or persuasive communication. The ability to catch others off guard when communicating, often in a delightful, entertaining manner. Having one's own unique way of beautifully saying things.

Neptune: The ability to be very subtle when communicating, sometimes to the point that one's meaning eludes others. Fantasies and imaginings that are communicated beautifully. To delude oneself with superficial, lazy, and/or selfish thinking.

Pluto: An intensely powerful manner of artful communication. The ability to be seductive with words. Smooth and/or polished communication that has a deep impact on others. A profound involvement with the beauty of language. To be obsessed with thoughts of love.

Node: Connecting with others who appreciate one's ideas. One finds it easy to be flexible when connecting with others and through one's words to put them at ease. One is learning in this lifetime to communicate one's truest and deepest values rather than being content with merely superficial or easy ways of thinking and communicating.

Ascendant: One comes across to others as a smooth and flexible person, an artful communicator. The ability to project oneself in an accommodating, diplomatic and/or persuasive manner. Playing the role of conciliator.

Midheaven: The communication of love is one's highest attainment in the lifetime. One's work involves the soothing of others, maybe through offering words or ideas of comfort and beauty.

Planets activating the Mercury/Mars midpoint

Principle: Passionate communication. Constructive and/or destructive communication. Arguing. Mental conflict. An agitated nervous system. The ability to be pointed and assertive when speaking. Sexual communication.

Process: The building and/or destroying of connections. Using communication in a combative and/or stimulating manner, either for good or ill.

Sun: To argue masterfully. To stick to what is most important when one is communicating, and to not be afraid to say what is on one's mind. An aggressively egotistical communicator. One is able to cleverly construct a way toward one's goals.

Moon: The emotional need to be able to say what one thinks, and to let out anger verbally. The urge to argue or to speak passionately is aroused when one is feeling insecure, or very emotional. Difficult emotions generate nervous energy.

Venus: To express one's love and values in a passionate manner. An appreciation of arguing, and the manner in which ideas conflict. Choosing a love with whom one can engage in verbal sparring, or mental stimulation.

Jupiter: A constructive mind which likes to enlarge on whatever is thinking. An enthusiasm for discussing issues and working out problems. To be generous in supporting and encouraging the ideas of others. A strong faith in the possibility of resolving conflicts.

Saturn: To express one's anger in a slow, careful manner. To fear arguments. Holding back from saying what one thinks. One needs to express one's spiritual truth directly and openly and without fear that it may generate conflict. Assertive communication expressed in a cautious and/or grounded manner.

Chiron: To be guided spiritually when arguing, and because of this to use the conflict of ideas as a healing device. To say pointed things of a healing nature which carry a potent impact, often without knowing one is doing so.

Uranus: A genius for understanding and working with the conflict between ideas. An original, surprising or unique way of arguing and/or of putting ideas together. A talent for debate. Nervous energy released through accidents.

Neptune: Arguing in a vague or unformed manner that confuses other people. A subtle and/or covert aggressiveness when speaking. One expresses one's idealism with forcefulness. Arguing about ideals.

Pluto: The relentless urge to communicate, and potential agitation when it isn't working. The need to find better ways of getting one's ideas across. Attempting to gain power over another through verbal hostility or abuse.

Node: Seeking out people that one can communicate with openly, and who aren't afraid to argue. Seeking out people who provide mental stimulation. One's evolution depends on one's ability to learn more and more about how to constructively communicate and how to make arguing a positive and beneficial experience.

Ascendant: Cleverness at repartee when relating. The ability to fire up others when speaking, and/or to aggravate them by touching on whatever they are sensitive about. A person who appears to have a lot of nervous energy.

Midheaven: The ability to express one's ideas with forcefulness and authority. Arguing with those in charge. The need to share one's ideas with the world and to foment debate.

Planets activating the Mercury/Jupiter midpoint

Principle: The ability to synthesize ideas. Enthusiastic communication. Excessive thinking. Enthusiasm for many ideas. Saying too much. Philosophical thinking. Having too much on one's mind makes one absent minded.

Process: The collection and coordination of information. The generous sharing of thoughts and ideas. The expanding and developing of ideas.

Sun: Objectivity in one's philosophical thinking. One's goal in life has to do with successful communication. One's objectives are furthered by making successful and supportive connections.

Moon: Security comes from expanded thinking and/or synthesizing ideas. Having a good instinct for how to encourage others through communication. Being impressionable to many sorts of ideas. Thinking too much as a means of coping with negative emotions.

Venus: A love of talking about a wide range of topics. A love of getting worked up in one's mind about something. A love of free and easy communication. One is attracted to anything which expands and enriches the mind.

Mars: Action based on having taken a lot of factors into account. Saying too much causes conflicts. Taking the initiative to bring up issues and try to work them out. The willingness to modify one's approach when what one is currently doing is inefficient or not working.

Saturn: One is burdened with too many ideas, which makes it difficult to make decisions. Being uncertain as to how to put ideas together. Philosophical thinking of great depth. Learning that proceeds in a slow or gradual manner.

Chiron: To intuitively communicate in an uplifting expansive manner which imbues others with greater faith and optimism. This often happens in a hidden or subtle fashion. Healing through the synthesizing and harmonizing of ideas.

Uranus: A love of unusual ideas. An ability to put ideas together in one's own unique way. Sudden and unpredictable episodes of pouring forth ideas. A strange, unusual or highly distinctive philosophy of life.

Neptune: Too much thinking can cause confusion. A clever and expansive imagination. One's idealism causes one to reach out to a wealth of ideas. One feels an obligation to be generous in the spreading of useful information.

Pluto: A mind which is always enlarging on ideas. Too much thinking can eventually exhaust the self, leading to a breakthrough. The driving urge to get an all-inclusive overview of everything. To transform the world with philosophy.

Node: The desire to seek out contacts that will enrich the mind. Too much jumping around from thing to thing needs to be transmuted into mental harmony and the meaningful coordination of ideas.

Ascendant: One is potentially too flexible and willing to compromise in relationships. If the person says too much it can cause them to not be taken seriously, or cause people to not listen to them very carefully. Insecurity can cause the person to talk a lot.

Midheaven: A career involving the coordination of ideas, and/or encouraging others through communication. A professional teacher. A person good at research. Playing the role of an authority figure who is generous with his or her ideas.

Planets activating the Mercury/Saturn midpoint

Principle: The organization of ideas. Practical thinking. Difficulty communicating, which may be caused by one's own inability to effectively form and/or define one's ideas, or by the other person not wishing to hear what one has to say. Negative thinking. Saying little, and/or the ability to concentrate much meaning in few words. Being unable to hear what the other person has to say.

Process: The clearing of one's mind of extraneous, unnecessary and/or overly limiting thoughts. The development of mental clarity and simplicity. The growth of one's ability to focus one's mind.

Sun: One's ego is characterized by a rigid mindset. The ability to organize ideas in a meaningful manner. Negative thoughts pertaining to one's self-esteem. One places a lot of importance on practical thinking. Difficulty communicating undermines one's self-confidence.

Moon: Mental clarity makes one feel secure, implying that one tends to feel better off when ideas are simplified. One is vulnerable to the negative ideas of others. Emotional security comes from being able to have serious and deep conversations with people. The feeling, often erroneous, that one is not very smart. Disrupted communication upsets one emotionally. One's ability to sort through and organize ideas is cyclical - it comes and goes periodically.

Venus: A love of mentally organizing information in a beautiful and/or pleasing way. One greatly appreciates the beauty of clearly expressed thoughts. Laziness supported by negative thinking. To enjoy the company of people who don't say much. Practical cleverness in dealing with money.

Mars: Anger arising from difficulties in communication. An aggressive expression of rigid ideas. Anger manifesting as careful, pointed speech. Uncertainty of thought inhibits action. After much deep thought, and/or soul searching, action is taken.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm which takes into account the drawbacks of any situation and which tries to work around them. Success in organizing thoughts. Taking a good attitude toward difficult work.

Chiron: An instinctive ability to communicate with a profound clarity. To be able to perceive the most important ideas, which leads to greater organization in thinking. A deep sensitivity to problems with communication, and an intuitive ability to heal them.

Uranus: A genius for organizing ideas in an original and/or unique manner. The desire to overcome communication difficulties. The sudden arising of problems in communication. Negative thoughts about how one is different from other people, and a need to overcome those.

Neptune: Negative thinking that dissipates one's energy. Negative thoughts frustrate one's idealism. Holding firmly to one's ideals. Communication problems that are hard to diagnose. To fantasize about having deep conversations with others.

Pluto: Relentless narrow-mindedness. An obsessive need to organize ideas. An overpowering fear of communication. The need to continue to try to communicate until there is a breakthrough. An intense desire to figure something out. Mysteries or problems which one will not let go of until they are solved.

Node: The desire to seek out people with whom one can have deep and/or profound communication. One gets involved with people who one has communication problems with. A need to get out of old patterns of thinking and to find new systems of thought. One has come into this incarnation to learn how to think spiritually and to see the spiritual implications behind all thoughts.

Ascendant: A person who tends to keep their ideas to themselves, or who doesn't say much. A person who presents themselves as a serious thinker. The tendency to see oneself as not very intelligent. Uncertainty as to how one's ideas are being received.

Midheaven: The need to spiritualize all of one's thinking. One's work involves the organizing of ideas. The need to share one's ideas with the world, even though it may take others time to understand them and they may not be well-received at first.

Planets activating the Mercury/Chiron midpoint

Principle: Leaving behind ideas that hold one in a rut while embracing and assimilating ideas that assist one to evolve. Communication with Angels and other beings beyond the physical realm, whether one realizes this is happening or not, the communicating often happening in ways that one does not expect.

Having a sense of the right thing to say that will heal a situation and bring others together. Having the right ideas at the right time come to one due to one's ability to listen to messages coming from beyond.

Process: Allowing spiritual forces to take over the mind and guide it so that communication eventually becomes full, open, and clear.

Sun: One is capable of bringing to light ideas that can have a potentially healing effect. An awareness of ways to open up new lines of communication and heal mental distortions. One's purpose in life involves healing through communication.

Moon: One is instinctively able to say just the right words or communicate just the right ideas that people need to hear for their own growth and healing. Feelings communicated to others in a way that may help them to heal at a deep level.

Venus: The ability to appreciate how communication happens in many different ways, and on many different levels. The ability to intuitively find subtle ways of communicating love. One's peace and calmness creates an atmosphere in which healing communication can happen.

Mars: The building of new lines of communication as well as the repairing of old ones. The ability to guide any and all conflicts toward something more meaningful and productive. Actions based on guidance by higher forces.

Jupiter: The ability to expand the limits of healing communication. One's enthusiasm builds lines of healing communication with others.

Saturn: Frustrations and limitations overcome by connecting to spiritual sources which provide one with the exact information and ideas needed and hence further one's evolution. The ability to focus with depth and clarity on those thoughts and ideas which will heal a situation.

Uranus: One is inspired to take just the right approach to heal communicating problems.

Neptune: One possesses an imagination which communicates much healing energy. The ability to subtly, covertly and/or intuitively foster deeper levels of communication and to heal communication rifts.

Pluto: A driving need and urge to heal all breaks in communication and to be understood and understood on deeper and deeper levels. Transformation which happens through the various aspects of oneself coming into deeper communication with each other.

Node: One is automatically drawn to connecting with others with whom one can have healing communications, and who will help one to overcome the limits that one has placed on one's thinking.

Ascendant: One's personality communicates healing energy to others. One's essential sense of being has a way of making others realize how deeply connected they are to everything.

Midheaven: One's place in the world is as a healer of communicating, meaning that you help others to make new and needed connections with the world around them, as well as with themselves.

Planets activating the Mercury/Uranus midpoint

Principle: Independent thinking. Strange ideas. A progressive mind. Thinking outside the box and experimenting with ideas. Sudden communication that can catch people off guard. The ability to say things in a unique or unusual way. A spasmodic scattering of energies that can create upset and/or cause failure due to not putting enough energy into any one thing.

Process: The liberating of one's thoughts from unnecessarily limiting biases. Allowing one's mind to find its own individualized way of thinking and communicating. To explore new modes of sharing information and to free the mind so that it can perceive ideas in new ways and in new relationships to each other.

Sun: To become suddenly aware of something important. An erratic mind can throw one off balance. The ability to communicate in an inspired manner about important matters, or the goal at hand. Independent thinking about the meaning of things, and of life in general.

Moon: An emotional need for open communication and to think for oneself. Quickly and/or abruptly changing moods.

Venus: A love of free-ranging talk, and of people who can communicate openly. An appreciation of art that communicates something original and/or surprising. A need for a love involvement with an independent thinker who will stimulate one's mind. Thinking outside the box generates valuable ideas.

Mars: To act with inspired cleverness. To have one's own way of doing things. To find it difficult to fit in with the agendas of others, or to be told what to do. Swift assessment of a situation plus the ability to take quick action. Anger can upset the nervous system.

Jupiter: Success through independent thinking. Generosity expressed as freely sharing one's ideas with others. A willingness to always be open to new ideas.

Saturn: One may have unusual, strange, or bizarre ideas, but is careful in assessing them, and tries to be practical when acting on them. Holding back from free communication. Saying the wrong thing at the wrong time creates a difficulty. The need to overcome the fear of saying what is on one's mind and receiving negative reactions from others.

Chiron: To open up the mind of others through communicating. To help others transcend the limits of their own thinking, as well as to realize their own unique thoughts. To free others from the thought patterns of the mass consciousness.

Neptune: The ability to think subtly and/or intuitively. The receiving of visions and revelations. The ability to open up the minds of other people. Inspirations that are of a subtle nature, which could be confusing until one learns how to be attentive and receptive to them.

Pluto: To be very intent on particular ideas which often involve research or experimentation. Mental intensity which could potentially result in nervous difficulties.

Node: The need to be able to share ideas freely with others. Progressive thinking shared in a group context. The need to develop one's ideas.

Ascendant: The desire to be in an interesting and stimulating environment. Fast thinking may create difficulties in relating to others.

Midheaven: An ability to effectively perceive complex relationships and connections. The desire to share innovative ideas with the world. To have a reputation for having unusual ideas or for taking an original approach to one's career.

Planets activating the Mercury/Neptune midpoint

Principle: The imagination. The ability to communicate in a subtle way and to imply much with one's words. Confused thinking, and the possibility of being misunderstood, either because one is vague, or because others lack the sensitivity to pick up on what one is saying. Clairvoyance. Messages from beyond. Channeling.

Process: To dissolve the boundaries that limit communication. To develop a finer and finer sensitivity to picking up messages from the spiritual realms and from one's own intuition. The ability to see beyond any and all vehicles of communication into the deepest essence of what is really being communicated.

Sun: To have imaginative and visionary ideas pertaining to one's goals. One's physical self and health are affected by one's mental sensitivity. To maintain vitality you need to focus on uplifting thoughts and stay away from situations and people that are mentally draining. One is potentially a master of imaginative communication.

Moon: A receptiveness to subtle communications. The emotional need to fantasize, and ideally to share one's fantasies with others. A person highly impressionable to ideational ideas.

Venus: Beautiful and/or romantic imaginings. Laziness manifesting as a tendency to fantasize or to have ungrounded thoughts that either cannot or one will not realize in physical reality. A love of subtle communications.

Mars: Taking action to realize one's vision. Actions that are ineffective due to wavering, lack of focus, or confusion. To act with subtlety, and/or the ability act gently or quietly, with a lightness of touch.

Jupiter: One who has an abundant and varied imagination. A great enthusiasm for ideational concepts. Success through being guided by spiritual forces and spirit guides.

Saturn: A dark, dreary or pessimistic imagination. Being frustrated by confused communications. A fear of falling prey to demonic or other negative forces that might drain one's energy.

Chiron: To help others to become more expansive and open in their thinking, and especially more open to the wisdom and knowledge that is everywhere around them and always ready to be accessed. To help others to overcome their mental confusion by transmuting it into clear intuition.

Uranus: One's imagination is highly unusual and experimental. A unique ability to see the subtlety of ideas.

Pluto: One is relentlessly pursued by thoughts coming from the spiritual realms, and which need to be listened to and heeded - or if they are not, stress will be the result. A tremendous ability to read between the lines when one hears what others have to say. An exceptionally psychic person.

Node: The need to share ideals in a group setting. Overcoming negative psychic links with others and developing positive ones.

Ascendant: A tendency to psychically take on the energy of other people. One may need to overcome imaginings concerning the self, and idealizations concerning one's identity. The ability to relate to others in a subtle manner.

Midheaven: The urge to share uplifting ideas with the world. Enhancing and developing one's positive psychic connection with others is one's life's work.

Planets activating the Mercury/Pluto midpoint

Principle: Mental obsessiveness. The tendency to be extremely opinionated. The need to transform the mind by clearing negative thinking. The ability to communicate in a powerful manner. Communication that is so intense it destroys itself, causing miscommunication or no communication. One tends to hold extreme ideas which could be transformative in a positive way, or destructive.

Process: The evolution of one's mental powers through the breaking down of limiting ideas and ways of looking at things so that new ideas and perspectives may form that are increasingly closer to the true nature of reality. The waging of war between the desire to communicate with oneself and the fear of doing so, and the externalizing of this into outer communication.

Sun: One who communicates powerfully and in an organized manner that holds fast to what is important. Egotism expressed through the communication of extreme ideas or opinions.

Moon: Insecurities manifesting as mental obsessiveness. Intensity of communication stemming from one's imbuing one's words with tremendous feeling. An emotional need to communicate deeply.

Venus: One appreciates extreme ideas. Intense communications with the loved one. Intense verbal expressions of love.

Mars: The ability to always be clever and resourceful when any challenge comes up, or when something arises that threatens to obstruct or inhibit what one is trying to do.

Jupiter: enthusiasm for convincing other people. A teacher who can be highly compelling when presenting ideas. Success through impressing other people with one's ideas, though if the person lacks a moral sense this might imply one who has a great ability to dupe others.

Saturn: A need to be sensitive to the ideas of others rather than solely focused on one's own. Negative reactions encountered when one tries to impress one's ideas on others.

Chiron: To help others to overcome ideas and thinking that are oppressing them, and to transform their thinking. To build new channels and ways of thinking and communication. To foster a deep connectedness.

Uranus: A genius for expressing ideas with intensity, and for influencing others. Intense communications with other people that happen suddenly and/or are unpredictable.

Neptune: To be extremely receptive to the ideas of others. To be mentally obsessive about one's ideals. Nagging and relentless thoughts sap one's energy.

Node: A need to guide one's intense thoughts toward supporting one's evolution rather than allowing obsessive thinking to hold one in old, stagnant patterns.

Ascendant: A person who projects a lot of power, often in a low-key manner. The attempt to dominate others with one's ideas frustrates and weakens relationships rather than supporting them. The need to allow intense communication to grow both oneself and others when connecting.

Midheaven: Creating deeper and truer communication should be a major part of one's life's work. Mental battles with employers. A need to allow one's mind to be mentally receptive to spiritual energy rather than shutting it out due to rigidly and relentlessly held attitudes and ideas.

Planets activating the Mercury/Node midpoint

Principle: A love of sharing ideas with others. Truly caring about with other people think. Others' ideas help one to refine one's own, and to be more clear about what one thinks. The search for ideas that will help one evolve.

Process: The pull between thinking which accommodates a static and seemingly safe connection to the past, and thinking which allows for change and supports one's evolution.

Sun: One feels it is important to share ideas with people. The goal and purpose of one's life is actualized through sharing one's ideas with people who will benefit from them.

Moon: To have strong feelings about the conflict between new and old ideas. A need for intimacy expressed through communicating with others.

Venus: Seeking out people who will appreciate one's ideas. The artist who is searching for a community of fellow artists. To seek a lover who will introduce one to new ideas, and who will push one to develop greater communication skills. To appreciate art that connects lots of ideas together.

Mars: Sharing ideas with others impels one to take action. A desire to work with other people and to get their feedback about what one is doing.

Jupiter: Sharing ideas with others leads to success, in that one gives and gets lots of good support. Too much sharing of ideas with other people, possibly because one does it instead of taking action. Also, the tendency to share lots of random ideas with others that may lead nowhere, and so a need to select out valuable ideas that are exchanged with others rather than allowing them to get lost in a sea of information.

Saturn: Shyness in sharing ideas with others. Feeling limited or inadequate when one attempts to share thoughts. Sharing ideas of a depressing, sorrowful or otherwise negative nature.

Chiron: One helps others to perceive the ideas they need to move away from the one's they need to move toward. One helps others to find a new way of looking at things.

Sharing one's ideas with groups and/or individuals can have a profoundly healing effect.

Uranus: Originality when it comes to connecting ideas together. The need to share ideas with others in a context where one can be one's own unique self and be free.

Neptune: To perceive subtle connections between ideas. To feel a spiritual obligation to share one's ideas with others.

Pluto: One is strongly impacted by sharing ideas with others, and such experiences can be transforming in the extreme. One may put ideas together in a way that hold one back, and hence need to "rewire" them in a way that supports one's personal evolution.

Ascendant: One's identity is strongly affected by sharing ideas with others, so one needs to avoid such contexts that negatively reinforce one's self image, and seek out contexts where one gets healthy and nurturing feedback for one's ideas, as well as support for communicating.

Midheaven: One has the ability to see the spiritual implications of all ideas, and to put them together in such a way that their spiritual basis is revealed and enhanced.

Planets activating the Mercury/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: A love of sharing ideas with others. Truly caring about with other people think. Others' ideas help one to refine one's own, and to be more clear about what one thinks. The search for ideas that will help one evolve.

Process: The selecting of ideas to form one's identity. The sharing of ideas with others as a means receiving feedback so that one may define one's self concept.

Sun: One feels it is important to exchange ideas with people. The goal and purpose of one's life is connecting one's ideas with people who will benefit from them.

Moon: To have strong feelings about the conflict between new and old ideas. A need for intimacy expressed through communicating with others.

Venus: Seeking out people who will appreciate one's ideas. The artist who is searching for a community of fellow artists. To seek a lover who will introduce one to new ideas, and who will push one to develop greater communication skills. To appreciate art that connects lots of ideas together.

Mars: Sharing ideas with others impels one to take action. A desire to work with other people and to get their feedback about what one is doing.

Jupiter: Sharing ideas with others leads to success, in that one gives and gets lots of good support. Too much sharing of ideas with other people, possibly because one does it instead of taking action. Also, the tendency to share lots of random ideas with others that may lead nowhere, and so a need to select out valuable ideas that are exchanged with others rather than allowing them to get lost in a sea of information.

Saturn: Shyness in sharing ideas with others. Feeling limited or inadequate when one attempts to share thoughts. Sharing ideas of a depressing, sorrowful or otherwise negative nature.

Chiron: One's way of saying things has a healing effect. One helps others to overcome identifying with negative ideas, and to identify more with the thoughts that will most grow one.

Uranus: Originality when it comes to connecting ideas together. The need to share ideas with others in a context where one can be one's own unique self and be free.

Neptune: To perceive subtle connections between ideas. To feel a spiritual obligation to share one's ideas with others.

Pluto: One is strongly impacted by sharing ideas with others, and such experiences can be transforming in the extreme. One may put ideas together in a way that hold one back, and need to "rewire" them in a way that supports one's personal evolution.

Ascendant: One's identity is strongly affected by sharing ideas with others, so one needs to avoid such contexts that negatively reinforce one's self image, and seek out contexts where one gets healthy and nurturing feedback for one's ideas, as well as support for communicating.

Midheaven: One has the ability to see the spiritual implications of all ideas, and to put them together in such a way that their spiritual basis is revealed and enhanced.

Planets activating the Mercury/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: The attaining of greater powers and abilities of communication. Spiritualized thinking. Communication with authorities and authority figures. Making public one's ideas. How one's ideas and thinking interact with one's career. The need to ultimately figure out things for oneself rather than listening solely to the ideas of other people, no matter how authoritative they are.

Process: Allowing one's mind to become increasingly infused with and guided by spiritual forces. Communicating with authority figures and receiving the impress of their ideas.

Sun: To develop a command or mastery of communicating in your career, or of communicating spiritual ideas. The success of one's goals depend on one's ability to be flexible and open to the reception of spiritual ideas.

Moon: Being vulnerable to the ideas and thinking of authority figures. The emotional need to find basic ideas that will provide one security.

Venus: To appreciate the ideas of experts, or those with authority. An appreciation of ideas that carry spiritual authority. A love of thinking about worldly things. To appreciate the complexity of ideas..

Mars: The desire to find out the ideas that are most right and true. The desire to base one's actions of spiritual ideas. The tendency to justify what one does by pointing out the rightness of one's ideas.

Jupiter: To have copious thoughts about many things. To be enthusiastic about exploring ideas in all their complexity and interconnectedness. Success through publicizing one's ideas and or through using one's cleverness in one's career.

Saturn: Uncertainty about what one thinks. Coming to conclusions slowly and gradually, oftentimes with much suffering of doubt. The need to be alone to figure out on one's own what one thinks. A fear or shyness concerning sharing one's ideas with the world. The feeling that one has a lack of authority figures to guide one's mind and give one needed information.

Chiron: Your energy naturally spiritualizes all communication, raising ideas into higher vibrations and allowing all exchanging of information to become more in alignment with cosmic realities. You instinctively assist others in connecting to their higher self.

Uranus: The need to take an independent course in developing one's ideas. To have spiritual ideas come to one suddenly, or in an unexpected form. To rebel against conservative thinking and the ideas of those general accepted as authorities.

Neptune: To be able to subtly perceive the spiritual communications coming to one. An imagination that has great cleverness and complexity. The potential of one's ideas being misapprehended by the world.

Pluto: To be obsessed with certain ideas and the wish to fulfill them. To have intense and/or transforming communications with those in authority, or with the spiritual realms directly.

Node: To connect with people in the search for ultimate truth. To need connections with others who will respect and look up to one's ideas. In this lifetime one is growing in terms of developing one's mental powers and the ability to think clearly and spiritually.

Ascendant: To identify with being a high-minded person. To play the role of an authoritative thinker. The desire and need to project spiritual ideas through one's personality.

Planets activating the Venus/Mars midpoint

Principle: Efficiency (Marc Edmund Jones). The ability to get things done. A love of asserting oneself. To be aggressive and assertive in romance. A warm and passionate love nature.

Process: Learning how to more and more effectively show love and align all of one's actions with its energy. Finding increasingly easier and smoother ways to get things accomplished without having to in any way slight or limit the fulfillment of one's goals.

Sun: The potential of being a master of efficiency. Goals reached through gradual and daily accomplishment. One feels that romance is important and feels vitalized by it.
One's ego and self-esteem are dependent on one's ability to get things accomplished.

Moon: A strong emotional need to experience love. To feel vulnerable where one's passions are concerned. One's ability to get things done is highly dependent on one's moods and emotional state.

Mercury: Highly efficient thinking, meaning the ability to figure things out and come to workable, practical conclusions. A flirting way of communicating. The ability to be seductive or to tease with words.

Jupiter: The ability to get many things done at once. The tendency to be inefficient due to taking on too many things. Feeling confident that one can get things accomplished. To be enthusiastic about romance.

Saturn: Efficiency carried out slowly and carefully or gradually. To feel a lack of romance in one's life. To desire serious romance. A great ability to focus and to shut others things out when accomplishing something. A feeling that one is unattractive.

Chiron: To have a deep intuition concerning what is not working, in terms of people getting their spiritual needs met, and also to know what will work. Hence healing others through helping them to get unstuck and to become more smooth in their forward movement.

Uranus: Sudden and abrupt expression of passion, which can cause the loved one to feel intimidated or withdraw. A unique and highly individualistic way of expression of passion, which might delight the loved one, or seem strange or even bizarre to a less open-minded person. One gifted with the ability to find inspired and unsuspected ways of accomplishing things.

Neptune: Subtlety and refinement in the expression of passion. An imaginative, gothic, or romantic love nature. Lack of efficiency due to confusion, or, when one develops one's psychic sense, the ability to enlist one's intuition in the successful accomplishment of tasks.

Pluto: Extremely strong or even obsessive passions. The desire to get projects of great scope accomplished, often ones that will benefit humanity. A person who is exceptionally seductive or flirtatious.

Node: The desire to connect with people who will help one get things done, and/or to bring efficiency to groups. One needs to direct one's ability to be efficient toward spiri tually evolving rather than only maintaining the status quo.

Ascendant: A person with a lot of verve. One who is attractive and/or seductive. Being efficient gives one a sense of identity. A person who plays the role of a facilitator, or of one who has the capacity to get things done. One projects a strong sexuality.

Midheaven: The desire to find efficient ways of bringing spiritual energy into the earth plane. The ability to accomplish much in one's career. To set up clearly defined tasks in one's profession and then to get them done.

Planets activating the Venus/Jupiter midpoint

Principle: Enthusiastic appreciation. Generosity in love. A generous display of feeling. To encourage and support the loved one. Luxury and lavishness, too much good food, too much spending. Money wasted. Many things of value come to you easily. One can become popular easily, but negatively other people may resent you or feel jealous because of your beauty, attractiveness, or because they think everything comes easily to you. To reach out too much to the loved one, creating a situation where one takes on more than one's share of responsibility in the relationship.

Process: The expansion of one's ability to love. The realization of the truth that the universe can provide endless abundance.

Sun: One feels it is important to be generous and loving. One's self-esteem is based on enthusiastically loving others, or negatively on one's superficial beauty, having a lot of money, amassing treasures, etc.

Moon: Emotion expressed freely, easily, and generously. A lavishly affectionate disposition. Emotional insecurity causes one to be self-indulgent.

Mercury: To be alluring, seductive or flirtatious when communicating. To give high praise to something. Ideas of beauty and value come to one easily.

Mars: To assert oneself in a way that charms other people and puts them at ease. To have a passion for indulging in luxuries.

Saturn: To be suspicious about people who reach out to you. To desire luxuries but to hold oneself back from obtaining them. It may take one a long time to open up to others, but when one finally does, there can be a warm, generous sharing.

Chiron: You intuitively help others to access the love which is there all around them and always ready to be taken in. You communicate a subtle feeling that abundance is to be found everywhere, and have an expansive and enriching effect on all relationships.

Uranus: To gain praise, acceptance, adulation and approval for one's uniqueness and special talents. To be unpredictably impulsive about the obtaining of luxuries. One is uninhibited in the lavish display of one's affections and attractions.

Neptune: One fantasizes about luxuries and grandiosity. A lush, rich imagination that revels in the warmth of love. To radiate an ethereal beauty. To be impractical where luxuries are concerned. Overindulgence leads to a dissipation of one's energies.

Pluto: To exude an intense magnetic quality that others find exceedingly attractive. To grow and evolve through the process of being generous. An obsessive compulsion to be wasteful.

Node: The need to enlarge one's ability to love and to appreciate life in this lifetime. Seeking out connections with people who are as enthusiastic about their values as you are. To connect to others in a loving, generous manner.

Ascendant: One loves to look good and to get the attention and approval of others. The desire to wear beautiful clothes and jewelry and to be associated with finery. A warmly affectionate disposition.

Midheaven: To grow spiritually through generously loving others and enthusiastically sharing one's appreciation for life. Often one is blessed with a fortunate, prosperous career.

Planets activating the Venus/Saturn midpoint

Principle: Spiritual love. Love hard-won. A lack of love in one's life which at worst can make one cold-hearted. To seek love that is deep and enduring. Simple, classic, and/ or conservative tastes. To appreciate things in a profound way. A dislike of clutter. The flowering of love in maturity. To be attracted to older people. A love union that is of a practical nature. Feeling that one cannot connect may lead to a desire for solitude.

Process: The appreciation of the value of limitations and the growth and awareness which they may bring. A continual deepening of one ability to love, and especially to be able to value the challenges and restrictions of life. The ability to perceive the spiritual value inherent in all life.

Sun: One feels it is important to be sincere in one's values, and is looking for meaningful and enduring love. To be aware of hardships and problems in all relationships, including romantic ones.

Moon: The emotional yearning for spiritual love, and/or for a deep romantic relationship. To sometimes exaggerate the difficulties that arise in relating. One's emotional security is based on having spiritual and profound relationships with others.

Mercury: To communicate in a beautifully simple way. A mind that appreciates profound ideas. To think about the problems of relating and romance.

Mars: To be angry about the difficulties and limitations encountered in relationships. To act out of a profound love.

Jupiter: One takes a positive attitude toward the limitations encountered in life, and in general can be happy with simplicity and austerity. The desire to expand the depth of one's relationships

Chiron: Your very vibration helps others to contact the deepest and most profound aspects of love, and to realize the ways they have cut themselves off from love, as well as the fears that caused them to do this. You also help others to realize the beauty of their problems and limitations, and to appreciate how these difficulties are there to help them grow.

Uranus: The desire to be freed from the limitations found in love and other relationships. Strange or unusual problems encountered when interacting with others. A sudden encountering of someone who one feels a deep love for. Embracing spiritual love is one's path to personal freedom and discovering one's unique individuality.

Neptune: The problems encountered in relationships are of a confused or uncertain nature. To be able to perceive what the difficulties in relationships are but to not be able to find a way to solve them. Hidden negative influences encountered in relationships.

To fantasize about deep and spiritual relationships.

Pluto: One feels greatly pressurized by a lack of love, money, or other things. A driving need to understand one's relationships more deeply, and to perceive their spiritual dimensions.

Node: In this lifetime one is growing in terms of recognizing what is most valuable to the self and holding steadily to that value. Difficulty in relating to groups, sometimes because one feels undervalued in them.

Ascendant: Difficulty in loving oneself. To feel that one is not a lovable person. A need to appreciate one's own depth. One finds superficiality highly unfulfilling. The need to spiritually relate to everyone and everything.

Midheaven: The desire to share spiritual love with the world. Difficulties in love grow one spiritually. A career combining practicality with beauty. One receives a lack of appreciation for one's career work, or that appreciation comes later in life. A deep and enduring love is what brings security to one's life.

Planets activating the Venus/Chiron midpoint

Principle: The ability to appreciate how all situations - even ones we would usually think of as negative — can further one's spiritual growth. Seeing beauty in people, things and situations that others might not recognize as beautiful, and helping others to enjoy that beauty.

Being a soothing presence to all those around one, a kind of healing balm, even when one may not be trying to do so. Helping others to be at peace and to enjoy life, as well as to see their own personal beauty and worth.

Chiron aspecting Venus helps to heal selfishness by coming to a deep understanding of its root cause, which is fear.

Alignment of aesthetics with the highest aspect of spirituality. William Blake had a Chi- ron/Venus conjunction.

Process: Attunement to all forms of beauty and through this bringing the energy of beauty into the world to soothe, uplift and calm others. The channeling of spiritual love into physical reality.

Sun: One's presence has a centering and calming effect on others. One brings to light hidden values which were possibly unsuspected by others, as well as the deeper values of everything. The overall effect of this is to promote the realization that we live in a rich universe of endless treasures.

Moon: The ability to feel love everywhere and in everything and to contact an underlying sense of peace and fulfillment even in the midst of the most difficult of emotions.

Mercury: The ability to communicate in a way that promotes peace and love and helps others to understand the value of all ideas. Communicating about the spiritual aspects of art. The communication of spiritual love.

Mars: Helping others to work together and to directly confront contacts while yet deeply realizing that different desires and outlooks are all of worth, and that conflict, if seen in its clearest aspect, is always constructive and valuable.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm and expansiveness that is generous and loving toward all and which promotes an awareness of the deepest and most meaningful values inherent in everything.

Saturn: Difficulties encountered in love, as well as lack of gratification in life and lack of prosperity encourage one to recognize the deeper value of all one's experiences, and eventually to come to see that one is truly rich.

Uranus: One has an inspired, creative, and unique way of being able to tune others into love and help them to see the beauty and richness of everything around them.

Neptune: To intuitively perceive the hidden beauty that is everywhere around one, and to be healed by this perception, as well as being able to potentially use it to foster the healing of others.

Pluto: A burning desire to find true love. The beauty of the universe calls persistently to one

Node: To connect with others in a profoundly loving way, which helps them to attain greater peace and a deeper appreciation of the beauty of the universe. Connections with others that transcend all selfishness.

Ascendant: One's personality exudes a loving and peaceful aura which creates an atmosphere of harmony and accord around one.

Midheaven: Helping others to see the true value of all that is around them is central to one's life mission. The ability to be receptive to the love that is everywhere around one.

Planets activating the Venus/Uranus midpoint

Principle: An unusual or eccentric aesthetic. The need for freedom love. The love of unusual things or people. The need to show love in an uninhibited fashion. A love of surprises. One who is unpredictable in relationships. Love connections may arise suddenly and may disappear just as quickly.

Process: The freeing up of one's ability to love and to appreciate all of life.

The ability to see the value inherent in seeming accidents, mistakes, and unforeseen occurrences. To love, value and be at ease with all surprises, oddities and everything else outside the limits of one's expectations.

Sun: One feels it is important to relate to others in a free and open way. One long-range objectives are based on one's own individual values, which may be quite different from mainstream ones.

Moon: Feelings of love and attraction that may suddenly arise and also disappear quickly. The emotional need to pursue one's own values freely and independently. To be impressionable to unusual beauty. The emotional need to be able to share freely and openly in a relationship.

Mercury: One communicates in a beautifully unusual fashion. A love of experimenting with ideas. An unusual charm expressed when speaking. One is clever when it comes to creating beauty in original ways.

Mars: One is passionate in expressing one's love in an open, uninhibited fashion. One suddenly acts on feelings of love. To be aggressive or even militant about expressing one's own independent values.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm for that which is unusual or eccentric. To encourage others to be open. If one is too exuberant about freely expressing love it may intimidate other people. To be excessively erratic in relating and displaying affection.

Saturn: Shyness about expressing one's own individual values. A fear of being open when relating to people. To love the unusual, but to fear being criticized or looked down on for it. Having to know someone a long time before one becomes open in relating.

Chiron: Your vibration helps people to love and appreciate their own uniqueness, to be less judgmental and agenda-oriented about relationships, and to give love and receive love more freely.

Neptune: A refined sense of what is unusual or eccentric. To see the unusual and the beautiful in the everyday world. One holds the ideal of giving and receiving love freely and openly, and being nonjudgmental.

Pluto: An obsessive attraction to the unusual, strange, or bizarre. To feel compelled to be totally open in the display of affection. One need to avoid using one's own unique or strange attractiveness to gain power over others.

Node: The need to evolve by appreciating more fully one's own individual uniqueness and the special gifts one has. To be able to be uninhibited in the expression of love supports one's spiritual evolution. Seeking out groups in which can be valued as a special person.

Ascendant: To identify with that which is strange and beautiful. An unusually compelling personality. The ability to find unique ways of sharing with others, or unexpected points in common. To freely express love toward other people.

Midheaven: Spiritually one is manifesting the ability to love all things for their beautiful uniqueness, and to find beauty in the most strange and unexpected places. One's career may involve artistic experimentation.

Planets activating the Venus/Neptune midpoint

Principle: Idealized love. Self-sacrifice in love. A refined expression of love. To engage in imagining beautiful illusions and fantasies to which one can potentially become addicted. Attraction to that which is refined and/or exalted. Confusion in love and in relationships. Impracticality where both love and money are concerned but also the ability to use one's intuition to make money and to know what the loved one needs. The ability to intuit the true worth of things.

Process: The purifying and refining of one's ability to love. Developing the ability to see through illusions into the eternal value and beauty underlying everything. The refinement of one's tastes.

Sun: Idealized values are highly important to one, and give one the energy to fulfill goals. One feels vitalized by giving to the loved one, and by the exaltations of love. One's whole being is strengthened and vitalized by being in beautiful surroundings or being exposed to beautiful and refined art, literature, etc.

Mercury: Speaking with a subtle persuasiveness and/or a polished smoothness. A mind given over to fantasizing about love. Thinking based on an idealized value system. A mind able to appreciate the subtleties of anything.

Mars: To assert oneself with a smooth or polished subtlety. A passionate expression of idealized love. One willing to take the initiative to make sacrifices for the purpose of love.

Jupiter: To exuberantly give of oneself in a relationship, possibly excessively. The tendency to be overly idealistic about love. To go too far in one's idealization of the loved one.

Saturn: To take seriously one's exalted feelings of love. To be afraid of being deceived in love. Confusion in relationships causes frustration and maybe a tendency to withdraw. To feel sad or sorrowful about unrequited love. The need to overcome love addiction. Slowly over time learning how to deal with one's romantic idealism and sensitivity in all relationships.

Chiron: Your vibration helps others to contact the more refined and spiritualized aspects of their love nature, and to tap intuitively into the true nature of love. You also assist them in seeing through the illusions of romantic love into the higher purer realms of Divine Love.

Uranus: To freely and openly expressing one's romantic idealism and exalted love. One has a unique ability to intuit just how to love someone and then do it. Romantic fantasies that are inspiring and original. The need to free oneself from love addiction.

Pluto: Relentless and intense love fantasies. The need to come to a deep understanding of why one has the impulse to be self-sacrificing in love. Exalted, ecstatic or cosmic love which can change one's life. The driving urge to get to the bottom of confusion in relationships.

Node: One grows in this lifetime through refining one's love instinct, and through learning to intuit the deeper value of everything. One needs to engage in self-sacrifice in love in such a way that it grows one spiritually.

Ascendant: One projects the quality of having a subtle, otherworldly beauty. Others see one as having much spiritual love. One identifies with romantic fantasies. The ability to share with others on subtle, deep, and intuitive levels.

Midheaven: One's ultimate goal in life is to uplift the love nature of others through revealing finer levels of beauty in the world around them as well as in other people. One's mission is to channel spiritual love to other people, often in gentle, covert or even subliminal ways.

Planets activating the Venus/Pluto midpoint

Principle: One person having power over the other in a love relationship. Power struggles in love relationships. To feel love with extreme intensity. To experience a compelling attraction. Decisions that are difficult to make. Irresistible temptations.

Process: To give in so totally to the power of love that it transforms one's consciousness and further one's evolution. To delve deeply into one's attractions so that one may experience their pure essence and by doing so come into a profound self-understanding.

Sun: Whatever one holds to be important in life one loves with a deep passion. One may derive much vitality from intensely loving. One may be profoundly in love with one's own goals.

Moon: To be strongly impressionable to intense beauty. The emotional need for intense relationships, connections, and romances. To fall easily under the sway of the charms and allurements of another person.

Mercury: To communicate with a compelling seductiveness. A mind which inevitably falls madly in love with certain subjects.

Mars: Intense love expressed with great passion. To feel an overwhelming urge to act. One is impelled to take initiative based on an intense love.

Jupiter: To be excessive in the expression of an intense attraction. One who reaches out to others in an intensely loving way. A willingness to allow love to raise one into a higher consciousness.

Saturn: A fear of intense passion. A tendency to shy away from anything or anyone one feels extremely attracted to. Hard lessons learned through power struggles in love relationships.

Chiron: Your vibration helps others to attune to the tremendous power of love, and to let go of their fear of it. You help them to recognize what it is that they most deeply want and are attracted to.

Uranus: A desire to be free of extreme attractions, and a tendency to sometimes delve into them, and at other times isolate oneself from them. Others may be extremely attracted to one's uniqueness. Freedom through allowing love to evolve into a higher plane.

Neptune: Imaginings and fantasies of intense love. Intense sharings with other people can drain one's energy. The ability to psychically perceive the intense attractions that other people feel. A selfless giving in to being overpowered by a lover, which may ultimately be destructive.

Node: In this life one is learning how to transmute obsessive attractions into the higher reality of divine and unconditional love.

Ascendant: To be a person who craves love, or who craves a lover with whom one can have power struggles. One emanates a compelling attractiveness.

Midheaven: One's highest attainment in this life has to do with transmuting the lesser manifestations of love into higher ones. One may be intensely loved by the public or by people at large. Career decisions that are difficult to make.

Planets activating the Venus/Node midpoint

Principle: To progress in one's ability to love and to appreciate life, as well as to relax and enjoy one's existence. Loving connections with other people. To seek out groups or individuals that share with one a common appreciation of life.

Negatively, laziness and desire for comfort hold one back from progress.

Process: Realizing the limitations of one's love and seeking to love more fully and deeply. Learning to love new things, as well as deepening one's ability to love what one already loves. The evolution of one's ability to rest, be calm, and be at peace.

Sun: One is vitalized by loving connections and associating with people who bring one a greater appreciation of life. One's goals are dependent on one's learning to love and share more deeply. One has a love of connecting with other people and this gives meaning and purpose to one's life.

Moon: The emotional need to connect with others in a loving way. To feel vulnerable about expressing one's love, values and appreciation to groups or individuals. One's ability to connect lovingly is cyclic and depends on moods.

Mercury: To communicate in a way that is both loving and connected. To think in terms of how to bring greater peace, harmony, and joy to those with whom one is connected. A mind wanting to share its insights with others and to have them be appreciated.

Mars: To assert oneself with an appreciation of how one's actions will affect other people. To take the initiative to form loving connections with others, or to increase the harmony of a group.

Jupiter: To encourage and support love and appreciation between oneself and others. An enthusiasm for being kind and friendly when connecting with others.

Saturn: Fear or shyness about sharing one's love and values with others. Difficulty in feeling relaxed and at ease when connecting with others. To find it hard to let go of old value and adopt new ones.

Chiron: Your vibration helps others to appreciate the way they are connected to everything, and also to connect in a more loving and relaxed way. You help them to appreciate the value of their past connections, as well as to appreciate what they most need for their own personal growth.

Uranus: To be free and uninhibited in sharing one's love with others. A unique gift for being at ease when connecting. A love connection that manifests suddenly Neptune: To fantasize about a love connection. Uncertainty, confusion, or misunderstanding in one's love connections. To feel a subtle love connection with others.

Pluto: A intense attraction to certain people or groups that one intuitively knows will help one to evolve. Personal transformation that comes about through allowing one self to experience the depth of love, and to allow that love to bring growth to one's consciousness.

Ascendant: A person with a willingness to connect lovingly with others and to share in mutual appreciation. One's identity is enhanced and supported by sharing love with others and by allowing love to grow one.

Midheaven: The highest that one can attain to is to connect with others in a loving way. The channeling of Divine Love to all people.

Planets activating the Venus/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: A person with a loving, easy-going personality. The ability to share with others and to put them at ease. Contentment with oneself - which negatively might express as laziness and selfishness.

Process: Learning to love oneself and to project that love into the world.

Sun: One feels it is important to get along with others, be a peacemaker, and project a loving disposition. Egotism expressing as selfishness.

Moon: The emotional need to have peace and harmony between oneself and others. To nurture others by soothing them and showing them love.

Mercury: To communicate in a smooth, easy-going fashion. To speak artfully and persuasively. Cleverness when it comes to diplomacy.

Mars: To assert oneself in a smooth, non-confrontative manner that takes into account the needs of others. To take the initiative to share with others.

Jupiter: To be generous in the display of affections. An eagerness to put others at ease and to cause them to like you.

Saturn: To be inhibited and/or fearful about expressing one's love. To feel that one is not attractive or is unappreciated. Having difficulty in letting go of a relationship. To be constant, deep, and profound in the expression of one's affection.

Chiron: Everything you do is with a loving and beautiful style that puts others at ease and opens them to divine love. Your appreciation of the relationships all around you helps others to experience more deeply the value of everything they contact.

Uranus: To have an unusual or distinctive attractiveness. A genius for putting others at ease or compelling them to be attracted to you. The desire to be free and open in expressing one's loving personality.

Neptune: To feel that the expression of love is a spiritual obligation. To be uncertain as to whether or not others value and appreciate you. One is able to love others in a subtle, delicate manner, which many people may not be consciously aware of, but will receive the love all the same.

Pluto: To compel other people to admire and/or be attracted to you, and to feel a sense of power coming from that. The driving need to transmute selfish self-love into healthy self-love.

Node: One is learning in this lifetime how to love the self in a spiritual sense, and then to be able to project that love to others. To seek out connections with individuals or groups who will love and appreciate you.

Midheaven: If one allows spiritual energy into one's consciousness, it will manifest through the personality as lovingness and an ability to share oneself with other people in an affectionate manner. One is working in this lifetime toward making the outer expression of one's love mirror as perfectly as possible one's true inner feeling of love.

Planets activating the Venus/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: To spread love and beauty to the world, and to help others to appreciate the spiritual aspects of life. A career in the arts. To have a harmonious relationship with one's employer. To play the role of a loving and soothing parent. Negatively, to be a selfish parent.

Process: To experience love as a guiding force, and to be open to the love which comes from higher forces, angels, and the universe at large.

Sun: To desire attention for one's value, which could be anything from wanting others to admire one's appearance to wanting others to appreciate what one does in one's career. To feel that it is important to play the role of loving parent to other people.

Moon: The emotional need to have a parent figure who values one, or to play the role of a parent who teaches the appreciation of life and values.

Mercury: To communicate in a polished authoritative manner, and/or in a way that causes one to get along with employers. One's mind is always thinking in terms of the highest values attainable.

Mars: Taking the initiative to spread love and beauty in the world. One asserts oneself based on a respect for the highest values. Working to disseminate that which is of beauty and value to the world.

Jupiter: To be eager to be a channel of God's love. An enthusiastic appreciation of that which one feels to be of the highest value. To be enthusiastic about giving something of value to the world. To grow in terms of your appreciation of what you have to give to the world.

Saturn: The spiritualization of one's love nature feels like an arduous and difficult task. To fear making one's love public. To be uncertain of the worth and value of various authority figures and their opinions.

Chiron: Your vibration helps others to experience the most exalted and spiritual aspect of the beauty of everything around them. You also have the ability to help them appreciate the foundation of their life, that is, all that creates security for them, as well as to recognize and be at peace with whatever their heart's desire is.

Uranus: A unique way of expressing love. A highly individualized appreciation of spiritual values, meaning that one is able to see them from one's own unique standpoint and point out unsuspected aspects of them.

Neptune: To love authorities in an idealized fashion. To need someone or something to worship. An idealistic love nature.

Pluto: An obsessive clinging to values, which can prevent one from growing, or which can enhance growth if one truly pursues them. The ability to transform and be transformed through spiritual love.

Node: To seek out groups and individuals that will help one open up to love and grow in one's ability to give and receive it. In this lifetime one is learning how to appreciate spirituality more.

Ascendant: A personality full of high-minded love. To play the role of a loving parent.

Planets activating the Mars/Jupiter midpoint

Principle: Enthusiastic action, which often imbues what one does with the possibility of success. To be confident in one's ability to effectively assert oneself - which could be because one really does have competence in what one is trying to do, or which could result in failure due to over-estimation of one's energy and abilities, or mis-estimation of circumstances. To over-do something. To go too far. To engage in destructive excess. A fine ability for negotiating.

Process: To actively and assertively reach out to others in generous and exuberant fashion. To continue to enlarge one's viewpoint and understanding as a means of learning from conflicts and overcoming one's own destructive impulses.

Sun: One has great enthusiasm in pursuing one's goals, and confidence that one can reach them. An overcompensating ego that does too much, or goes too far.

Moon: Emotions are expressed in a warm, generous way. One is always able to reach out to others. One's ability to act with confidence depends on one's moods. To go too far or do too much in nurturing other people.

Mercury: One says too much when one speaks. The ability to successfully argue with people, often in a way that causes both people to learn and to feel good about the exchange. Too many conflicting ideas in one's mind. One who is assertive about getting the information one needs.

Venus: Love expressed through doing things for others, and maybe doing too much or going too far. A love of doing many things. People are attracted to you because you are passionately positive. The joy of having a good time. In a careless way to go ahead and do things without considering the ramifications of one's actions.

Saturn: One wants to act but is held back by insecurities or fears. To do too much or go too far because of one's fears and/or feelings of inadequacy. The slow development of confidence in one's ability to act.

Chiron: Your vibration helps others to experience the most exalted and spiritual aspect of the beauty of everything around them. You also have the ability to help them appreciate the foundation of their life, that is, all that creates security for them, as well as to recognize and be at peace with whatever their heart's desire is.

Uranus: Doing too much or going too far creates upset and causes unexpected results. To be uninhibited in asserting oneself. Others may be intimidated by what they see as your excessive aggressiveness.

Neptune: An enthusiastic assertiveness when it comes to one's ideals. When one goes too far or does too much it can create chaos and confusion. A willingness to go a long way to fulfill one's obligations to others as well as what one feels to be one's spiritual obligations.

Pluto: Difficulty in stopping oneself when one is going too far or doing too much. The compulsion to engage in destructive excess. Through one's ability to keep working and to maintain a positive attitude as to the outcome of one's actions one can experience breakthroughs and transformations leading to a higher state of consciousness.

Node: One may possibly need to overcome patterns of destructive excess in this lifetime. The ability to bring new life and motivation to groups and individuals. The need to connect with others who will allow and support one in asserting oneself and working for the mutual good.

Ascendant: One comes across as an energetic and enthusiastic person. One's needs to be careful not to overwhelm others, or to go too far in trying to relate to them.

Midheaven: One is capable of playing the role of an authority figure who encourages others to act, but negatively may come across as excessively dominating if one's fears and insecurities have not been released.

Planets activating the Mars/Saturn midpoint

Principle: To be careful and organized when one acts. The desire to be right and successful in one's actions, which could potentially inhibit one's ability to act. Repressing anger leads to much pent-up energy and frustration which can potentially drain one. Feeling inadequate about one's sexual abilities. The desire for certainty and always knowing the outcome of things, which, at worst, can have a debilitating effect on one's creativity and ability to be open to what the universe has to offer. On the positive side, this combination can manifest great technical skill and the ability to accomplish something based on careful and planned-out agendas.

Process: To assertively make boundaries, and to actively organize experience. To concentrate and focus one's efforts and to maintain patience and persistence when working through blockages and difficulties.

Sun: One's long-term goals are reached by focusing one's energy in a practical and organized fashion. A lack of self-confidence which creates a fear of asserting oneself.

Moon: The emotional need to know what the outcome of one's actions will be. When you feel insecure you limit your field of action. To be overly sensitive to criticism or negative reactions coming from other people.

Mercury: One communicates in an assertively logical fashion. To speak with a concentrated aggressiveness. The fear of acting creates nervousness.

Venus: To fear arguing with others, and with one's lover in particular. To hold on to resentments toward one's partner, or toward anyone with whom one is relating. To be attracted to people who are sincere in their actions.

Jupiter: To be enthusiastic about planning out things in advance. To over-plan what one is doing. The attempt to think of all the possible problems that could crop up in a situation and to have a back-up system for dealing with each and every one of them.

Chiron: Your vibrations spontaneously help others to see their own pent-up energy, as well as the need to find a positive way of releasing it. You help others to realize where they have repressed themselves, and why. You then instinctively assist them in focusing their energy in a meaningful way, so that it has the greatest life-supporting effect.

Uranus: To be very protective of one's independence. To be highly sensitive to any criticism received concerning one's uniqueness. To suddenly become mean or cruel. One may have a genius for organizing how something is to be done, or for finding the most energy-saving way of doing something.

Neptune: Pent up hostility or frustration has a draining influence on one. To be touch and sensitive about one's ideals. The urge to do something practical to actualize one's ideals.

Pluto: Pent up energy can create drastic pressure within oneself, with a consequent need for it to find release. To discipline one's energy can create massive transformation.

Node: One is learning in this lifetime how to focus one's energy without repressing it, and to overcome one's fears of acting. The tendency to connect with others who either frustrate or inhibit one's actions or who help one become more focused and organized in what one does.

Ascendant: One comes across to others as a carefully assertive person. One may be touchy and overly self-conscious about one's identity, as, for instance, how one appears to others.

Midheaven: One is growing in this lifetime toward a stronger, more careful and sincere expression of spiritual truth, and toward keeping one's efforts in focused alignment with one's High Self. Slow, focused, gradual and/or careful action taken to fulfill career goals. The tendency to be uncertain of how to proceed in one's work. The possibility of being frustrated with or by employers and/or authority figures. At worst, one plays the role of an aggressive authoritarian.

Planets activating the Mars/Chiron midpoint

Principle: Assertively reaching out to those who need help and healing, often doing this in subtle, indirect ways that can be quite effective. Working to build a new world order. Ability to transform destructive energies into constructive ones, as well as to apply destructive energies where they are most needed to clear the way for something higher.

Ability to get to the heart of a conflict and hence resolve it or direct it along positive lines, rather than arguing in circles. Having the confidence to not hold back when one senses what one needs to do. Ability to act on impulse without having to have a mental or logical justification to do so.

Process: The growth of one's ability to engage in conflict in the most life-supporting way possible. The power of seeing into the roots of conflict so that it can be healed deeply and profoundly at its root level. To be able to take initiative based on the guidance of spiritual forces.

Sun: One is inspired by the Spiritual Light to act, and needs to not repress those impulses when felt. The ability to bring to light the real and true nature of conflicts and what they have to teach us.

Moon: Feelings that are acted on and/or expressed directly and purely, resulting in a healing of self and situations.

Mercury: The ability to communicate in an assertive and even confrontative way that can serve ultimately to clear away destructive energies and ultimately resolve conflicts. To be clever and pointed when speaking, but in a way that is healing.

Venus: One sees the deeper meaning and purpose of conflicts in relationships, and is able to bring healing to them. An appreciation of how conflicts serve to advance us spiritually.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm for being assertive in such a way that healing results. Excesses cause conflicts and a contacting of inner destructive energy that can then be healed.

Saturn: The need to heal conflicts but potential difficulty in doing so, due to fear. The need to heal one's fear of being assertive so that one can then create clear and effective boundaries.

Uranus: A unique and inspired way of taking spiritual action. One needs to be free and independent in carrying out the actions dictated by one's High Self.

Neptune: Working subtly, secretly or covertly to help others. One who is intuitively able to get to the source of a conflict and bring healing energy to it.

Pluto: One feels a great internal pressure to act on the urges of one's spiritual inspiration. One's life is transformed by taking the initiative to do what one knows one needs to do.

Node: The need to tune in to one's personal spiritual guidance so that one will know what one needs to do to overcome one's limiting ties to the past and assertively move forward.

Ascendant: One emanates an active, stimulating aura that can help others to be more assertive and deal with life in a more constructive manner.

Midheaven: One's mission in this life is simply to do what needs to be done, and to base this on deeply listening to one's spiritual self and then acting on its guidance.

Planets activating the Mars/Uranus midpoint

Principle: Sudden and unexpected actions. To find one's own independent and unique way of doing things. To be assertively rebellious. Accidents, which are a manifestation of pent-up energy that need to be released. To be impulsive in one's actions, and/or to act erratically. Inspired action.

Process: Active experimentation. The breaking out of old forms and patterns and the creating of new one's that offer more freedom and which more clearly reflect the true self.

Sun: One need to pursue one's goals in one's own independent way. It is important to one to be able to experiment in life.

Moon: Feelings that arise suddenly, and which impel one to take action. The need to freely and openly let feelings out. If one allows oneself to act on one's instincts it can let forth a flood of creativity. Insecurity about finding one's own way to do things.

Mercury: One's communicating can be excitingly refreshing, and imbued with an unusual passion. To surprise others with one's unique and lively way of saying things. Sudden overstimulation agitates the nervous system.

Venus: One's love expressed in an assertively uninhibited fashion, which can possibly intimidate the loved one. One love's doing unusual things, or common things in unusual ways. A love of experimentation. One is assertively independent about one's values.

Jupiter: Sudden periods of expansion or growth. To be excessively uninhibited in one's actions, which might cause one to go too far. To have the confidence to do things in one's own way.

Saturn: To wish to be uninhibited in one's actions, but to be shy about it or afraid of doing so. To act in an independent or uninhibited fashion, but to do so with caution and circumspection.

Chiron: Your vibration encourages others to find they own way of doing things, and to assert themselves more individually and independently. You intuitively induce them to act on inspiration, and through doing so often surprise themselves.

Neptune: Sudden actions that are confusion or misconstrued. If one is clearly in tune with one's intuition, one may engage in sudden, inspired actions that even display ge nius or brilliance.

Pluto: A driving need to be independent and open in one's actions. The relentless urge to do things in one's own way, and to experiment with how one does things. To as sertively affirm one's independence can induce big transformations in one's life.

Node: To seek out people that one can dynamically interact with in a free, open, and/or experimental way. To make connections with people or groups suddenly. One is learning in this lifetime how to be truly free in one's actions, and how to base one's actions on what one feels inside, rather than trying to do things the way other people do them.

Ascendant: A person full of surprises. One comes across as unpredictable, and others may find this exciting and/or threatening.

Midheaven: To rebel against authority figures. To act freely and openly based on the dictates of the higher self. One needs an employer who will allow one to act out of one's own creative and/or independent urges, and so dislikes an employer who is overly controlling. One derives much security from being able to do one's own thing.

Planets activating the Mars/Neptune midpoint

Principle: To act out of a sense of spiritual obligation. Taking the initiative to help others. The refinement of one's ability to act. The ability to assert oneself in subtle ways. Psychic warfare. Engaging in magic practices. To psychically tune in to conflicts. Actions that are confused or impractical. To refine and uplift sexual energy. The excitement of the imagination, and its use in both constructive and destructive ways.

Process: To become increasingly aware of what you're doing, so that you're less and less confused and more and more clearly intuitive when you assert yourself. Learning to use your intuition more and more as you work. Regenerating energy psychically.

Sun: Psychic drains sap one's vitality. One feels it is important to help other people. The ability to intuit the best and/or right thing to do. A weak constitution that can be greatly improved by subtle methodologies, such as energy healing, homeopathy, etc., as well as eating lightly and eating foods of high vibration such as fruits and vegetables.

Moon: Insecurities leading to confused or ineffective actions. To be vulnerable to psychic attack. Negative moods manifest as agitating confusion.

Mercury: To be capable of a subtle pointedness or intensity when communicating. Psychic disturbances and attacks agitate the nervous system. To be clever and resourceful in figuring out ways to help people.

Venus: To sense psychic conflict going on in one's relationships. To be passionately idealistic about love. To love art that portrays the subtle interactions of energies. To show love in subtle, delicate ways. Confused or impractical actions come about due to laziness.

Jupiter: An eagerness and enthusiasm to engage in passionate idealism. The ability to understand subtle conflicts that are going on. To have good luck with knowing intuitively what to do.

Saturn: To feel unable or afraid of acting on one's intuition. To be afraid of psychic warfare and attacks happening on subtle and energetic planes. Confused or chaotic action that happens over and over and that one is likely to overcome only slowly.

Chiron: Your vibration naturally helps others to align their desire for action with their own intuition, so that their actions become not only more refined and subtle, but more effective. You also help them to deal assertively with the psychic forces at work around them, so that they can align themselves with the positive ones as well as overcome the draining and confusing effects of the negative ones.

Uranus: To be suddenly inspired to act intuitively. One has a gift for picking up on subtle energies and the conflicts they may be creating, and then finding ways of liberating oneself from them. To be able to help others in unique or unsuspected ways.

Pluto: Confused or chaotic actions that wreak havoc. An extreme impulse to act out of one's idealism and/or intuition. The driving need to transmute negative or destructive psychic energy into something positive. Acting out of a sense of spiritual obligation can create profound and far-reaching changes in one's life.

Node: To seek out people one can psychically dominate, or who psychically dominate you. To want connections with others with whom one can work toward an ideal. One is learning in this lifetime how to refine one's ability to act, and how to actively and constructively work with psychic energy.

Ascendant: Confused and chaotic conflicts in the personality. One who comes across as a subtly aggressive or assertive person.

Midheaven: Acting on the dictates of spirit. The need to actively express one's ideals to the world, or in a public way. To have a body of beliefs that makes it difficult for you to get things done practically, and so a need to work to bring one's ideals down into physical, practical reality.

Planets activating the Mars/Pluto midpoint

Principle: Intense aggression that may even be overpowering, or obsessive. The ability to get an extreme amount of work accomplished. Doing things that affect the whole world, or at least a great number of people. The desire to work toward a breakthrough. Domination of others, or running over them in an uncaring fashion. Extreme violence or brutality.

Process: The intensification of one's actions so that one may perceive both their constructive and destructive aspects. The realization of one's power to effect deep and profound changes.

Sun: One who will work hard and relentlessly toward goals. Hard work has a destructive effect on one's vitality and health. To be obsessive about one's agendas may cause a breakthrough, but may also cause an intervention by Spirit as a means of realigning one's goals in a manner that will better support one's evolution.

Moon: One's insecurities are compensated for through hard and/or obsessive work. To express emotions with extreme aggression or passion.

Mercury: To say things that are extremely aggressive, which can sometimes cause a needed breakthrough. Overwork agitates and deteriorates the nervous system. The ability to go to anything lengths to get one's ideas across.

Venus: Love expressed with an extreme of assertiveness and excitement. The loved one may try to dominate you, or you may try to dominate the loved one. Power struggles in love. To enjoy working hard. To like art that carries an intense passion.

Jupiter: To work extremely hard to grow or to advance oneself. To have tremendously passionate enthusiasm. Success that comes through relentless work.

Saturn: The ability to work hard in a patient, careful and/or controlled manner. One will not give up when trying to overcome difficulties or solve problems.

Chiron: Your vibration can help others to intensify their actions to the point that they experience breakthroughs and transformations. You also induce people to turn their anger into positive, constructive action, as well as to know what it is they need to destroy in their life, and then to destroy it.

Uranus: To work extremely hard at experimenting, or at something which is very unique and original. To be very aggressive about obtaining and maintaining one's independence.

Neptune: The ability to dominate others in a subtle or hidden way. Hard work saps one's energy. To be willing to do anything to fulfill one's ideals.

Node: To work hard with others or with groups. One is learning in this lifetime how to intensify one's efforts, and how to guide one's energy more effectively into constructive channels.

Ascendant: The ability to change or perform a makeover on oneself. One comes across as an overbearing or intimidating person.

Midheaven: To be aggressive and challenging toward authority figures. The need to allow Spirit to dictate one's actions, even if what one needs to do is difficult or dangerous to perform. Advancement in one's career through exceptionally hard work.

Planets activating the Mars/Node midpoint

Principle: To do things with other people and/or with group. Forming connections with people with whom one ends up having conflicts. To evolve in this lifetime a greater effectiveness in doing things, as well as releasing anger and hostility so that one is freer to act. To need to find new ways of doing things and to overcome old, worn-out and ultimately inefficient ways of doing things.

Process: The taking of initiative to bring needed changes into one's life, and to evolve. The active breaking of ties with the past as well as the active seeking of new experiences and the forming of new connections.

Sun: To know that it is important to work together with other people. To help those with whom one is connected to see the meaning and purpose behind their conflicts. One's goals are furthered and supported by taking the initiative to form contacts with others.

Moon: The emotional need to have constructive interaction with groups or individuals. To feel vulnerable about the reactions one gets when asserting oneself with individuals or groups. To overreact to the conflicts that happen with the people or groups with whom one is connected.

Mercury: To desire one's ideas and communicating to have a positive effect on groups and individuals. What one says can cause conflict, but this can be a good thing. One is developing in this lifetime the ability to say what one thinks.

Venus: The ability to interact with groups in a fashion that is dynamic yet smooth and diplomatic.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm for giving to and getting stimulation from those with whom one is connected. Generosity in putting one's energy into group projects.

Saturn: To hold back on asserting oneself with groups. One finds it difficult either to be more assertive, or to find different more effective ways of asserting oneself.

Chiron: Your vibration can help other people to reach out and connect with those individuals and groups with whom they need to connect, as well as to find new and more effective ways of asserting themselves. You also help them sometimes to realize that some of their old ways of asserting themselves are no longer effective. You also have the innate power to heal conflict in groups so that they can get more accomplished and be more dynamic.

Uranus: To suddenly come together with others for the purpose of doing something. A unique ability to get things done with other people or with groups.

Neptune: One's action in groups is misconstrued or misunderstood. To be able to subtly influence groups and those with whom one is connected.

Pluto: The need to overcome or resolve one's conflicts with other people. A driving urge to have one's connections with others be positive and productive, but to achieve this one needs to resolve differences and clear the air of hostilities and resentments. Ascendant: One learns about who one is through interacting with groups. The need to not let one's personality or self-concept stand in the way of accomplishing things with other people and with groups.

Midheaven: One's highest spiritual attainment is to come together with others for the purpose of constructively working together and resolving problems.

Planets activating the Mars/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: An assertive personality. To create an identity for oneself. To identify with being one who acts, builds, constructs, or destroys. A strong sexual identity. To destroy one's identity. To strongly identify with what one does and what one produces.

Process: The realization of both the constructive and destructive powers of one's personality. The active acceptance and denial of elements which form and affect one's identity.

Sun: One feels that it is important to strongly and assertively project who one is. One's goals are positively affected by coming across assertively, but if this is too extreme the goals can be negatively affected. One feels self-confident about his ability to do things. One's self-esteem is strongly based on what one accomplishes.

Moon: To do something immediate to gratify one's emotional needs, or to overcoming insecurity. One is vulnerable to the reactions that others have to what one does.

Mercury: One's communications have an aggressive personality, that can come across as stimulating and exciting, but sometimes as hostile or intimidating.

Venus: One is at ease when asserting oneself and so can accomplish much with a minimum of conflict. One expresses one's values and one's love assertively.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm expressed with assertiveness. Confidence in one's ability to get things done. A forceful identity may be expressed with so much energy that it overwhelms other people

Saturn: A fear of coming across as aggressive, and so a carefulness in asserting the self. One comes across as being serious about what one does.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to take charge of their identity more, so that they are induced to identify with positive constructiveness, as well as realizing and changing those aspects of their identity which are self-destructive and non life-supporting.

Uranus: A person who will not be stopped or confined. To express oneself in an extreme way, and possibly suddenly or surprisingly. One asserts oneself in unexpected ways in relationships.

Neptune: To be ready to fight for one's ideals. Conflicts within the personality which are hidden and/or confusing. The need to tap into one's personality conflicts on an intuitive level so that their subtleties may be perceived.

Pluto: A tremendous need to affirm who one is and to assert the self. A relentless self-destructiveness. One is being challenged in this lifetime to be a more positively assertive person, and to work on one's own identity.

Node: The need to develop more effective ways of asserting the self, and to find connections with others wherein one can be productive.

Midheaven: The need to spiritualize one's personal assertiveness, that is, to always assert oneself in such a way that it allows a higher purpose to flow through.

Planets activating the Mars/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: To align one's actions with one's Higher Self and spiritual principles. To take action based on the dictates of Spirit. To work hard at one's career, and to create security for oneself. Conflicts with one's employer and with authority figures.

Process: Active union with guiding spiritual forces. To assert oneself in the world. To build one's authority. To engage in active and assertive parenting.

Sun: One is vitalized by actively living up to one's life purpose. To make others aware of the need to receive active and positive parenting.

Moon: Conflicts with authority figures cause feelings of insecurity. The emotional need to act on the dictates of Spirit. One feels secure when working on something that feels like it will benefit the world, or fulfill one's spiritual mission.

Mercury: One's ideas may be in conflict with authorities. One's ideas challenge accepted ways of thinking about things. To be outspoken about ethics, morals, and what one feels is right.

Venus: One expresses love by acting in an ethical, moral, and spiritual manner. One finds value in attempting to align one's actions with high-minded principles. It is easy for one to work hard at one's career.

Jupiter: Someone who is successful and effective at taking charge of things and being the person to manage or organize something. An enthusiasm for directing other people and working in a position of authority.

Saturn: To be uncertain or insecure about acting on the dictates of one's higher consciousness. A need to take charge of things but a resistance to doing so.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to actively and assertively align themselves with higher truths, which has the effect of spiritualizing their ability to confront difficulties and problems, and to assert themselves. You also help them, when necessary, to come into conflict with authorities and the part of them that is telling them what to do.

Uranus: One needs to allow one's uniqueness to manifest, and to find ways of assisting and supporting it. One has a very individual and even unusual contribution to make to the world.

Neptune: To allow one's intuition to guide one's actions so that spiritual forces are channeled through one into physical reality. To feel an obligation to do things to change the world. To be ineffective at asserting oneself in the world.

Pluto: An intense desire to develop one's powers and abilities, and possibly to be an authority. An extreme urge to climb socially or spiritually so that one can use one's position, hopefully for the benefit of the world.

Node: In this lifetime one is developing skills with which to serve the world. Connecting with others who help one to develop one's effectiveness in action.

Ascendant: One identifies with doing what is right, which could possibly cause conflict with authority figures. To relate to others through encouraging them to act on what is right.

Planets activating the Jupiter/Saturn midpoint

Principle: Morality, meaning not only what one feels is generally good and bad, but your ideas about what is specifically good for you to do and what is bad for you. This pair rules assessments and judgments about how one should live one's life. The pair also rules controlled growth, organized expansion, and discipline. Jupiter/Saturn signifies a need to proceed relatively slowly, and in a grounded fashion, so that progress is steady and as free of setbacks as possible. If Saturn exceeds Jupiter in energy then one may feel that progress is too slow, or too limited or frustrating, or that one's enthusiasm is dampened. If Jupiter exceeds Saturn one may feel a lack of organization and/or stability on one's progress.

Process: The integration of moral principles into one's life. The finding of a harmonious and successful way to discipline oneself. The development of the ability to be discerning and critical and yet open, forgiving and accepting at the same time.

Sun: The ability to work at one's goals steadily and with discipline. One who can be very persistent in taking into consideration the long-range picture and who has the vitality to keep at what is being done.

Moon: To blow moral issues out of proportion - that is, to feel strongly like one should or should not do something, but to imbue the issue with such emotional energy that needless guilt is the result. To feel bad about not disciplining the self enough. One feels secure when working steadily and persistently on a project.

Mercury: A balanced way of communicating that blends support and criticism. A very persistent and patient mind that will delve into something until it obtains what it is looking for.

Venus: One is patient and persistent in the realm of love and is willing to allow it to develop and unfold gradually.

Mars: One's assertiveness has much staying power. One will not give up until one accomplishes what one set out to do.

Chiron: Your energy helps others to make their moral and ethical values more person ally supportive to them, and less based around guilt and fear.

Uranus: You need to come to one's own decisions about what is right and wrong for you. A genius for seeing what kind of discipline is needed and for justifying why.

Neptune: One needs to be intuitive when it comes to deciding what one should do. A confusion about what one should do. One with persistent idealism.

Pluto: To have extremely strong and intense feelings about right and wrong. To be obsessively persistent in one's determination. The transforming of a situation through long, hard work.

Node: One is needing more of the right kind of discipline in this lifetime. Seeing out groups of people who help one to figure out what is right and wrong for you to do. The strong determination to stick with those groups or people you have bonded with and to attempt to better them.

Ascendant: One who stands up for one's values, and who tries to do what is right.

Midheaven: To be patient and persistent in working to attain one's goals. The slow and careful establishment of security.

Planets activating the Jupiter/Chiron midpoint

Principle: Instinctively knowing how to uplift others and how to dispel depression. Encouraging people to proceed along their spiritual path even through difficult situations and disheartening conditions. Intuitively knowing how to give someone just the sort of encouragement that they need. Ability to instinctively synthesize and harmonize ideas and to perceive the hidden connections between different events, energies, etc. Ability to make others feel included and cared for, so that no one is left out or left behind. Ability to help others find prosperity and to tap in to the abundance of the universe.

The healing power of excess — taking something to its ultimate extreme is a means of bringing it into a higher awareness and finer balance. James Joyce had Chiron conjunct Jupiter.

Process: The healing of all schisms and boundaries in the process of creating complete harmony and synthesis of energies. The ability to create enthusiasm and positivity in others through assisting in their reconnection to spirit.

Sun: One's vitality and sense of meaning and purpose in life is powered by an optimism based on attunement to one's spiritual self. The whole purpose of one's life centers around opening up to higher forces and allowing them to flow through your every action.

Moon: An emotional makeup whose openness and generosity has a deeply healing effect on the world around it. An instinct for knowing how to spontaneously overcome all limitations and obstructions.

Mercury: One's communicating and ideas have a healing and uplifting effect on others and is positively motivating in a deeply spiritual way.

Venus: An appreciation of spiritual understanding and through relating this outwardly bringing optimism and hope to others.

Mars: To assert oneself in a way that uplifts others and brings out their enthusiasm and feelings of hope.

Saturn: To have a profound and deep spiritual understanding, and the need to learn to trust it, act on it, and not fear expressing it.

Uranus: A truly unique approach to spiritual understanding that can help others to see the deep connectedness between all aspects of the world around them. To have sudden and/or inspired insights into spiritual understanding.

Neptune: A subtle and intuitive ability to understand things deeply from a spiritual perspective.

Pluto: One's life can be transformed by opening up to deep spiritual understandings, and may experience great stress and pressure which are the result of these understandings trying to break through.

Node: One's connection with others promotes spiritual understanding.

Ascendant: One emanates an aura of generosity and understanding which can be deeply healing to the world around one.

Midheaven: One's career involves the expression of deep spiritual understanding. One's mission in life is to promote profound optimism and hope, which ultimately heals sorrow and depression.

Planets activating the Jupiter/Uranus midpoint

Principle: Unbridled enthusiasm. One's own unique (and often inspired) understanding. Sudden and unexpected good luck. To be excessively rebellious, sometimes just for the sake of being opposed to something. To be independently enthusiastic about one's own unique interests. To blow something completely out of proportion or to have an extreme reaction to something. Encouraging others to be more free.

Process: The freeing up of one's ability to learn and to grow. The ability to learn on one's own. The expansion of one's own independence. Learning from accidents.

Sun: To have an enthusiasm for pursuing one's own independent goals. Egotism expressed through a rebelliousness of spirit.

Moon: Sudden displays of extreme emotion. To have a distorted impression of what is going on due to allowing one's emotions and subjectivity to completely take one over.

Mercury: Communicating with an unbridled enthusiasm. Sudden bouts of excessive talking or thinking. A person who thinks independently and who has many ideas about many things. A love of free-ranging thinking and speculating.

Venus: To fall in love very suddenly or quickly, but possibly to fall out of it just as swiftly. A love of anything speculative and/or experimental. To be drawn to people who are extremely independent. To love anything or anyone who has about them an exuberant freedom.

Mars: One's own unique interests motivate one to action. Aggressive rebelliousness. To have confidence in your ability to find your own unique way of doing something. To be enthusiastically uninhibited in the display of one's hostility.

Saturn: A desire to be freely enthusiastic about something, but holding back from doing so, possibly because one is unsure of how one's actions will be construed. A fear of going too far.

Chiron: Your vibration spontaneously helps others to experience uninhibited liveliness and enthusiasm - the joy of release. It also encourages people to cultivate and explore their own individual uniqueness.

Neptune: To over-react to something that is imagined rather than real. To have an exuberantly creative imagination.

Pluto: To have an extreme need to be free and to express the self openly. Personal transformation comes through trusting the inspirations that one receives.

Node: The desire to connect with people in an experimental and/or uninhibited fashion. A need to form connections with people and/or groups who allow one a lot of freedom.

Ascendant: The need to relate to others in an open and uninhibited way, and to have relationships "with no strings attached."

Midheaven: A person who encourages all people to be free and to value their individuality. One who helps others to accept their own uniqueness.

Planets activating the Jupiter/Neptune midpoint

Principle: Richness of imagination. Copious idealism. To help others abundantly and generously. To be unworried and/or unconcerned about material things, and hence the possibility of being wasteful. A person who is easily duped or taken advantage of. An excess of dreaming or fantasizing causes trouble. Enthusiasm over possibilities.

Process: The growth of one's ability to be sympathetic and caring toward other people. The refining of one's understanding.

Sun: Fantasies and imaginings give one a lot of energy and bring meaning to one's life. Much envisioned about the future, but a great deal of it may be unrealistic and/or unattainable. A wealth of intuitive insights brought to light.

Moon: Much richness of feeling. One who is very nurturing and sympathetic. Dreams and imaginings bring one security. A person who gets into moods of cosmic exaltation. One who can be easily taken advantage of when their emotions are brought into play.

Mercury: A very imaginative way of communicating. One who delights in envisioning potentials. A sympathetic and understanding way of communicating.

A mind that is excessively idealistic.

Venus: One takes great pleasure in dreaming and speculating. An appreciation of richly imaginative art. A relationship in which the two people stimulate each other's imagination, but which may be impractical.

Mars: To do things based on one's imaginings rather than on practical reality. One asserts oneself based on an enthusiasm for ideals.

Saturn: To be excessively idealistic and then to be let down. Fear that one's ideals will not be realized. The need to be patient, careful and circumspect if one is to attain one's ideals.

Chiron: Your vibration innately stimulates others to open up and explore their imagination. You also have the ability to assist in harmonizing the subtle energies of other people, and of evoking in them enthusiasm for their ideals.

Uranus: To suddenly wake up from false hopes. The need to free oneself from the unrealistic and impractical side of idealistic imaginings. To have a highly unusual imagination. To have clear insights into the exact kind of help or support that someone needs.

Pluto: Impracticality has drastic results. The need to look deeply into one's imaginings to find out their inner meaning. Intense and/or persistent dreams and imaginings which are there to help one transform one's life.

Node: One may have unrealistic and/or impractical expectations about any individuals or groups one connects with. To associate with people who encourage one's imaginings. A need to find a grounded way to express one's imagination. A possible tendency to fall back on wishful thinking.

Ascendant: One comes across as a soft and caring person. To have unrealistic imaginings about who one is. To be a sympathetic person who wishes to help and uplift others.

Midheaven: To bring a richness of idealism and imagination to one's work. One's spiritual path involves uplifting others and encouraging optimism and hope in them.

Planets activating the Jupiter/Pluto midpoint

Principle: A tremendous desire to learn and to grow, and to acquire power, be it of the more intangible, mental sort, or worldly in nature. Driving, unstoppable enthusiasm. A relentless urge toward excess. The ability to transform how things are organized. To have big ideas and far-reaching aims. Going to great extremes. The persistent urge to do whatever is needed to overcome problems. Grandiosity. Religious fanaticism.

Process: The building up of energy, enthusiasm and motivation to create changes. The transformation of one's life through intense positivity and willingness to grow

Sun: A person with a huge ego. The desire to be a high profile individual. To become a master of great powers. One who has extremely big goals.

Moon: The emotional desire for some form of grandiosity. One who has extremely strong emotions and who desires to see change happen in the world. To be impressive to big ideas.

Mercury: To study things very deeply. To have an obsessive mind. To think big. To try to figure out a way to change things fundamentally and profoundly. To be highly impressed by philosophical ideas.

Venus: To be tremendously enthusiastic when in love and when relating to others. To desire relationships that are expansive and which grow and can be enriched. The tendency to be very free or even wasteful with money. The desire for a great amount of money. One is attracted to things that are big, overpowering, and grandiose.

Mars: You place high expectations of your own actions, are very enthusiastic about what you are doing, and expect to get a lot done. To go way too far in overdoing some thing. A person who will not be stopped.

Saturn: A desire to accomplish big things, but difficulty in doing so. A battle between the desire for excess and the desire to control oneself. One's growth is slowed down or retarded. The need to stop being obsessive about outer expansion and to turn toward deep soul-searching.

Chiron: Your vibration stimulates other people to be more enthusiastic and to take what they are doing far enough that they experience a breakthrough or transformation. You can also heal them of obsessive excesses by inducing them to see what it is that they really want. You can also intensify and transform their understanding of life.

Uranus: Having inspirations about how one can use a situation for personal expansion, or as a learning experience, or as a way of furthering evolution. A genius for knowing how to make something grow or evolve. The possibility that one's experiments will be wildly successful.

Neptune: To have grandiose imaginative visions. A tremendous willingness to do what ever one needs to do to help others. To motivate others and evoke great enthusiasm in them for the purpose of deceiving, using, or duping them.

Node: To be a big motivator of groups. To come together with others for the purpose of transformative expansion. One is needing in this lifetime to harness one's enthusiasm so that it can power one's evolution.

Ascendant: A person with a big personality. One relates to the world with a tremendous amount of enthusiasm. To be willing to change when one needs to, and to overcome the limits of one's identity.

Midheaven: To have a great desire to achieve mastery. To be willing to put tremendous amounts of energy into one's work. The desire to be promoted and/or to progress in one's work. To experience great luck in one's work.

Planets activating the Jupiter/Node midpoint

Principle: The desire to seek out connections through which one may grow and expand. A generous and expansive way of connecting with people. To make many connections with others. The ability to compensate for difficulties or limitations encountered when connecting with other people. Mutual benefit resulting from one's connections.

Process: The gaining of perspective on the past through deepening one's understanding of it. The seeking of life situations in which one can learn and evolve.

Sun: One is aware of the possibilities for growth inherent in one's connections. One feels it is important to enter into new experiences in life.

Moon: The emotional need to be accepted and approved of by others. Encouraging and supportive connections with others creates emotional security.

Mercury: A mind capable of making connections and synthesizing ideas. Communication that expresses a positive and enthusiastic attitude toward potentials for growth.

Venus: A love of art that feels like it has many interconnections within it. The desire in relationships to feel a fullness and richness of connection. In one's relationships one always wants greater closeness and fullness.

Mars: The ability to see many ramifications to one's actions, and to proceed in such a way that many things are taken into account. To be assertive about expanding one's connections.

Saturn: To be afraid of connecting with people. The slow and gradual expansion of one's connectedness. To be frustrated because you feel like you give more than the other person, or like there is too much going on between you and them, and so you feel overwhelmed.

Chiron: Your energy helps other people to enter more wholeheartedly, richly and fully into connections. You also can give them a lot of hope for the possibility of growth and confidence in taking in new experiences.

Uranus: A genius for making connections and for expanding one's connectedness to others. The ability to connect with others in a freely enthusiastic way.

Neptune: The ability to feel many subtle, hidden, or unspoken connections. Too much going on between oneself and the world causes confusion or disorientation.

Pluto: An extreme need to expand one's connections with others, sometimes so much so that the other person becomes intimidated and/or the connection weakened. The desire to connect with a lot of people and consequently the possibility of spreading oneself too thinly. As one makes more and more connections a transformation occurs.

Ascendant: A person who is capable of connecting with people in many different ways. One who relates to others through encouraging progress.

Midheaven: A career involving successfully connecting to other people and encouraging their progress. Your life goal involves seeing how excess can impede you, whereas realizing exactly what your good fortune is and making use of it will advance you.

Planets activating the Jupiter/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: To have an enthusiastic, open, and generous style. To do everything which much gusto and enthusiasm. One's identity expresses much optimism. The desire and ability to learn about oneself and to grow in terms of how one defines oneself.

Process: The growth of one's confidence and the progressive integration of more and more elements and qualities into one's self definition. The expansion of identity.

Sun: One expresses one's goals with a lot of enthusiasm and approaches them in the same way. One is vitalized by expansive and growing relationships. One's sense of life's meaning is expressed through an exuberant personality.

Moon: The emotional need to grow beyond the limits of one's identity. Feelings are expressed with much exuberance. The enthusiasm one feels for relating comes and goes and depends strongly on one's moods.

Mercury: One communicates in an exuberant style. When feeling insecure there is a tendency to come across as overly self-confident when communicating.

Venus: One loves to relate to many different things. Other people admire and appreciate your exuberant personality. Love enlarges one's identity.

Mars: One takes the initiative to try to enlarge upon and enrich one's relationships. Anger expressed through an overcompensating personality.

Saturn: One desires to grow in one's identity, but is possibly afraid to do so, or uncertain as to how to do it, and/or may take a long time doing it. Stress caused by the holding back of one's enthusiasm.

Chiron: One has an enthusiastic, generous aura about them which induces others to act the same way. One heals others through being understanding and sympathetic in relating to them.

Uranus: A sudden or unexpected expression of enthusiasm. The growth of one's personality can happen quickly, suddenly, or erratically.

Neptune: Idealism expressed exuberantly. To intuitively know how to capitalize on opportunities. Confusion caused by excessively identifying with other people.

Pluto: A driving need to expand one's sense of self, which could cause one eventually to feel overwhelmed or overloaded. Transformation comes through going beyond the limits of how one defines oneself.

Node: The need to seek out connections with groups or individuals who will help one to expand one's sense of self and identity, as well as become more self-aware. An enthusiastic, encouraging demeanor when connecting with others.

Midheaven: One's dharma in this lifetime involves playing one's role with fullness and enthusiasm. Success in one's work depends on projecting a positive attitude, although difficulties in one's work could come from being overly confident or too eager.

Planets activating the Jupiter/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: Enthusiasm for growing spiritually and for learning from elders and those in authority. Success in one's career. The ability to make the most of one's place in the world and to take an optimistic attitude toward it. To be overly intent on rising in the world and attaining a high status as a compensation for feelings of lack in other areas.

Process: The progressive understanding of one's place in the world and understanding of one's spiritual destiny.

Sun: The person places a lot of importance on either growing spiritually and following his dharma, or is intent on rising to a position of authority in the world. Of course, these may both be happening at the same time. One becomes noticed by those in power, or those who have authority. One who has big long-range goals.

Moon: Having a good standing in the world, and/or a high social position makes one feel emotionally secure. The emotional need to grow spiritually, but a tendency to have moods distort the reality of it, so that sometimes you feel dejected because you think you aren't getting anywhere, or, at other time feel elated over your progress.

Mercury: A mind which is enthusiastic about getting to the bottom of things. Thinking strongly influenced by those whom you think have authority. A mind searching for spiritual truth.

Venus: To be attracted to people with authority, or who have a lot of integrity. To love for one's work to grow and unfold. To love art that synthesizes many things together. To find it easy to get along with employers.

Mars: To work hard to grow spiritually. Being aggressive about moving up the ranks of one's profession. To be enthusiastic about maintaining a high-mindedness when you do anything.

Saturn: Progress in your career happens slowly and may cause frustration. High hopes for one's career results in feeling dejected. Learning one's career work requires patience and focus.

Uranus: A talent for finding just the right spiritual wisdom that one needs. Sudden good fortune in one's career work, Progress in that realm happens erratically.

Neptune: To feel an obligation to educate the world, or uplift it in some other way. To have career plans that are unrealistic in that they are too big. Confusion caused by being overwhelmed by too many things at once. You need to use your intuition to know how to grow in your career work.

Pluto: A driving desire for success in one's career. An extreme need to progress in one's career, or to expand one's expertise. Stress caused by taking on too much in one's profession.

Node: In this lifetime one is expanding one's connection to positive authority figures, and/or growing in one's abilities to be an authority oneself. The need to connect with those people who will encourage you in your work, or who have something to teach you about your profession.

Ascendant: A personality that expresses much enthusiasm for growth, and exuberantly getting on with the business of living and unfolding. Some might express this in worldly terms, others in spiritual seeking, depending on one's focus and level of evolution.

Planets activating the Saturn/Chiron midpoint

Principle: Disengaging from involvements which inhibit or frustrate one's personal growth (even though this may take a long time, or be a long, slow process). Understanding fears more deeply, which assists in the process of letting go of them. Learning to heal fears by drawing on the powers of beings beyond the physical plane.

Having a clearer and clearer perception of the blocks that people place in front of themselves for the purpose of retarding their spiritual growth, and potentially coming to a deep understanding of why they do this.

Entering into the Silence so that one can contact angels, ascended masters and other spirit guides. Learning how to not react to negativity, and therefore being able to avoid the karma resulting from doing so. Awareness of the truth that all problems encountered are for the purpose of furthering one's spiritual evolution, and unless the lessons offered by them are fully learned, the same problems or variations of them are likely to reoccur.

All of the above indications for Chiron/Saturn tend to become stronger and more possible as one grows older.

Process: The deep and profound sensing of form and pattern in all life, and hence the power to therapeutically transform patterns so as to maximize the process of evolution. Healing by assisting others in experiencing the clarity and simplicity of life.

Sun: An awareness of the spiritual reasons for why all of the limitations around us are present, and what we have to learn from them.

Moon: To be able to instinctively feel the limitations, fears and restrictions of other people. One's awareness of these has an automatically healing effect.

Mercury: To be able to communicate in a limited, careful way that is simple and profoundly targets exactly what needs to be said for the purpose of healing.

Venus: To help others to heal their fears and overcoming their limitations so they may experience love, beauty and fulfillment more completely.

Mars: Action that is careful and focused in so exact and profound a way that healing is the result.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm for understanding the spiritual reasons behind the limitations one experiences, and the desire to find ways to capitalize on and work with them as a means of learning and growing. The ability to make much out of little.

Uranus: A genius for having insights into the reasons and spiritual purposes behind all the restrictions and limitations one experiences. A unique gift for organizing things in a profoundly spiritual way, or a way that brings forth the deeper meaning of things

Neptune: Intuitive insight into how to overcoming limits and heal fears, as well as the ability to intuit the meaning and purpose behind all the restrictions that one experiences.

Pluto: To be obsessed with a desire to understand why one has to endure limitations and restrictions. One's life is transformed by coming into a profound understanding of one's fears, which allows one to finally release them.

Node: Seeking out connections with others who help you to be more aware of your limitations, fears and restrictions so that they can be healed.

Ascendant: One's emanates a deep, wise, profound aura that can help others to be more focused and clear. One's personality exerts an organizing and stabilizing influence on all around one.

Midheaven: Your mission in life is to realize how your life is organized, to perceive its patterns at a deep level, and to understand the meaning and purpose of all hardships and restrictions in your life. The ability to bring a healing and spiritualizing sense of order to one's career work.

Planets activating the Saturn/Uranus midpoint

Principle: The tension between old, established patterns, and new ways of being. The desire to be safe, orderly and organized conflicting with the desire to experiment and try different things. This combination signifies the need to take your own unique abilities and gifts seriously. It can bring the urge to break out of old programming and restrictions but also feeling a fear of doing so. It can also mean flashes of insight into what is wrong, and, potentially, receiving inspirations as to how to fix it.

Process: The gaining of insights into one's limitations. The realization of the true meaning of freedom and independence. The deeper spiritual implications of all those qualities which make one a unique individual.

Sun: You know it is important to find out who you really are, and what it is you really have to give, but doing so can take time and requires patience. Vitality harmed by repressing the urge to be free. You are able to bring to light your own unique vision of spirituality.

Moon: A person who is highly sensitive to others having negative reactions to their individuality and uniqueness. A desire to let go of emotional insecurities, but a fear of doing so.

Mercury: A highly unique way of structuring ideas. A need to speak freely about things, yet caution or fear about doing so. Cleverness in combining new ideas and methods with old, traditional ones.

Venus: To feel inhibited about openly showing affection. A love of art that experiments with structure. To be attracted to people who protect their own individuality and uniqueness and who refuse to compromise it in any way they don't have to.

Mars: Actions that cause unexpected and negative reactions. The ability to act in a way that balances openness and freedom with caution. Anger caused by a negative reaction to one's own uniqueness or differences.

Jupiter: The ability to synthesize the old with the new. To feel positive about eventually attaining freedom and liberation, no matter how long it takes. A wealth of ideas or plans concerning how to integrate what is already established with innovations. A philosophy of life that combines traditional ideas with one's own unique concepts and way of looking at existence.

Chiron: Your vibration helps others to overcoming their fear of being themselves, and can even help them to see the spiritual significance of that which they uniquely have to offer. You also help others to realize their own unique insights into spirituality.

Neptune: The ability to subtly or even subliminally integrate the old with the new. One's imagination may have a profound originality. You feel that your spiritual obligation is to offer something unique, distinctive, and/or original to the world, but you may have to do deep soul searching to come to an understanding of what is.

Pluto: The ability to completely transform structures and to make radical innovations.

To feel extremely and relentlessly pressured by a pull between the structure you already have and the need for growth into greater freedom.

Node: The need to connect with people who will take your individuality and unique gifts seriously. The tendency to repress oneself and have a difficult time being open when connecting with others. In this lifetime you are learning to take your own uniqueness more seriously.

Ascendant: A person who comes across as independent and serious, and/or eccentric and set in their ways. A personal style that combines the traditional with the innovative.

Midheaven: In your work you offer something to the world that is both unique and practical. A fear of being one's own authority, but a knowing that this is something you have to do, and which you will come into gradually the more you mature.

Planets activating the Saturn/Neptune midpoint

Principle: Psychic sensitivity, which can manifest in irrational fear, paranoia, feeling drained, confused, etc. The need to take one's psychic sensitivity seriously, and to protect it. Physical problems whose roots are to be found in one's psychic sensitivity, and which can therefore be difficult to diagnose by traditional medical means. The attempt to combine the ideal with the real, that is, to bring one's ideals into physical manifestation. The feeling of being let down, frustrated, or sad when one's ideals fail to become a reality. The need to stand firm and true by one's ideals and to purify them by purging them of any delusions or distortions, so that one may clearly see the relationship between one's hopes and dreams and physical reality.

Process: The clearing away of confusion and misconceptions. The realization of the relationship between one's ideals and the limitations of the physical world, which leads to the ability to hold on to ideals while yet also being able to live them in some practical, real way. The breaking down of old, worn out and/or needlessly limiting structures.

Sun: One feels that it is important to bring one's ideals into physical manifestation. One's vitality and physical health are easily disturbed by discordant or negative psychic energy. An awareness of the subtle and/or hidden structure of things and the ability to perceive their purpose.

Moon: The tendency to take in negative psychic energy without knowing it, and then to experience all sorts of negative emotions. One's emotions are soothed by being in simple, natural, calming and supportive environments. The ability to instinctively see those subtle forces that oppress other people.

Mercury: To communicate in a way that is both serious and subtle. Negative psychic energy has a disruptive effect on the nervous system. Frustration due to others not picking up on the subtleties one is trying to express. One's ideas have a confusion and/or chaotic structure to them.

Venus: In love one feels a need to deny the self by putting the other person first. One who is seriously idealistic about romance. The ability to appreciate suffering, and to have intuitive insights into its spiritual meaning and purpose.

Mars: One is capable of acting with subtle caution. Working hard to make one's ideals a physical reality. To be inhibited or repressed when it comes to asserting oneself, and the need to look deeply into the roots of this. It may be because one expects too much from oneself and is too idealistic about the potential outcome of what one does, making it simply easier, psychologically, to not act.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm for making one's ideals manifest in physical reality, and a confidence and optimism concerning the possible fulfillment of this.

Chiron: One can potentially heal others by helping them to experience the gap between their ideals and reality, and to perceive that this gap serves the purpose of fostering soul evolution. Helping others to see deeply into their fears so they may be released.

Uranus: One has original and unique insights into problems and their underlying and/or hidden nature, and into the structure of things in general. A genius for finding ways of bringing the products of one's imagination into physical reality.

Pluto: One may be plagued by fears, often of an inexplicable nature, and is driven to get to the bottom of these. A transformation of your life can occur if you are willing to take your own intuition seriously. Tremendous pressure exerted by one's psychic sensitivity. A powerful psychic sensitivity.

Node: To experience strange and/or inexplicable uncertainties and insecurities when connecting with other people. The need to clear discordant psychic energy accruing from connection with other people. The need in this lifetime to clearly define one's ideals, and to work to bring them into physical manifestation.

Ascendant: One who has about them the aura of a being sensitive and delicate. One plays the role of a serious and dedicated idealist.

Midheaven: One's spiritual goal in this lifetime is to define and clarify one's imagination so that it may become a vehicle for one's spiritual growth.

Principle: Spiritual matters press relentlessly on you, forcing you to grow - one way or another. Tremendous pressure that will inevitably lead to a breakthrough. Getting to the bottom of things. The transcending and transforming of limits. Going beyond the rules and laws one has set up for oneself. A person who is extremely serious, and often, even when they hide this, others pick up on it and are deeply affected by it, and sometimes feel intimidated. The breaking down of old structures and the forming of new ones.

Process: The progressive loss of the ability to avoid problems and challenges. The compulsion to return again and again to problems until they are truly and completely solved.

Sun: A very rigid ego structure may encase the person, who will draw to himself circumstances which will tear this down and transform it so that he may reflect more of the Spiritual Light.

Moon: The relentless drive to get to the bottom of one's subconscious and to bring up all that is there. A tremendous emotional craving to overcome one's fears and to be transformed by spirituality.

Mercury: To communicate in an intensely serious way. A mind fraught with intense curiosity, and who has a driving urge to get to the bottom of things. Obsessive concentration on certain ideas. At worst, an extreme mental rigidity.

Venus: Extreme frustrations felt in love. A love of very deep, transformative connections with other people. A love of anything which is profoundly spiritual. To feel utterly and totally unloved, which can push one toward transformative spiritual experiences and a realization of the power of divine love.

Mars: Aggressive urges that are extremely repressed. The ability to be extremely controlled and focused when doing anything. Efforts that can lead to profound breakthroughs.

Jupiter: One is enthusiastic about transcending one's limits. Growth can meet with intense restrictions which one learns much from. An optimism that is intensely spiritual and which maintains itself even in the face of drastic hardships.

Chiron: Your energy subtly communicates to other people that any and all limits can be transcended. The ability to heal even the deepest fears, and to help others transmute the most negative of emotions.

Uranus: Extremely negative feels about all that is unique or different about oneself. Suddenly one gets to the bottom of things. An extreme fear of being free.

Neptune: Profoundly deep psychic experiences. An idealism that one carries as if it were a horrible, oppressive burden. Tremendous insights into how limitations can be transcended.

Node: One's connections are imbued with deep seriousness and profundity. One relentlessly seeks to go beyond the limits of one's connections and to connect at an ever deeper level. The need in this lifetime for spiritual transformation.

Ascendant: One may come across to others as a deeply sincere person, and/or one full of spiritual power. At worst, one who is strongly identified with having power and holding onto it tightly, and who may associate themselves with tradition, and do so in an extremely rigid manner.

Midheaven: One's career involves spiritual transformation. An extremely serious desire to grow and to attain the fullest that one can possibly attain to.

Planets activating the Saturn/Node midpoint

Principle. Deep, enduring, and/or spiritual relationships. To have relationships that last a long time. One finds it difficult to enter into new experiences, due either to fear or to being overly tied to the past. One finds one's connections with others oppressive. A gradual overcoming of the past.

Process: The overcoming of the fear of change. The identification of the problems and limitations that exist between oneself and others, as well as the realization of their spiritual purpose.

Sun: To have deep connections with others strongly increases one's vitality, ability to be centered, and sense of purpose. Being held back by the past frustrates one's ability to reach one's goals and/or fulfill one's purpose.

Moon: The emotional need for strong, stable connections with others - though in neurotic states these stable conditions might well be dysfunctional and/or destructive. To feel vulnerable when entering into new experiences, and possibly the tendency to not be able to be objective about them.

Mercury: To make deep connections when one communicates. To think about the problems inherent in making progress. One's mind may have great difficulty in letting go of old, long-established ideas.

Venus: To appreciate the difficulties and limitations inherent in connecting with others. A love of connecting with others in a focused, deep, and/or profound way.

Mars: Action is carried out to maintain old ways of being. The need to actively confront one's fear of change, and to take the initiative to enter into new experiences.

Jupiter: A desire to understand and learn from one's connections through recognizing their spiritual aspects. An enthusiasm for having deep connections with other people and/or groups.

Chiron: One's vibration naturally and inevitably brings depth to all one's connections. You intuitively heal others' fear of letting go of the past and or fear of entering into new situations and contacts.

Uranus: A genius for working with or around the restrictions and limitations one finds when connecting with others. Strange or unusual limiting factors encountered when connecting with individuals or groups.

Neptune: To be able to intuitively perceive the limitations one encounters when connecting. One's ideal is to connect deeply to others. Confusion as to the problems encountered when one connects.

Pluto: An extreme fear of letting go of the past. Intensive, even stifling restrictions encountered in one's connections with others. Relentless resistance to taking in new experiences.

Ascendant: One who resists changes that occur in relationships. Because of fear one desires to maintain the status quo in relationships. The need to realize that one's lack of connection or restriction of connection with others is due to how one sees oneself.

Midheaven: When one is open to spiritual guidance and direction one finds oneself entering into profound connections with others. All difficulties in connecting with others impel one to become more closely aligned with one's higher self.

Planets activating the Saturn/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: To feel restricted or limited by the role one plays in life. To dislike one's own appearance and/or outer characteristics. A fear of allowing one's identity to change.

The need to perceive the spiritual purpose of one's role in life. A person who comes across as sincere, serious, and/or somber, and maybe laconic. One who is seen as limited or inadequate, or as a wise one or elder. Relationships that are difficult, profound, and which test or try the people involved in them. The slow, gradual unfolding of relationships.

Process: Coming into an awareness of the restrictions imposed by one's outer identity, and finding ways to work creatively with these. The realization of the limitations one imposes on oneself.

Sun: One prides oneself on being a serious, dependable person. One works toward one's goals by playing a serious, dependable role in life. One is vitalized by having deep, spiritual relationships.

Moon: Security comes through having a structured and definite role to play in life. One is impressionable to negative reactions about oneself coming from other people. Secure, dependable relationships make one feel nurtured and safe.

Mercury: One's ideas are presented in a serious, organized manner, though may be ill-received by people if you have a lack of confidence in yourself.

Venus: A love of being taken seriously. A beautiful way of presenting oneself as having depth and wisdom. One finds it easy to be taken seriously.

Mars: Action carried out in a careful, patient, serious manner. The desire and ability to work on your own limitations and inadequacies.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm is hampered by self-uncertainty. Your enthusiasm comes across as serious and sincere. A positive attitude toward working out the problems encountered when relating.

Chiron: Your very being helps others to identify more fully with their spiritual self, and to overcome feelings of personal inadequacy. You also help people to relate in a deeper more profound fashion.

Uranus: You want others to take your uniqueness and originality seriously. The desire to be free of one's personal limitations and inadequacies. At worst, you ignore them, but can only do this for so long. At best, you see how you really need them because they help you to grow, and commit yourself to working on them as a path toward liberation.

Neptune: To have idealistic fantasies about being taken seriously. Confusion or chaos affecting the structure of one's relationships and the potential for deep intuitive insights into the problems, limitations and restrictions encountered in them. The breaking down of personality structure, so that it might be reconstituted at a higher and more refined level.

Pluto: You are relentlessly pushed to come to terms with the limitations you place on your own identity. An extreme need to spiritualize one's identity. To be obsessively rigid in one's personality. An intensely defensive persona.

Node: You play the role of wise one when you connect to other people. The tendency to seek out connections that reinforce all of one's limitations and inadequacies, and the need to seek connections that help one to learn from oneself and spiritualize one's identity.

Midheaven: Connection with authority figures who reinforce one's sense of personal limitations and inadequacies. This is happening so that eventually you will learn to connect more with your spiritual self so that your identity becomes gradually more in alignment with it.

Planets activating the Saturn/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: The finding of true spirituality through union with the Spiritual Light. Difficulties in allowing in spiritual messages. The need to listen to the spiritual self within rather than to outer authorities. Trouble with authority figures. The slow attainment of success in one's career. The tendency to question whether or not one is following the right career, because one so deeply yearns for a line of work that is truly and spiritually fitting for the self.

Process: The realization of the restrictions that society imposes on oneself, and the finding of creative ways of working with these. The questioning of authorities and authority figures in an attempt to find answers that resonate with what one deeply knows to be spiritual truth.

Sun: One feels it is important to find the right sort of authority figures who one can trust and from whom one can receive needed guidance. Frustrations concerning one's career cause a lack of self-confidence or self-esteem. When one is truly pursuing one's spiritual path one has much vitality.

Moon: One finds security in a settled and certain career, but this can change to insecurity eventually if it is not the right career for you. One is very impressionable to the ideas of people in authority.

Mercury: One aims for absolute ethicality in one's thinking and communicating. One is uncertain about the rectitude of one's ideas because one feels insecure about being one's own authority.

Venus: To desire a love relationship that advances one spiritually. Ethical sincerity in love relationships. To feel that one receives a lack of respect from one's lover. Art that expresses spirituality.

Mars: To act in a careful and high-minded fashion. Working to gradually advance one self in one's profession. To hold one's actions in alignment with high ethical standards.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm for careful and patient progress. A willingness to learn more about the difficulties encountered in spiritual growth and how they may be solved. A strong motivation to be disciplined and patient in one's career.

Chiron: Your vibration helps others to be more high minded and to feel a deeper connection to their spiritual self. You also help them, to the extent that they are ready, to listen to and follow their own inner guidance.

Uranus: A genius for questioning authority and pointing out its inadequacies and deficits, thereby helping others to find authorities who are more connected to Spirit, that is, of a higher vibrational nature. An original, unique, and/or inspired way of structuring spiritual knowledge.

Neptune: To intuit the deeper meanings of spiritual concepts. To idealize authorities and consequently the potential of being let down by them. Negative imaginings cut one off from one's spiritual source. To imagine that one has a lack of security in life.

Pluto: A relentless search for ultimate authorities, expressed sometimes as an extreme need for a father figure. A driving urge to rise to the highest possible level in one's profession.

Node: The need to seek out connections with others who can help one become more in tune with one's purpose in life. To feel a lack of respect coming from the people or groups with whom one is connected.

Ascendant: One whom others see as serious and high-minded. One craves to fully identify with one's spiritual self. The need to find greater confidence in being one's own spiritual authority through giving up identifying with one's limitations and inadequacies.

Planets activating the Chiron/Uranus midpoint

Principle: The ability to be open-minded and because of this to see things in a new way by freeing oneself from limiting biases. Sudden messages coming from beyond, often manifesting in an unexpected or surprising form. The ability to recognize and interpret omens, signs, and portents. The ability to heal feelings of being alienated, isolated, or cut off. Helping others to bring out their unique gifts and talents and to accept and value their own uniqueness.

Process: The progressive giving up of all biases, judgments and taken-for-granted notions of how spiritual forces may manifest. The ability to spontaneously and by inspiration create shocks and surprises, often of a subtle nature, for the purpose of awakening others to the spiritual dimensions of life.

Sun: To find meaning and purpose everywhere in life, in strange and surprising places and ways. Life's meaning is experienced as ever changing and shifting in the way it opens up new and unexpected vistas of meaning.

Moon: One is aware of the uniqueness of ever different emotion that arises, and even though one may seem to experience the same feelings over and over their subtleties and contexts make them forever new and distinctive. Healing manifests through allowing oneself to be emotionally free and uninhibited.

Mercury: A mind capable of forever finding new, striking, unique and vivid ways of expressing ideas, and of healing others through such communicating.

Venus: An appreciation and love of the uniqueness of each individual, and even each situation that arises in life, and to see that healing may arise out of this uniqueness in infinite and ever-changing ways. Knowing the value of letting go of expectations and appreciating all the surprises and unforeseen events that cross one's path.

Mars: To be willing to experiment and to change one's direction and plan of action on inspiration. Actions whose impulse arises from sudden and/or unexpected insights.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm and joyous reaching out that may take others by surprise and help them to be more free and uninhibited.

Saturn: One may find it difficult to be free and open but feels the persistent need to do so. One is caught off guard by unexpected happenings and this can help one to free oneself of needless restrictions and limitations.

Neptune: Insights into the ways that anything and everything can be used for healing purposes. An intuition that receives messages from beyond that can come in many forms, such as portents and synchronistic occurrences.

Pluto: One feels an intense internal pressure to be free and open. The compulsion to overcome expectations, limiting beliefs and agendas so that one may experience the uniqueness of each moment.

Node: Seeking out connections with others who help one explore and affirm one's own individual uniqueness and its gifts. A need in this lifetime to let go of the fear of being different and/or alienated.

Ascendant: One has a personality that helps others to open up and be freer. An immediate response to events and circumstances that can be surprising and/or unpredictable and which can clear away restrictions or blockages.

Midheaven: The need to take a highly individualistic approach to one's career. One's life purpose involves taking a free, open, experimental and independent approach to one's work.

Planets activating the Chiron/Neptune midpoint

Principle: A subtle sensing of the presence of helping intelligences, and ability to tap into them for guidance. Seeing beyond others' negativity, shortcomings and weaknesses into the perfection of their soul, and through doing so increasing its ability to manifest. Ability to transmit love to others in a subtle, hidden, or indirect way. Helping others to recognize other realms of reality. Being a refining and uplifting influence wherever one goes. Tuning others into magic and beauty.

Chiron/Neptune will create life situations that help one to overcome unrealistic idealism, addictions, and fantasies that may be retarding one's spiritual growth. It can help one to use one's imagination as an instrument for healing.

Process: The clearing of the imagination of fears and the aligning of it with spiritual forces. The growth of one's ability to accept and trust spiritual messages, and to be able to receive them by attentive attunement to their wavelength.

Sun: To be highly aware of the healing potentials of the imagination, together with the desire to use them in a meaningful way. The ability to bring to light those subtleties that are the ones that will most heal a situation.

Moon: A tremendous refinement of feeling that has the potential of healing others at subtle, hidden levels. To be able to nurture others in a delicate, subtle manner.

Mercury: A mind capable of communicating deeply healing subtleties. Communicating that can heal confusion.

Venus: Love expressed with an intuitive subtlety that can be deeply healing. Relating in a way that uplifts the other person and creates a deeper connection to ideals.

Mars: To act in intuitive ways that bring in those energies needed to balance and harmonize a situation. Assertiveness carried out with an inspired subtlety.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm guided by subtle influences. The ability to understand things in a deeply subtle manner.

Saturn: To be sensitive to subtle influences and to possibly feel afraid of and/or oppressed by them, until one realizes that following the guidance of one's intuition is a key to one's spiritual growth.

Uranus: To freely follow one's intuitive impulses brings profound healing. A genius for working therapeutically with subtle influences.

Pluto: To have intense intuitions that will not go away until they are listened to and acted on.

Node: The ability to be aware of the subtle influences at work in all your connections. When you allow them to guide you, healing is the result.

Ascendant: A personality that emanates a subtle healing force. The ability to induce others to have a deeper awareness of their own identity.

Midheaven: Healing visions shared with the world. One brings a therapeutically imaginative energy to one's career. One's mission in life is to clear away confusion and bring light to that which is hidden, as well as to listen to and follow the messages received from one's intuition.

Planets activating the Chiron/Pluto midpoint

Principle: A strong compulsion to overcoming egotism and to see it for what it is - fear based. Feeling strongly urged, even pushed, by forces beyond oneself to grow by transcending one's limitations. The process of learning how to let through messages from beyond, as well as to accept them and act on them. Strong, persistent impulses that one must eventually follow.

Chiron/Pluto heals the striving to acquire power for selfish reasons, and helps one to use power to encourage, guide, and assist others in their spiritual growth.

Process: An intense desire to evolve creates situations that cause deep changes to occur. One feels the pressure of spiritual forces attempting to bring light and harmony to situations, and needs to not resist them.

Sun: One is highly aware of persistent healing forces which are always looking for a way to manifest. The pressure to let go of agendas and give in to the force of evolution. The relentless search for what is truly important.

Moon: To experience feelings of great intensity, which, if given into, can lead to profound healing.

Mercury: Mental obsessiveness which, if intently focused on can lead to communication breakthroughs and a profound connectedness to the Spiritual Light.

Venus: To be intensely and compulsively drawn to certain things which you need to embrace, for doing so will help you to connect to those energies which will optimize your evolution. Love expressed as a potent and transforming therapeutic force.

Mars: Action which has a deeply healing and transformative effect. Extremely intense impulses are felt, and need to be acted on, or else great stress might be the result.

Spiritual forces are pushing hard at one to take the initiative to further evolution.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm so tremendous that it can create profound transformations. Being obsessively excessive eventually has the effect of spiritually transmuting one's being.

Saturn: A fear of letting in messages from beyond, and of acting on them. A feeling that one is inadequate to do this, or does not know how to do it. But a sense that one MUST do it, and through patience and focus one WILL eventually do it.

Uranus: One is guided by spiritual forces that push one to break away from old forms, be experimental, and tune into one's inner genius. Inspiration that has a profoundly transforming effect.

Neptune: One's imaginings are so intense that they can transform one's life. One's imaginative life contains a cosmic power that can be profoundly healing. Extreme confusion, which, if accepted and transcended, can lead eventually to great intuitive clarity.

Node: To be drawn to connections with others with whom profound and intense healing may be experienced. To deeply and fully come to terms so completely with the past that one is freed to evolve.

Ascendant: A personality that emanates an extremely healing energy, which may be overt or covert. One is pushed in this lifetime to let go of the strongest and deepest attachments that have formed one's identity.

Midheaven: An intense need to fulfill one's life purpose and to be open to spiritual guidance, though one often finds that any pursuit of this may seem to get nowhere. The key here is to learn to harmonize one's will with the will of the Spiritual Light and then to let everything flow.

Planets activating the Chiron/Node midpoint

Principle: A compelling need to connect to positive energy and to spirit guides. An urgent need to clear past karmas and to resolve issues of the past so that one can move forward. A need to understand one's attachments to the past and how those attachments are fear-based. Needing to seek out people who are willing to grow and evolve with oneself. A need to connect with people who will accept the love one has to give. Tension between oneself and others caused by others unwillingness to grow or change.

Often the source of this tension is hidden. Sometimes one has great problems with others that are hard to define. The only way to solve these problems is to trust in one's instincts and to be receptive to answers coming from deep inside oneself or from spirit guides.

Process: The finding of ways to evolve, often ways one does not expect and which turn out to be short-cuts that speed the process of the growth of consciousness.

Sun: One's life is given meaning and purpose by connecting spiritually with others. To be aware of and vitalized by one's spiritual connections to the whole of reality.

Moon: An emotional need to overcome the past and to seek out those experiences which will enhance one's evolution. To instinctively feel what areas and aspects of one's past need healing.

Mercury: One is able to communicate ideas that come directly from spiritual sources. Through communicating one's helps others to connect more to spiritual forces. Thinking and communicating that help to heal the past.

Venus: A love and appreciation of spiritual connectedness. One has an appreciation of where one has come from and where one is going and of how spiritual forces may be enlisted to enhance the process of evolution.

Mars: To build spiritual connections and to carry out actions in a spiritually connected way. The striving to connect with spiritual forces. Engaging in conflicts that have a spiritual healing effect on one and which advance one's evolution.

Jupiter: One is able to connect with spiritual forces in a full and rich way, on many levels. An understanding of spiritual connections and an ability to enhance and further them.

Saturn: To feel cut off from one's spiritual connections, or unable to make or find them. The frustration concerning this nags at one until the connections are formed. Difficulty in connecting with healing forces, and a need for patience, persistence and focus in doing so. Connecting to healing forces that operate gradually or slowly in one's life.

Uranus: One experiences spiritual connections in many unexpected and/or surprising ways. A freedom and openness in the experiencing of spiritual connectedness and the ability to help others to find their own individual way of doing this and of coming to their own unique realization of their spiritual connectedness.

Neptune: One may have visions of how everything is spiritually connected. Subtle awareness of the way in which the force of evolution is working. The inability to let go of the past creates confusion and delusion in one's life.

Pluto: An intense desire to let go of the past and to experience spiritual connectedness. The seeking of outer power to serve the ego because one is unable to let go of the past and take in those new experiences which would feed the soul.

Ascendant: Suffering due to one's personality causing one to be cut off from spiritual forces, or joy due to one's personality being open and unattached enough to allow one to experience spiritual connectedness.

Midheaven: One's life purpose involves fostering spiritual connectedness between people. Healing one's attachment to the past is a key to being able to fulfill one's life purpose.

Planets activating the Chiron/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: The need to realize that one is able to connect with spirit guides, nature spirits and angels, and to be a freely mutating and transforming agent of healing. The compelling urge to allow one's self-confidence to spontaneously arise from one's spiritual self rather than be rooted in materialistic, passing or ephemeral things. The need to let go of the limiting projections and definitions that others impose on oneself.

Process: The ability to realize the power of the moment, to unite with it, and to channel spiritual energies into the now.

Sun: The realization of the importance of the need for healing one's identity. Also, letting go of agendas so that the healing potential of the moment can be realized. The ego is healed by strengthening one's identity with spiritual forces.

Moon: The emotional need to clear negative elements from one's identity. The need to open oneself to those forces that can elevate, refine and spiritualize one's identity.

Mercury: A way of communicating that carries a healing aura, no matter what is said. The ability to couch things in terms that will most foster spiritual openings.

Venus: One's love relationships are harmed or blocked by negative elements in one's identity, and, by the same token can be healed when one identifies more and more strongly with spiritual forces.

Mars: One's ability to be effective in one's actions is inhibited by the limitations one places on one's identity and self-concept. Conversely one's actions can become powerfully fruitful when one aligns one's identity with spiritual forces.

Jupiter: Eagerness and enthusiasm to spiritualize one's identity, and to encourage other to see themselves in more cosmic and eternal terms.

Saturn: To feel cut off from spiritual forces, and/or unable to identify with them. The need to overcome the fear of losing one's identity, so that it may expand into alignment with spiritual realities.

Uranus: An experimental approach to allowing spiritual forces to work through one's identity. This may manifest as role playing, acting, and the putting on and taking off of identities at will. A highly independent and even inspired way of expressing spiritual realities.

Neptune: As one's intuition becomes more and more attuned to the spiritual realms one's personality becomes cleared and healed, so that it is a transparent vehicle through which cosmic forces may work.

Pluto: The tendency to hold on obsessively hard to one's identity, and yet to feel a deep need to let go of its limits so that spiritual realities can be experienced.

Node: One connects to others for the purpose of mutually cleansing and clearing and spiritualizing identities. Negatively one seeks out connections that continue to reinforce one's identity limits, until such time as that becomes so frustrating and painful that it has to change.

Midheaven: One's life purpose is to continue to let go of the limits of one's identity until it is perfectly spiritualized. One may be unhappy and unfilled in one's career until one is able to give up old and restrictive ways of seeing oneself.

Planets activating the Chiron/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: The need to be receptive to messages coming in from the universe. One's career needs to involve giving unconditional love to others. Any career in which one is not contributing to positively changing the world will tend to bring one misery and frustration. The need to not be attached to one's reputation in the world, to not be concerned if it is negative, and to not be too intent on trying to keep it positive.

The need to recognize oneself as a spiritual authority, and to use that authority positively by helping others to grow in consciousness.

Process: The giving up of all defenses that prevent one's connection to the spiritual realms. The giving and receiving of parenting that is deeply healing. The ability to allow oneself to be parented by spiritual forces.

Sun: One's sense of self-importance is based on one's career and place in the world. When this is expressed with selfishness and pettiness suffering is the result. When one sees one's career ultimately as a healer and sharer of spiritual energies (no matter what the actual worldly career may be) one fulfills one's purpose in life and is a bringer of light.

Moon: The emotional need to play a part in healing the world and fostering the entrance of spiritual energy into physical reality. The ability to make others feel that they are a necessary and important part in the world and that they have a limitless potential to change it.

Mercury: To communicate with a spiritual authority that can express much deep wisdom and sincerity. This serves to empower other people and to connect them more completely to spiritual forces.

Venus: In love relationships one helps the other person to attain to greater and truer self-respect. Love that channels spiritual forces.

Mars: Action that may carry much spiritual authority. The ability to act on the direction of spiritual messages.

Jupiter: The ability to expand and encourage everyone's being connected to spiritual forces and to follow their true path in life.

Saturn: You feel that you can't find your right and true place in the world. A need to let go of fears, limitations and biases that frustrate one's connecting to spiritual realities.

Uranus: The ability to bring new awareness and perspectives to the world. Flashes of insight into the higher meaning of things. Original insights into how the world order needs to be changed and into the specific type of parenting each individual needs.

Neptune: Intuitive insights into the life purpose of both oneself and others. An idealism that looks to heal the negative parental and authoritarian images that have plagued the world.

Pluto: One feels a tremendous inner pressure to find and fulfill one's life purpose, but will not be able to alleviate this pressure until one allows oneself to become completely receptive to spiritual energies.

Node: Through one's connections with others one discovers at deeper and deeper levels what one's life purpose is. Negatively one seeks out connections with others who reinforce one's negative image of parent and authority figures, which serves to disempower rather than empower one.

Ascendant: One may clearly receive spiritual messages when one believes one is capable of doing so, and when one lets go of the negative and limiting aspects of their identity.

Planets activating the Uranus/Neptune midpoint

Principle: The originality and uniqueness of one's imagination. The freeing up of one's imagination and intuitive perception, which can induce visions and revelations. Upsets which cause confusion and derangement, the purpose of these being to open the consciousness to higher realities. The refinement of one's own special gifts and talents. The way one relates to the mass consciousness.

Process: The liberation of one's inner vision from the repressions imposed by the conscious mind, so that spiritual realities can be more clearly seen. The receiving of deep insights into one's own personal evolution and destiny.

Sun: The ability to bring hidden truths and realities to light. One's goal is to find one's own unique way to further the evolution of humanity.

Moon: One feels many things, including the emotions of other people as well as the emotions of humanity as a whole. A richness and subtlety of feeling that is wonderfully cosmic.

Mercury: A mind steeped in cosmic realities. To think in highly subtle and expanded terms. One's communication is visionary, even ecstatic. A mind fraught with strange confusions.

Venus: An expanded and visionary love nature. Reveling in romance. A love of all that is otherworldly. A love of art which is cosmic, unusual, and and/or which expresses the energies of the mass consciousness of humanity.

Mars: A cosmic passion. One who is willing to work hard to fulfill a personal vision, and/or to help humanity. One's action may be ineffective due to being erratic, vague, too diffused, and/or ungrounded.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm for contributing to the evolution of the whole world. A willingness to explore the hidden realms and to work with subtle energies, as well as a strong potential for success in this. At worst one may be overly grandiose, to the point of being unable to focus one's energies.

Saturn: To be afraid of exploring other realms, and yet one has a deep inner calling to do so. The need to take other planes of existence as well as one's intuitive insights seriously. One delves into all of these things, but tends to do so gradually and slowly, often with much questioning of them, and of oneself.

Chiron: One's vibration brings a subtle cosmic element to everything one touches and every person one meets. Healing others through making them aware that they are much greater, more powerful, and wiser than any and all of their problems.

Pluto: A driving urge to delve into cosmic realities and to see and know what is beyond physical reality. To be extremely impacted by the energies of the mass consciousness. Subtle forces, beings from other dimensions, and all sorts of other hidden energies intrude on one's reality, and if one resists these they become all the more insistent.

Hence a need to give in to the process of liberating one's inner vision.

Node: In this lifetime one needs to explore one's visionary nature and to allow inspirations and intuitive insights to come forth.

Ascendant: One's personality has an ineffably cosmic quality that may manifest as charisma. One identifies strongly with helping humanity to evolve and to be uplifted into a higher and more expanded spiritual plane.

Midheaven: One's career involves helping humanity. The need to seek security in spiritual terms, and to help the world to see beyond the illusion of physical reality.

Planets activating the Uranus/Pluto midpoint

Principle: An extreme desire for freedom and for change. A complete and potentially drastic revolution. To burn one's bridges behind oneself. Drastic situations that unleash pent-up energy. The growth and evolution of one's own unique gifts, talents, and abilities.

Process: The overthrowing of deeply entrenched restrictions and limitations. Giving in to one's deepest urges to change.

Sun: To have strange and/or highly unique goals. To know that change and innovation are important, and the readiness to confront whatever one has to do to make change happen. Sudden and/or drastic turns of events that deeply affect and potentially change the way you pursue your goals, or even the goals themselves.

Moon: Feelings which sometimes come forth with extreme openness and freedom. The emotional need to be oneself, no matter what the cost, and to make change happen.

An extreme need to overcome the impressions that others make on one.

Mercury: A highly unusual way of communicating, a genius for communicating in a way that makes people profoundly aware of the need for change. One who has extremely radical and/or original ideas.

Venus: To find beauty in that which is extremely unusual, strange, and/or radically experimental. One's love relationships may go through extreme changes. One is attracted to eccentric or intensely unique people.

Mars: To assert oneself in extremely uninhibited fashion. To engage in extreme rebellion that is potentially highly destructive. Working hard to effect radical changes.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm expressed with a nearly total lack of inhibition, and which may come upon one very suddenly and erratically. To go to great extremes with much exuberance. A fearless expression of extreme uniqueness.

Saturn: To have an intense desire for change, innovation and even revolution, but to either be afraid of this, and/or careful, cautious, and patient about engaging in it.

Chiron: One's vibration helps others to open up and to be more free, and even eventually to instigate profound changes in one's life.

Neptune: To be able to effect a profound revolution in a subtle, hidden, and/or unseen way. To harbor extremely strange ideals and imaginings. Extreme changes which create chaos and/or confusion.

Node: The need in this lifetime to be more uninhibited and to allow vast and even extreme changes into one's life. To connect with others who will allow one to be one's own unique self, and who will support the power inherent in that.

Ascendant: One has an inherent way of surprising other people, and/or of catching them off guard. A person who cannot be categorized, and who is unpredictable, often in the extreme. One identifies with the role of being a bringer of radical change and/or innovation.

Midheaven: The overthrow of old and worn out ideas. One who can become a radical reformer in the world. Experimental and/or innovative breakthroughs in one's career.

Planets activating the Uranus/Node midpoint

Principle: To connect with others freely. Sudden contacts, or sudden changes in one's connections. The growth of one's individuality through become more deeply aware of and in tune with one's own unique nature. To free oneself of the past. The ability to perceive with ever increasing clarity one's own individual needs.

Process: The testing of the limits of one's connections, and the bringing of greater freedom and openness to them. The forming and dissolving of connections at will, or as needed.

Sun: You feel it is important that you are able to connect with other people in a free and open manner. Placing importance on relationships that are as free from restrictions and limitations as possible.

Moon: You have an emotional need to be able to freely connect with others. A feeling of safety and security when you are allowed to be open and uninhibited in your personal interactions. The tendency at times to run away from problems, especially when you feel vulnerable.

Mercury: A mind which is capable of making unusual connections that are often inspired and original. The desire to be able to share one's ideas with others openly. To have new insights into the past. A genius for coming up with new and original ideas of how to progress.

Venus: The need for freedom in your relationships. Love relationships in which the people involved connect in a free and open way. The ability to get others to appreciate the need for change. A love of art that is freed of the past and carries a new and/or experimental energy that is meaningful.

Mars: In whatever you do you feel a need now and then to experiment with and/or change your approach, so that you are constantly overcoming any tendency to just fall into a pattern or routine.

Jupiter: Success through freely connecting with other people and through bringing new ideas into the world.

Saturn: To be patient and persistent about bringing new ideas into the world and furthering human progress. To be cautious about being open in groups. To have difficulty being free and uninhibited when connecting with others.

Chiron: Your vibration helps others to free themselves from the past as well as to see the past in a new way. You also help others to be more open when they connect with others, and to seek connections that fulfill their own unique needs.

Neptune: One's imagination is characterized by the ability to make unusual, startling and/or vivid connections between things. Insights that can free one from the past and cause one to see it from a new perspective.

Pluto: A driving urge to free oneself from the past as well as to be able to connect in an uninhibited way with others. To achieve greater freedom has a deeply transformative effect on the self.

Ascendant: One has the ability to freely connect with others. The desire to be able to change the self and to let go of the limits you tend to place on your identity so that you may grow.

Midheaven: Your dharma in this lifetime is to help others to free themselves up to grow, to release themselves from limiting ties of the past, and to follow their own unique destiny.

Planets activating the Uranus/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: An unusual and/or unpredictable personality. To have fast and/or surprising reactions to stimuli. To be seen by other people as unique, original, and/or highly distinctive. One does not easily fit into accepted categories, and, in fact, may rebel against them. One who changes or experiments with one's outer appearance.

Process: To free oneself of the limitations of one's own identity. To try on different roles and images. To overcome the projections that other people place on oneself.

Sun: Unusual and/or unique means of going about the fulfilling of one's goals. A person who feels it is important to be themselves and to live under as few restraints as possible.

Moon: The emotional need to be free and open in relating to others, and to not have to fit into accepted patterns of behavior. To feel vulnerable about one's own uniqueness. Security derived from being independent.

Mercury: Thoughts are expressed in a highly original manner which carries one's own unique personal stamp. A person who has a unique or striking way of saying things. The ability to see each idea and situation as new and unique. Cleverness in labeling things, or inventing names for them.

Venus: One is admired or found attractive due to one's unique or unusual personality. A love of relationships that are unusual, different, or full of surprises. One finds beauty in anything that is unusual or experimental. A love of relating in an unpredictable manner.

Mars: One asserts oneself in a highly independent manner that might shock, surprise, or intimidate other people. A person who is intent on doing things in his own way, and who rebels against being told what to do or how to do it.

Jupiter: To express one's enthusiasm in an uninhibited, erratic and/or impulsive fashion. One who is self-taught, and/or has one's own way of learning. To be excessive as a means of asserting one's independence.

Saturn: The guarding of one's independence. To be sensitive or touchy about maintaining one's freedom. To be shy or bashful about being different and unique. The older one gets the more one is overt about one's own uniqueness.

Neptune: One has intuitions about the real nature of things that is hidden behind their outer appearances. A refined way of presenting oneself as a unique and distinctively different individual. To be confused by sudden occurrences in relationships.

Pluto: To catch people off guard and surprise others as a means of asserting or gaining power over them. To be intensely strange in one's outer appearance or demeanor.

Node: To seek out groups or individuals who will allow one to be oneself and to be open and uninhibited. A need in this lifetime to free oneself from labels and to allow one's own identity to develop on its own, rather than be overly conditioned or restricted by the expectations of other people.

Midheaven: One's spiritual path involves overcoming the restrictions of labels, and creatively and experimentally playing with identities. One's career involves a unique or distinctive way of doing things.

Planets activating the Uranus/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: To find one's own unique path in life, and/or to approach it experimentally and/or on one's own. To have unique or unusual gifts to give to the world. Upsets or unexpected occurrences in one's career. To rebel against authority figures and/or the status quo. One's career work is carried out in an independent, unique and/or innovative manner.

Process: Opening oneself up to messages and other impulses coming from the spiritual realms. The freeing oneself from social restrictions and negative dependence on authorities and authority figures.

Sun: One feels it is important to have freedom in one's career, and ultimately to be one's own authority.

A desire to be looked up to for the distinctiveness and originality of one's work.

Moon: To over-exaggerate any career upsets. To feel vulnerable about the world's reactions to your being different or unusual. The emotional need to be respected for being one's own unique self.

Mercury: To want to share one's own original or unique ideas with the world. A mind that has its own independent connection to spiritual truth.

Venus: In love relationships you want others to respect your freedom, independence, and uniqueness. To appreciate any new and/or innovative ways of expressing spiritual energy. Art that challenges authority.

Mars: To assertively challenge authority. One who is in conflict with the status quo. One who is aggressive and assertive about finding their own path in life.

Jupiter: Success through taking an original approach to one's career. An enthusiasm for fomenting social change. To feel confident about one's own highly individualistic approach to life.

Saturn: A fear of allowing the world to see one's individuality and uniqueness. The tendency to repress urges to rebel against authority. After much soul searching one gradually finds one's own individual path in life.

Chiron: Your vibration helps others to find their own unique path to God, and to be more uninhibited about opening up to spiritual messages. You also have the innate ability to heal feelings of social alienation, and to help others see the value of their own personal uniqueness to the world

Neptune: To have visions about innovations that need to be carried out in the world. A refined way of expressing one's creativity, individuality and uniqueness to the world. To feel uncertain about pursuing one's own individual and independent way in life.

Pluto: A driving urge to be free and open in a highly overt fashion. One is intensely compelled to set up one's own rules, and arrive at one's own ethics and philosophy of life. The potential of drastic rebellion against authority figures and the status quo.

Node: To connect with people who will appreciate and respect one's individuality and independence. In this lifetime one is learning how to be one's own authority.

Ascendant: To present oneself to the world in an independent and dignified manner. The need to share one's original insights with others.

Planets activating the Neptune/Pluto midpoint

Principle: To tap into or be affected by extreme subtleties. The process of refining and transforming energy. Tremendous often overpowering imaginings. Obsessive imaginings and visions. Hallucinations. Profoundly deep idealism. Supernatural occurrences. To be transformed and evolved by one's visions.

Process: Pressure that forces outside the physical realm exert on one for the purpose of furthering one's evolution. The intensification of confusion which impels one eventually toward clarity.

Sun: A person who is highly aware of and conscious of extremely subtle energies, which can potentially have a debilitating effect on their energy, or, when harnessed and directed, an uplifting, harmonizing and vitalizing effect. A person who is intensely idealistic about their goals.

Moon: One who is extremely emotionally sensitive and extremely impressionable to subtle energies, which could cause strange health problems, asthma and allergic reactions being among them. A person who derives security from extreme or profound fantasies, or who feels emotionally attached to intense ideals.

Mercury: One who communicates with great subtlety, which, of course, may be lost on 3 Highlighters-
other people. The communication of intense and powerful fantasies. Thinking which is extremely confused.

Venus: A person who is extremely sensitive when in love, and who may be relentlessly unrealistic about romance. An attraction to powerfully imaginative art. To appreciate the deepest subtleties.

Mars: The ability to assert oneself with extreme subtlety, possibly in a hidden or covert way. To act on the basis of an extreme idealism. The potential of being subtly destructive.

Jupiter: The ability to understand things at an extremely subtle level. The eagerness to explore imaginings with the hope that one can use them for one's own personal evolution.

Saturn: To be afraid of psychic energy and supernatural occurrences. Fears and phobias that are based in intense imaginings. Problems of a subtle nature that can only be discovered by intuitive means and deeply searching into the psyche.

Chiron: A person whose energy helps others to experience subtler levels of reality, and open their consciousness to other planes of being. They also help others to rekindle their ideals and to uplift their minds and hearts to higher levels.

Uranus: Originality manifesting through a powerful imagination that could even have the ability to transform the lives of other people. The carrying out of subtle experiments. The appearance of sudden states of confusion and/or disorientation, or possibly the sudden occurrence of potent visions which may transform one's life.

Node: To connect with others with whom one feels a profound psychic connection. Subtle and hidden energies at work when one connects with people. To seek out those who hold one's same intense ideals as oneself. One is learning in this lifetime to overcome the negative effects of subtle psychic energies, and to relate to those energies in a life supporting and positive way, so that they serve to uplift both the self and all those with whom you come in contact.

Ascendant: One's personality is laden with extreme subtlety. The tendency to not be who one appears to be. To be intensely idealistic about one's identity, and possibly to have extreme imaginings about the self.

Midheaven: The tendency to idealize parent figures and people in authority, and consequently the possibility of being profoundly let down by doing so. Extreme dedication to one's career. To approach one's career work with tremendous imaginativeness and/or subtlety.

Planets activating the Neptune/Node midpoint

Principle: Subtle and/or subliminal connections with people. An intuitive link with others. The need to use one's imagination in the service of one's evolution. Confusion resulting from one's connections with others. The need to heal confusion by tuning in to one's inner spiritual guidance and allowing its clarifying influence to affect one's life.

Process: The progressive development of one's intuitive abilities. The realization of deeper forces at work in one's connections to other people. Deep intuitive insights into one's past help one to overcome it. The allowing of one's intuition to guide one toward those connections and experiences that one most needs.

Sun: One is aware of subtle and hidden connections, and is prone to them influencing one's vitality. This will manifest as either becoming drained of energy or energized by positive spiritual connections.

Moon: The emotional need to connect to people with whom one feels a psychic affinity. To feel vulnerable to subtle influences coming from one's connections. The desire to find nurturing through sharing ideals with others.

Mercury: A mind which makes subtle connections and which can see hidden correlations between phenomena. A need to let go of confused, impractical and/or unrealistic patterns of thinking and to allow one's mind to be directed by one's inner and intuitive spiritual guidance.

Venus: A love of experiencing the subtlest levels of one's connections to others. An appreciation of the delicate or fragile nature of connections. Laziness here may express itself as falling into daydreaming, idle fantasy and/or wishful thinking, though love may inspire one to evolve one's sensitivity and idealism.

Mars: Action hampered by confusing or muddled connections with others.

Anger caused by misunderstandings and/or unrealistic expectations manifesting in one's connection to others. A need to increasingly allow one's actions to be guided by one's intuition, which will automatically cause one to evolve.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm for sharing one's ideals with others. To understand and be able to learn from one's subtle and hidden connections with others and with the world.

Confusion or deception occurring in one's connections with others, and which tend to proliferate and get out of hand.

Saturn: To feel oppressed by others but to not know why. This is probably due to an over-sensitivity and an extreme of psychic receptiveness when one connects to others, and can cause seemingly irrational fears to arise from one's connections. The need to listen to the guidance of one's inner voice, but potential difficulty or uncertainty in doing so.

Uranus: Curious and/or surprising effects resulting from one's psychic sensitivity when connecting with others. A unique ability to intuitively tap in to others and to sense the hidden bonds between you and them.

Pluto: An intense imagination that is in danger of falling into stagnating patterns, or in other ways getting one into trouble. One's life may be transformed by finding life supporting and positive ways of using one's imagination.

Ascendant: Unrealistic imaginings and/or fantasies about the self. Idealizing oneself frustrates one's personal growth. The need to intuitively understand one's identity and what has formed it, and to grow toward an ever deeper identification with one's spiritual self.

Midheaven: To be duped by authority figures, or to idealize them in a way that retards one's personal growth. In one's career one makes subtle, intuitive connections with others. One's spiritual path in this life involves the development of one's intuition.

Planets activating the Neptune/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: To identify with one's ideals. To have a subtle, profound, deep or mysterious personality. Confusion concerning who one is. To be misconstrued by other people, or idealized by them. The ability to experience many different layers within the self. Uncertainty, confusion, deception or other forms of unreality in one's relationships.

Process: The intuitive perception of deeper layers beneath one's identity. The exalting of one's identity so that it carries a high, spiritual energy. Relating to others at increasingly deeper and subtler levels.

Sun: Identifying with one's ideals is a great source of vitality and meaning in one's life. Egotism manifesting as self-idealization.

Moon: To experience temporary states of confusion and moodiness. The emotional need to identify with one's ideals, because they give one a deep feeling of security. To be vulnerable to others idealizing or otherwise misreading oneself. To feel secure when being self-sacrificing toward others.

Mercury: The way one expresses ideas is subtle and imaginative, although it may not be perceived by people who are not sensitive to it.

Venus: To be idealized by the other person in a love relationship. To enjoy fantasizing about the self and/or playing roles. Love expressed with subtlety.

Mars: The ability to be subtly aggressive and to actively deceive others. To be indirect, covert or subtle in the expression of anger. To do things in a delicate or subtle way.

Jupiter: To enthusiastically identify with one's ideals and to eagerly share them with others. To be overly self-sacrificing. Success through taking a delicate, subtle approach to situations.

Saturn: Frustration due to others misunderstanding you. A fear of being confused and/ or uncertain of who one is. A fear of chaos, deception and/or misunderstanding in relationships.

Chiron: To help others to heal by intuitively making them aware of other and deeper levels of their personality, so that their identity is not so tightly or narrowly focused.

Uranus: Perceiving many layers to one's identity give one a sense of creativity. One is able to use the subtleties and depths of one's identity in a creative and/or experimental way.

Pluto: To feel pressured by being confused about who one is. The need to see one's own higher and more ideal aspects. To be uplifted by identifying with one's spiritual self can profoundly change one's life.

Node: One encounters connections with others that cause one to either feel confused or uncertain about who one is, or which help one to tap into the deeper levels of one self, and to ultimately see that one is very much more than any limiting thing with which one identifies.

Midheaven: One's spiritual path in this lifetime has to do with coming into a complete identification with one's spiritual self, a letting go of all illusions and unreal notions about who one is, and allowing spiritual forces to work through one's personality.

Planets activating the Neptune/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: The need to allow one's intuition to guide one's progress. The need to listen to the subtle messages coming from the spiritual realms. Unformed, chaotic or confusing energies affecting one's career, which can be resolved the more one listens to and follows one's intuition. A career involving idealism and/ or the use of one's imagination, or possibly one involving humanitarian work.

Process: The dedication of oneself to the bettering and uplifting of society. The sharing of one's vision with the world. The free gift of sympathy to all.

Sun: The need to perceive the meaning inherent in the overall patterns in one's life. One feels it is highly meaningful and important to be idealistic about one's career, and to select a career that will benefit and uplift others in some way.

Moon: The emotional need to have a career you can really feel dedicated to. Your ability to intuit how to spiritually advance yourself comes and goes, and you need to be sensitive to these cycles, so that you know that even though you sometimes feel not so spiritually connected you will experience a deeper connection soon. When you feel emotionally down you may get into negative imaginings about your career.

Mercury: To communicate in a spiritually high-minded way. The ability to align your mind and communication with subtle messages coming from the spiritual realms.

Venus: An appreciation of high-mindedness and of spiritual idealism. A love of presenting an idealized version of yourself to the world. The need for a love relationship that reinforces one's spiritual ideals.

Mars: Anger over not being able to manifest one's ideals in the world. Working hard on idealistic projects. One's actions rendered ineffective by an unrealistic approach to one's work.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm that is ineffective because it is based on an unrealistic and/or ungrounded approach to one's career work. Success through humanitarian work. The ability to trust one's intuitions about how to proceed in one's work.

Saturn: To be cautious and careful about not being too unrealistic and idealistic about one's career goals. The need to take seriously the intuitions one's has about one's work and one's own spiritual development. To suffer restrictions or letdowns concerning one's career ideals.

Chiron: Your energy naturally and spontaneously helps others to be more intuitive about what they need for their own spiritual development, and to perceive at subtler levels their spiritual place in the world.

Uranus: A genius for take an intuitive and subtle approach to one's career. Unexpected confusion arising in one's work. The ability to be very creative and ingenious about manifesting one's ideals through one's work.

Pluto: A tremendous idealism about one's career. The potential of sharing one's powerful visions with the world. One's life is transformed by being open and receptive to spiritual messages that come to one.

Node: The need to connect with people who share your same career ideals and aspirations. Working for others who are working for humanity.

Ascendant: One identifies strongly with one's career ideals. One may identify with unrealistic and/or impractical career ideals.

Planets activating the Pluto/Node midpoint

Principle: An intensely strong pull toward the past and its situations. The need to overcome this so that one may make progress. A tremendous tug-o-war between the past and the future. Connecting with others who have a huge impact on you and with whom you may experience power struggles.

Process: The intensifying of one's connections with others for the purpose of breaking through limitations and restrictions and furthering evolution. The remaking of the past through the changing of one's attitude toward it. Giving in to the compulsion to evolve.

Sun: One feels it is meaningful and important to connect with people who have much power, and/or to have intense connections with others. The need to not allow the past to get in the way of one's fulfilling one's goals.

Moon: To feel vulnerable to the power of other people. To feel the past as being on the one hand oppressive and yet to be extremely drawn to remaining connected to it. The need to be very careful about who one forms connections with, and to try to seek out others who will truly meet one's needs to be nurtured in a way that encourages one's personal growth rather than the development of dependency.

Mercury: The ability to make intense and highly vivid connections when one communicates. A mind that is trying to synthesize the past with the future.

Venus: A love of connecting intensely with other people. To have a love relationship with someone who tries to dominate you, or whom you try to dominate.

Mars: Aggressively and assertively trying to undo the past so that you are freed to grow. Conflicts with people who are trying to dominate you or who you are trying to dominate.

Jupiter: To be enthusiastic about having intense connections with people but possibly to go too far in this, causing stress and possibly damaging the connection. One is learning in this lifetime how to use power in a new way.

Saturn: A fear of powerful connections with other people, and a tendency to feel oppressed or restricted by them. The feeling that there is no way to avoid the changes that need to be made in one's life, and the tendency to feel great stress and pressure until those changes are under way.

Chiron: One helps others to get go of the past and to embrace the future, often in ways and to an extent that they never thought they could. The ability to spontaneously evoke in others memories of the past that need to be released.

Uranus: A genius for having an intense and/or extreme impact on those with whom one connects. The need to be liberated from power struggles with other people and to break one's inhibiting and limiting ties with the past.

Neptune: To have vivid sometimes overwhelming imaginings about one's past, and potentially about the traumatic situations one has been through. One is intuitively aware of pressures and intensities going on between themselves and those with whom they connect. To feel confused about the power struggles that go on between you and other people. The possibility of obsessively idealizing the past. Your intuition can guide you toward making far-reaching changes that will help you to grow.

Ascendant: The need to give in to the changes that one's personality needs to go through, but the tendency to obsessively hold on to old ways of being and of defining the self due to a fear of self loss. When you allow yourself to let go of identifying with things that no longer serve your evolution you become tremendously empowered.

Midheaven: What you are needing to work toward in this lifetime is the making of connections with life in general and other people specifically that are intense and trans formational and which serve to further your evolution. The spiritual light pressures you to connect with it, which creates stress until you give in to it and are then empowered by it.

Planets activating the Pluto/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: When you identify with something you do so intensely and obsessively. You may come across as a powerful person, either overtly or in a subtle manner. The need to allow one's personality to evolve, but the tendency to cling to particular ways of defining the self and to have immense difficulties in letting go of or changing them.

Struggling with one's self concept, which can create power struggles in relationships.

Process: The intensification of the personality to the point of creating mutations within it. The realization of both extremes of power and weakness within one's identity.

Sun: To be able to come across intensely and powerfully to others, but to do so in a purposeful way and with a strong sense of meaningful direction. Egotism manifesting as an intimidating and/or overpowering personality.

Moon: The emotional need for intense connections with other people. To feel extremely vulnerable about all you dislike about yourself. One goes through cycles of very intense and possibly stressful interactions with others.

Mercury: The ability to put one's ideas across to others with a lot of personal intensity. The way you speak, write, and communicate in general has about it the aura of being one with a strong and distinctive personality.

Venus: A love of coming across with a lot of intensity, and of people who also do this. To appreciate pressures in one's own and others' personalities, as well as appreciating the process of one's personality transforming.

Mars: Whatever one does carries a strong aura of personal uniqueness and power, though it may intimidate other people. Anger over your own personality and forces in it which you can't seem to get away from or change. To work hard to change oneself.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm which can manifest in an overpowering and/or intimidating way. To be eager and optimistic about the positive outcome of intense encounters with others, and about the potential of positively changing oneself.

Saturn: To fear and repress one's own personal power, and/or to feel oppressed by it. To feel unable to change oneself and/or to let go of worn out or no longer needed elements of one's identity. To feel very serious about intense interactions with others.

Chiron: One's energy spontaneously brings out intensity in others, and can help them to see themselves in a new way and to let go of no longer needed personality traits.

Uranus: One's unique characteristics manifest in a highly intense manner. Strange and unexpected transformations in one's personality. An intense identification with some thing of an unusual or bizarre nature. A genius for coming across to others in a vivid, powerful or potent manner.

Neptune: Intense and even obsessive identification with one's ideals and/or imaginings. Subtle transformations occurring in one's personality.

Node: The need to let go of over-identifying with the past and to be open to spiritual forces transforming one's identity. One connects to people and situations that have an intense impact on one's sense of selfhood.

Midheaven: Either to allow spiritual forces to strengthen and clarify one's identity, or to fall prey to obsessive identification with worldly success.

Planets activating the Pluto/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: To be transformed and empowered by being open and receptive to spiritual forces. An intense and relentless pursuit of one's spiritual path, or to pursue worldly success with the same intensity. Power struggles with employers and/or those in authority. To be obsessed with the need for security, and ultimately to find true security in spiritual realities.

Process: The craving to find a truly meaningful place in the world. The desire to wield social power, either for selfish and egotistical reasons, or for the purpose of positively transforming the world.

Sun: To realize the importance of pursuing one's spiritual path at all costs. One's ego may be caught up in an obsessive desire to achieve worldly success. One's goal and purpose is to transform the world.

Moon: To feel vulnerable to powerful authority figures. An emotional yearning to align oneself with the Spiritual Light. To alternate between moods of security and insecurity concerning one's place in the world and what one is needing to achieve in this lifetime.

Mercury: Thinking that seeks ultimate values and realities. To communicate in a powerfully authoritative manner. To be clever in dealing with power struggles with authorities. A mind that has an obsessive need to get to the bottom of things.

Venus: To be attracted to those in authority or people who wield much power. In love relationships one feels an extreme need to be respected and looked up to. Love relationships can make you feel intensely or obsessively insecure, and/or shake your foundations of security.

Mars: Working hard to create security in one's life and/or to build a reputation and career. To be very active and assertive concerning finding one's spiritual path and advancing spiritually.

Jupiter: An enthusiasm for and optimism about changing the world. The desire to either expand one's worldly power or spiritual power.

Saturn: A fear of power struggles with authority figures. Frustration concerning the difficulties one encounters when trying to align oneself with one's spiritual path. The ability to effect changes in the world through being cautious and focused.

Chiron: One's vibration helps others to see the true source of their security and hence to let go of their insecurities. The ability to heal through helping others to become more attuned to spiritual realities.

Uranus: An unexpected and maybe surprising opening up to spiritual realities. The freeing up of circumstances that leads to a transformation in one's career. Sudden episodes of extreme insecurity, or opening up to finding much deeper security. Unique and/or strange experiences that completely alter the basis of one's security and maybe change how one views the world.

Neptune: Fantasies about changing the world. The need to tune in to one's inner intuitive voice as a means of contacting spiritual realities. Obsessive insecurities that may be caused by disruptive psychic forces and also which may have no basis in actual physical reality.

Node: To be drawn people who can help one find one's spiritual path, possibly through the stress and pressure they generate in one's life. A strong need to shift one's focus from seeking worldly power to a quest for spiritual power that can be used to help others.

Ascendant: One has a strong need to be respected and/or to be seen as a powerful person. A personality fraught with intense insecurities. One's limited sense of who one is may stand in the way of being able to allow spiritual forces in to one's life. The need to let go of basic assumptions about the self that are restrictive and hence prevent one's following one's spiritual path.

Planets activating the Node/Ascendant midpoint

Principle: The ability to let go of one's ties and attachments with the past and to then allow the identity to re-form in a way more in alignment with one's true, spiritual self. This combination is an index of the extent to which one's connections with others affect one's sense of who one is.

Process: The letting go of past identities and the forming of a new one which will serve one's current process of spiritual evolution. The seeking of connections with people who will support one's identity, either in a healthy, evolutionary way, or in a way that serves to retard the growth of one's identity.

Sun: To be aware of and objective about how one's connections to others affect one's identity. At worst one chooses connections that build one's ego and sense of self-importance and which reinforce one's ties to the past.

Moon: The emotional need to seek out connections with others that reinforce one's identity. The problem is that you may be attracted toward those who actually encourage you to be more tied to the past so that your growth is inhibited, and you may do this because the connection feels nurturing when in fact it ultimately isn't.

Mercury: A mind strongly influenced by identifying with the past on the one hand, but which is, on the other, aware of the need for growth and progress.

A mind limited and restricted by clinging to old and worn-out concepts about the self, but which can become clear, powerful when it opens to the possibilities of growth and change of one's self-concept.

Venus: Relationships that encourage one to grow, or which may encourage one to betray oneself by avoiding evolution. The latter type will always eventually feel more and more unfulfilling, which will encourage one to seek the former. The ability to appreciate how one's identity has been formed by one's past, as well as perceiving the need to allow one's identity to grow. True love enlarges the identity.

Mars: The need to take chances when one acts and to let go of limited and/or restricted beliefs about what one is or isn't capable of. Striving either to hold on to old aspects of one's identity, or to build a new identity for oneself.

Jupiter: Enthusiasm for allowing one's personality and self-concept to grow. Negatively to overcompensate for problems which arise in one's life by trying to hold on more and more tightly to old ways of seeing and defining oneself.

Saturn: To be afraid of letting go of parts of one's identity that need to change. Frustration and/or sorrow about one's identity being attached to the past. Slow, careful and gradual growth of the personality.

Chiron: One's vibration spontaneously helps others to relate to their own past in a more healing manner and to identify more strongly with those energies which will most help them to evolve.

Uranus: Allowing oneself to be free, open, and uninhibited helps one to let go of the past and to see oneself in new and life-supporting ways. An intense desire to free one self from the past, but often rebellion only attaches one to it more closely. Sudden and surprising changes in the growth of one's personality, and the more one allows these to happen the greater the benefit one will receive from them.

Neptune: The ability to see the subtleties of how one's identity has been formed by one's past, as well as to perceive the hidden and/or concealed energies that have formed one's sense of self. The development of one's intuition tends to help one to see oneself in a new, more expanded and more spiritual way.

Pluto: To feel an intense identification with the past, and the need to look deeply at that attachment so that you may come to a true understanding of it. The past does not allow you to overlook or avoid it — it must be dealt with before you can move on, and you have an obsessive, overpowering need to move on. To be potentially impacted by how others see you, either for better or worse.

Midheaven: Spiritual development is either enhanced or impeded by how one sees oneself. Allowing one's personality to continually die to what it no longer needs and to re-form in a way that is increasingly attuned to spiritual realities is one's path in this lifetime.

Planets activating the Node/Midheaven midpoint

Principle: Old ways of relating to and being in the world vs. new ways of doing so. The evolution of one's link to spiritual energies and of one's spiritual awareness. Connecting to one's spiritual self. Negatively this combination may represent the tendency to fall back on limited notions about spirituality, and, out of fear, to seek limited and superficial security rather than growth.

Process: The letting go of old worn-out forms of security and the adopting of new ones. The growth of one's positive and supportive relationship to authorities and authority figures, and the letting go of biases and limited concepts one no longer needs.

Sun: One perceives the importance of growing spiritually in terms of how one relates to the world. Fear can trigger egotism that causes one to cling to old ways of relating to the world. One feels empowered when connected to one's spiritual path.

Moon: Emotional insecurities cause one to cling to old ways of relating to the world, or, one finally realizes that one's true emotional needs are to grow into a more expanded and spiritual way of relating to it.

Mercury: One's thinking and communication are infused with a connectedness to spiritual realities. Negatively, cleverness and rationalizations are used to keep one attached to old ways of relating to the world. A mind limited by its attachment to its insecurities.

Venus: Love causes one to grow in terms of how one relates to the world. A desire for comfort and superficial gratification causes one to hold on to old ways of looking at the world. An appreciation of how the world needs to grow and evolve. Smooth and positive connections with authority figures.

Mars: Working hard to advance one's position in the world. To be conflicted about clinging to old ways of being in the world versus new more progressive and evolution ary ways. The desire to align one's efforts with progressive spiritual values.

Jupiter: To be enthusiastic about connecting to the world. Success in evolving toward a stronger connection to one's spiritual path. A rich, full manner of connecting to all of re ality. The encouragement of progress in the world.

Saturn: Frustration concerning progress in one's career and one's relationship to the world. The needs for a focused and steady approach to connecting to the world in a more spiritual manner. The fear of making progress in one's career.

Chiron: One's vibration helps others to be more connected to spiritual energies, and to find true security, as well as let go of old sources of security that no longer serve per sonal growth.

Uranus: The ability to connect to the world in a highly unusual, individualistic, unique, or strange manner. One's path of growth toward greater spirituality is possibly sur prising and certainly not of the norm. The need to liberate oneself from conservative notions.

Neptune: Confusion as to how to progress in one's work or one's spiritual path, and possibility to have unrealistic or impractical notions about these things.

Pluto: One feels an intense inner compulsion to grow in terms of one's relationship to the world, and/or to make progress in one's career and/or spiritual work. To feel an ob sessive need to hold on to old sources of security.

Ascendant: One's identity is based on holding on to old sources of security. Being able to identify oneself as one who progresses along one's spiritual path is extremely fulfill ing, though means that one will have to let go of more and more as one evolves.

Planets activating the Ascendant/M id heaven midpoint

Principle: The ability to integrate greater and greater amounts of wisdom and knowl edge into one's personality. The ways in which one's personality either serves and fosters one's evolution or limits it. The pressure which the Spiritual Light exerts on the personality to induce its growth. The growth of the understanding of the meaning and purpose of all one's relationships. At worst this combination may manifest as a schism between the real self and the idealized self, rendering progress very difficult. At best the idealized self gradually seeps into the real self, transforming, enlarging and uplifting it. Identification with one's career.

Process: The increasing ability to allow one's identity to be determined, conditioned and guided by spiritual forces. Allowing one's identity more and more to exemplify and express one's spiritual self.

Sun: The ability to be conscious and objective about one's own evolution. The need for one's major goals in life to be one's that further one's development rather than just safely and easily reachable ones. Egotism standing in the way of personal progress.

Moon: Staying in tune with one's emotions and maintaining awareness of what is going on in one's inner life enhances positive personality changes and promotes personal growth. Spiritual progress may come through leading a simple life or through the carrying out of ordinary tasks, or through nurturing and emotionally supporting other people. One's feelings about one's place in the world may fluctuate continually.

Mercury: How one thinks about things and the ideas that one adopts either serve to enhance or frustrate personal growth. Enhancement happens when one is willing to let go of ideas that no longer serve one, and remain flexible in one's thinking. Otherwise this combination might degenerate into a mere cleverness at avoiding personal growth.

Venus: The continual enlarging and refining of one's ability to love and to appreciate life furthers soul growth. Negatively, one may retard one's personal progress through laziness or an over attachment to comfort and what is easy. Superficial pleasures and loves may be in danger of retarding one's evolution.

Mars: Working to evolve. Either one finds effective ways of constructively evolving, or one does too much or works too hard or is impatient and impulsive in such a way that spiritual progress is frustrated or slowed. One needs to not over-identify with the fruits of one's efforts, or with one's failures.

Jupiter: An overcompensating personality frustrates spiritual growth. One is enthusiastic to evolve, but if one engages in excessive effort along these lines then evolution may be retarded. One is given many chances in this lifetime to grow, and needs to make use of them rather than waste them, but must also beware of spreading oneself too thinly and of becoming involved in too many things. Excess here frustrates progress.

Saturn: A feeling that there is an unbridgeable rift between who one is versus who one wants to be and could be. Spiritual progress wants to be slow, steady, and grounded. Identifying with negativity cuts one off from spiritual progress.

Chiron: One's vibration helps others to subtly align their identity more closely to their spiritual self. Chiron heals on this midpoint by helping others (to the extent they are ready and can) see beyond the limits of their own identity into the greater spiritual realities beyond.

Uranus: One evolves through allowing oneself to be one's own unique self and to be free. Evolution may happen suddenly and/or erratically and through the vehicle of inspiration. One may have an unusual relationship to spiritual realities, and this can help others to see life and reality in a new and fresh way.

Neptune: Tuning in to subtle energies and developing one's psychic sensing can greatly further the spiritualizing of one's personality. As one sees subtler and subtler aspects of one's identity one is able to let go of limiting self-notions and rise above the restrictions of one's personality. Identifying more and more with cosmic realities serves to further the spiritual work one is engaging in in this lifetime.

Pluto: One has extremely strong personality traits which can cause one to resist spir itual growth, if one is fearful, but which can help one to grow if one is willing to delve into the depths of one's obsessions to understand and release them at a very deep level.

Node: One is growing into being able to be more and more deeply aware of the limits of one's personality and the way in which it allows in or shuts out spiritual energy. The need to let go of old and worn-out self concepts and how they cause one to relate to the world and let a new identity continuously form, an identity determined by one's cur rent spiritual needs.